BRUNKER TELLS GRAND JURY HE IS MISQUOTED

But His Statement Attacks Judiciary.

Albert R. Brunker, chairman of the civic safety committee, yesterday is reported to have denied practically all of the quotations credited to him by the Boston Post in a speech he made last week before the Boston City club. Brunker was questioned for three hours before the special grand jury by Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Hoffer and Charles Lounsbury.

The information leaked from the grand jury room that Brunker was given permission by the jurors to go to his office and prepare a statement clearing those who might have come within his reported charge that "87 per cent of the judges are criminals and 6,000 to 8,000 public officials are on Capone's pay rolls." In view of the arrangement for this statement the prosecutors, the judge, and the grand jurors were silent on the details of Brunker's testimony.

Misquoted, Brunker Says.

Brunker issued the statement, explaining that he had been misquoted in reference to the judges, but continued to maintain that many of them are "unfitted to sit on the bench," and have been subject to the "dictates of vicious political bosses."

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, who has taken a prominent part in the efforts to redeem the reputation of Chicago, is expected to call today for a showdown on the Brunker testimony in view of the renewed charges in the statement. Many of the judges, assistant state's attorneys, and other law enforcing officials, smarting under the general charges attributed to Brunker, are reported to have insisted that some official statement be made clarifying the situation.

McGoorty Demands Action.

It was Judge McGoorty who insisted that Brunker be taken before a grand jury and given an opportunity to substantiate his charges. The judge at the time said that it was such statements, broadcast to the country, which were responsible for the reputation of the city abroad.

From the grand jury room came word that Brunker was questioned in detail about the purported charges in his Boston speech. He was asked for one specific instance within his knowledge of a crooked judicial act; for concrete proof of the charge that thousands of officials were on the Capone pay roll, and that the North Clark street massacre was committed by policemen. He was asked about the charge that a police commissioner told him he would be killed if he did not "lay off." To each question Brunker is reported to have replied that he had no evidence. He also was asked about his alleged charge that the facts about the Lingle case were being hushed up.

Insists Upon Secrecy.

"In connection with my testimony relative to the Lingle and St. Valentine day murders, which I mentioned in my speech in Boston, the jury pledged me to absolute secrecy, and I am unable to discuss that testimony," said Brunker in opening his statement of his appearance before the jury.

"In connection with the alleged statement about the judiciary, I explained to the jury that many of my closest friends in this community are sitting judges for whom I have a profound admiration and respect. I made no mention of the judiciary in my speech. After the speech was over some one asked me whether Chicago judges were appointed by the governor, as in Massachusetts, or elected.

"I replied that the judges were elected by means of slates prepared by ward committeemen, who in the past, had at times been subject to the dictation of vicious political bosses, working in full accord with each other. The natural result of this was that a number of judges were unfitted to sit on the bench, either in character or legal knowledge, and were subject to a great extent, to the dictates of the political powers that put them on the bench."

To support the statement about the judges he cited the bail bond investigation, which resulted in the indictment of some professional bondsmen.

Tells of Capone Talk.

Brunker, in his statement, said that the records of the Philadelphia prison will show that he spent several hours talking with Capone there. He said he mentioned the source of his figures to the nation's booze bill to his Boston audience, but he also said that the $2,000,000,000 figure sounded ridicu-

QUAKE AND FIRE RUIN CITY; MANY FEARED DEAD

Thousands Homeless in New Zealand.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Feb. 3.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—A terrific earthquake which struck the city of Napier at 8:51 o'clock this morning knocked down many buildings, set numerous fires and apparently caused thousands to be homeless. It is feared there has been a great loss of life.

The quake was felt over the whole of the Hawke bay region, on the east coast of North island about 150 miles northeast of Wellington, and apparently brought an upheaval in the sea, for steamers which were putting out were tossed on the waters.

Warships Rush to Aid.

As fires began raging in the center of Napier, bluejackets were landed from the British sloop Veronica to assist in relief work. The ship broadcast calls for assistance. The warships Diomede and Dunedin set out from Auckland with doctors, nurses and medical supplies.

Nearly every stone building was destroyed in Napier, a city of 14,346 population.

First messages from the Veronica said that a loss of life was certain, although the sloop gave no figures.

Eye Witness Tells of Loss.

A man who witnessed the quake in Napier rushed to Dannevirke, an inland town about 70 miles southwest of the stricken city, and telephoned to Wellington that the loss of life must have been considerable. He said he saw long lines of casualties in the town, which looked as if it had undergone a great bombardment. All the large buildings in the center of the town were razed and the postoffice was largely in ruins, he declared.

Earthquakes frequently are felt in the various parts of New Zealand but seldom do much damage because much of the country is sparsely settled. North Island is covered with mountains of volcanic origin and there are several volcanoes which are alive. The island has numerous hot geysers and boiling sulphur springs which are sought for their medicinal properties.

Ships Radio Quake Reports.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 3.—[Tuesday]—(AP)—Radio reports from ships assert that great damage resulted on North Island of New Zealand from terrific earthquakes early this morning.

The shocks were recorded in Riverview observatory here, beginning at 8:51 a. m. today and lasting two hours. They were considered the worst since June 17, 1929. The 1929 shocks created much damage in the Karamea region on the west coast of South Island.

Landslides extended for miles and the region was cut off from the outside world, while the ocean bed at the white cliffs of Karamea was reported to have risen nearly 100 feet over a distance of about a mile. Hundreds of homes of settlers in outlying districts were destroyed and in some places entire towns were evacuated.

Quake Rocks Honolulu.

HONOLULU, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A sharp earthquake was felt in Honolulu today. The University of Hawaii seismograph showed the tremor reached its maximum intensity at 12:55 p. m. [7:55 p. m. Chicago time], and at 1:30 p. m. the quake still was registering. Officials of the university said they believed the epicenter was 4,500 miles distant in the direction of New Zealand.

LADY DECIES, DAUGHTER OF G. J. GOULD, DIES

LONDON, Feb. 3 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Lady Decies, the former Helen Vivian Gould, daughter of the late George Jay Gould of New York, died in London this morning. She had been critically ill here for several days.

The marriage of Miss Gould to Baron Decies, fifth of his line, linked English nobility to a family that wrote its name into American history. Lady Decies was a daughter of the late George Jay Gould, capitalist and railway president, and granddaughter of the Jay Gould whose spectacular rise from surveyor to financial potentate stirred America in the troublous days after the civil war.

Her brilliant marriage in New York in 1911, when she was a girl of 19, set the country agog. Her reception at the British court was a triumph. She appeared before the king and queen in a white satin gown embroidered in diamonds, pearls, and crystals, and a train rich with silver lilies and ermine. There followed a series of balls, dinners, and other social events to which the élite of London thronged.

During the world war she was active in Red Cross work in London. In 1914 a report circulated that she had been injured by a German air bomb at Dunkirk, but this proved untrue.

Lady Decies had one son and two daughters.

DOCTOR REMOVES NUT LODGED IN BABY'S WINDPIPE

Some one gave Roland Cooper, 2½ years old, 3918 North Hamlin avenue, a handful of peanuts yesterday and when the youngster ate the nuts one of them lodged in his windpipe.

Toward evening Roland showed symptoms of choking; and his parents took him to the County hospital. An emergency operation was performed by Dr. Robert Lennon, but the condition was not relieved. The child's condition grew worse, and Dr. Lennon called in Dr. Carl Schaub to perform what is know medically as a bronchioscopy.

With the aid of a bronchoscope, Dr. Schaub found the obstruction at the point where the windpipe divides into two tubes to go to the lungs. Three minutes after the nut was found, it was removed, and Roland was reported on the road to recovery last night.

HUNDREDS CAMP OUT TO SEE DO-X HOP OFF AT DAWN

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.]

GANDO, Canary Isles, Feb. 2.—The flying boat DO-X flew fifteen miles south from Las Palmas today to this small port and is expected to hop off for the Cape Verde islands at dawn tomorrow on its way to Brazil.

Last minute fueling difficulties today held up the departure until 9 a. m., when it was considered too late to start today's scheduled jump. Capt. Christianson decided, however, to fly to this smaller port, where the water is calm, for refueling.

Hundreds followed the craft here and are camping out tonight to see her hop off at dawn. The DO-X is considered a wonder object by the islanders, who have little excitement to vary their semi-tropical existence.

Labor Unions Call General Strike in Cuba

BULLETIN.

HAVANA, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A general strike has been called for Havana at 6 p. m. tomorrow in protest at political developments here, including recent suspension of newspapers, suspension of constitutional guarantees and imprisonment of students. Labor organizations decided in separate meetings tonight to quit work for an indeterminate period at 6 p. m. Their action was precipitated by the senate authorization today to President Machado to continue the suspension of constitutional guarantees after the expiration of the first suspension period of 60 days.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Feb. 2.—In a proclamation tonight to the peoples of Cuba and foreign countries President Machado attributes the recent disorders and turmoil here to a deep laid plot of communists at Moscow to strike indirectly at the United States.

The 3,000 word manifesto, which the president asserts is supported by detailed documentary evidence, says the country faces the worst crisis he has known in thirty years of public life. He calls on the people to aid the government in riding the country of the communist menace.

The communist plan, according to President Machado, is to achieve a moral and strategic victory by overturning the government of a close neighbor of the United States.

"Cuba Faces Greatest Crisis."

The proclamation says, in part:

"Thirty years of participation in Cuban crises have taken me through many varied worries, triumphs, great glories, and responsibilities. No crisis has been worse than that facing Cuba today—a crisis which is rapidly driving the nation toward misleading paths, should we persist in erring.

"Deep at the bottom of our troubles is a scourge that lives and thrives on an implacable communist aggression directed by powerful, hidden foreign powers and developed in Cuba, so that the republic may prove a visible example of this work, due to our privileged position with reference to the continent and its proximity to and historic relations with the United States.

Claims He Possesses Proof.

"The government has extensive and documentary proof of all my statements. A simple glance over the reports of the secret information of the Third Internationale's organization here will prove how deeply our sovereignty is endangered today. We have discovered and admit we are today suffering from strict and rigorous soviet tactics, in accordance with instructions received by its delegates in the Fifth congress, held in Moscow.

"This congress, we have full proof, has ordered its delegates to work on scholastic organizations, to institute revolutionary propaganda in universities, to conquer feminine organizations, to create small, persistent strikes, popular manifestations, protests, and disorders.

"Lack of acquaintance on the part of the government with the forms of agitation probably is to blame, in part, for the strange hold that bolshevism has taken on Cuba."

The executive ends his 2,000 word proclamation with an appeal to the people to cooperate with him in ridding the country of its undesirable elements in order to return the nation to normalcy.

Tonight President Machado was given the right to impose the law of public order, similar to martial law, when the senate invested him with the power to suspend constitutional guarantees indefinitely. He will assume this power on Wednesday's expiration of the sixty day suspension now in force. He is using this means to insure peace and order.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Dear public: Al Capone has been ordered out of this neighborhood so many times that he is still here, and the other night he gave a dinner party that was novel and really a big improvement on most affairs of the kind. There were twenty-six men and four women, which is just about the right proportion. They were all friends of Al's, but none of them was acquainted with any of the others. Al didn't take the trouble to introduce them and nobody had to talk to anybody else. I saw one of the guests afterwards and got the impression that the Capone winter home is not in the drought area. RING LARDNER.

GO SWIMMING AND PLAY GOLF IN WESTERN CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Regina, Sask., Feb. 2.—A Cedar Rapids, Ia., man after reading an item in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE about caterpillars in western Canada during January wrote to Regina's chief of police he was sorry the weather "romancers" had moved out of Iowa into "foreign" territory.

He may be skeptical, but all over the west February was ushered in with golf, baseball, swimming, and other outdoor sports. A grasshopper has been seen. Farmers are even threshing in Alberta—but it is no farmers' romance, either. The weather man forecasts continued mildness.

Hot in Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Thousands thronged to bathing resorts today as the temperature went a trifle above 97 degrees Fahrenheit in the hottest day of the summer. Newspapers recalled that this was the anniversary of the terrific heat wave of 1900, when army ambulances were utilized to aid in handling 2,000 cases of prostration.

H. H. Maier Kills Himself in City Hall

H. H. Maier, a close personal follower of Mayor Thompson, shot and killed himself late yesterday afternoon in the chambers of Municipal Judge William R. Fetzer on the ninth floor of the city hall. Friends of Maier, who was known as "Doc" to many officials in the city hall, attributed the suicide to despondency over ill health and financial reverses.

Maier's body was found slumped in a chair in the empty chambers by Janitor Clark Buster, colored, who had unlocked the door to clean the room. As soon as the police had been called Health Commissioner Kegel was summoned and pronounced him dead. He had shot himself in the right temple, the bullet passing through the head. The bullet was found on the floor.

Mystery on Time Matter.

An element of mystery was given to the shooting by the statement of Ike Weil, acting bailiff for Judge Fetzer for the day, that no one had been in the room at 4:45 p. m. when he locked the doors and left. The janitor said he had unlocked the door at 4:55 p. m. and immediately discovered Maier's body.

Weil told Sergt Charles Reynolds of Coroner Bundesen's staff that the key to the door was kept in a drawer in the courtroom proper. It was explained that Maier, who also was an acquaintance of Judge Fetzer, may have known of its presence. Besides the entrance from the courtroom to the chambers, there is a door leading into the court clerk's file room. This door also was locked.

Gun Found Under Body.

Henry L. Porsche, chief deputy coroner, and Sergt. Reynolds said that in their opinion it was undoubtedly a suicide. They found the revolver on the floor beneath Maier's body. In his pockets there were $90 and a receipt showing that he had been living at the Hotel Sherman. An identification was made by James W. Breen, first assistant corporation counsel, and Ald. Oscar F. Nelson.

D. R. Ganey, manager of the Triangle Automobile company, 2229 South Michigan avenue, of which Maier was a stockholder, said that Maier had been ill for some time. He had suffered a nervous breakdown, relatives said.

Former Drug Store Owner.

Friends of Maier said that he had gained the name "Doc" several years ago when he owned a drug store on the north side. More recently he was connected with a citizens' good road committee and for the last four years, according to Breen, had been with the Triangle company. He was credited with being a co-sponsor in the giving of banquets to public officials after Thompson's return to office in 1927 when banquets were in favor. He is a brother of Al B. Maier of Al B. Maier & Co., automobile tire dealer, at 6019 Broadway.

At one time Maier was an official of radio station WHT. He was said to have been separated from his wife and to have suffered financial losses. The late Fred Mann, who also was a close friend of Thompson's, was said to have suffered financial losses also. Mann shot himself to death in Lincoln park.

Leaps to Her Death.

Leaving a note that, "I'm going to end all this," Mrs. Adella Howig, 32 years old, 8128 Essex avenue, yesterday afternoon left her home presumably to market at nearby grocery stores, and leaped to her death from the roof of an eight story apartment building at 2860 East 76th street. Why she chose that building was a matter that interested Grand Crossing police. They were questioning all the tenants last night.

Mrs. Howig's husband, Carl, was said to have left the city Sunday. A colored maid at the home said Mrs. Howig had been ill for a time, but was believed to have recovered. There are two children, Donald, 2½ years old, and Molly, 8.

FUND FOR NEEDY, HE WARNS, OR AN EXTRA SESSION

Heads the Fight for Direct Relief.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WILLIAM E. BORAH.

Following after a speech by Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], in which the President—in the words of his own statement of last December—was charged with "playing politics with human misery," Senator Borah's declaration of war on the administration was greeted with cheers and applause from the Democrats, from his insurgent colleagues, and from the crowded galleries.

"They Shall Not Pass."

"I am perfectly willing to say that not another appropriation bill shall pass this body until the hungry are fed, until the sick are taken care of, until the government of the United States has met its obligations to its distressed and hungry citizens," he shouted, and senators leaped to their feet and shouted back their approval in such a demonstration as is seldom allowed to upset the dignity of the senate.

So tonight, with only 26 working days left between now and March 4, the ranks of the Democrat-insurgent coalition stand solid and it is up to the President and his leaders in the administration ruled house to find a way through or around.

Insurgents Answer Tilson.

Senator Borah's speech and that of Senator Caraway were the coalition's answers to a week-end filled in with statements by administration house leaders—among them Representatives Tilson, majority leader, and Snell, chairman of the rules committee—upholding the President and denouncing the $25,000,000 Red Cross relief appropriation now hanging fire in a conference committee.

The house leaders' statements were in turn an answer to the filibuster threat made last Friday by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], senate minority leader.

"We are told in the morning papers," Senator Borah said, "that this matter involves a great principle and that there must be no surrender. So far as I am individually concerned, I am willing to regard it as a principle. I am willing to accept the challenge. I am willing to take it to the American people. I want to know whether this government will take care of its citizens when they have been grievously afflicted by an act of God."

Ready for Extra Session.

He called attention to the statement of "the spokesman of the body at the other end of the capitol," that the house does not desire and the country should be saved from an extra session.

"Certainly it should, if in holding an extra session, they display no better conception of the fundamental principles of humanity than they have in this instance," Senator Borah asserted. "I think we ought to have an extra session. As I have often said, I have not been disposed to take advantage of the senate's right of unlimited debate to force an extra session. But now that the challenge has been thrown down, I am perfectly willing to accept an extra session."

He asserted that those in need were not being taken care of by the Red Cross. It was absurd to think, he declared, that the million and a half sufferers in the drought area and the five or six million unemployed could be cared for with from eight to ten million dollars.

"So I say," he cried, "let us have it out. I do not propose, as a member of this body, to surrender upon that principle. I do not propose to accept the implication and the slur. We will either feed these people or we will stay here and tell the American people why we do not feed them."

Caraway Opens Attack.

Earlier, Senator Caraway had said: "I want to ask some questions."

He recalled how Mr. Hoover had asked for appropriations for European sufferers and how Tilson and Snell had voted for such an appropriation of twenty millions in 1919. He recalled that Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.] had asked for and received an appropriation of $200,000 to assist sufferers in the Salem, Mass., fire.

Senator Caraway harked back to the President's message of last Dec. 4, when he had declared it a duty to see that no deserving person suffered from hunger or cold.

"President Hoover," he cried, "do you mean what you said then or do you mean now that they are not deserving citizens? Or are you playing politics with human misery?

"And I want to ask John Barton Payne," he went on, "to tell us who dictated the resolution declining the federal appropriation."

Mr. Caraway said that Representative Tilson had haunted the senate until his [Tilson's] brother had been confirmed as a federal judge in Georgia —"a job for life at the expense of the federal treasury."

"It is more honorable to accept fifty cents a week for food," he declared, "than to haunt congress for a job for one's brother. I am not being polite; I don't intend to be."

The Red Cross reported today that contributions to its $10,000,000 fund had passed the halfway mark and now totaled $5,069,000.

INDIANA IDLE GO TO LEGISLATURE TO ASK FOR AID

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Request for a $50,000,000 appropriation for relief of the unemployed of Indiana was placed before the indiana house of representatives today by a committee of fourteen of the Unemployed council of Indiana, headed by Dan Wininger, Bruceville coal miner. The committee also appeared before the senate this afternoon. Five hundred unemployed men accompanied the committee to the state house after a brief parade.

Citing the constitutional right of citizens to assemble and express their desires, Speaker Walter Myers permitted Wininger to speak ten minutes before the house in support of the request.

In the petition it was requested that money now used to support military organizations, state militia, armories, and military training be diverted to unemployment relief. It also asked a five year moratorium on all mortgages, a five day working week, a seven hour day, a $35 minimum wage, abolition of sheriffs' sales for delinquent taxes, free utilities for unemployed, stopping of rent evictions, state tax of all incomes above $5,000 annually, larger farm loans, elimination of nontaxable securities, and taxation of stock market trading.

DIXIE PUPILS GO TO SCHOOL UNFED, PUBLISHER SAYS

How 3,000 school children living near Helena, Ark., are trying to attend school, many of them getting food only every other day, was revealed yesterday in a letter to THE TRIBUNE from C. M. Young, publisher of the Helena World.

"There are over 3,000 children in this county alone who are trying to attend school without anything to eat," said Mr. Young. "We are attempting to feed these children a little soup or something nourishing and warm and have had a contribution from the Red Cross of $500 which is to run until March 15, or seven weeks, totaling about two and a third cents a child per week.

"Some children are being fed every other day. Hundreds of children are getting nothing from their homes except a black biscuit with a little lard and sugar on it."

Mr. Young told how the people of that part of Arkansas are doing all they can, but added that "with over half our population being fed by the Red Cross, we can't do much. These children must be fed or disease will get them."

Wife Divorces Chapin; Gets $13,000 and $200 Month

Under the terms of a settlement reached last night in the chambers of Superior Judge Desort, Mrs. Myrtice McLaughlin Chapin, 7859 South Shore drive, will obtain a divorce, $13,000, and alimony of $200 a month from Huntley Chapin Jr. Mrs. Chapin originally sued for divorce on grounds of cruelty. When her husband countered with a cross bill she amended her bill to contain drunkenness and other charges. Chapin was left $1,000,000 by his grandfather, Charles R. Huntley, Buffalo traction magnate.

Berry Divorce Compromise Fails; Trial on Today

Superior Judge Desort, who last week spent three days bringing about a settlement of the H. Roy Berry divorce case, was informed by attorneys when he reached his courtroom yesterday that the settlement is off and that Berry, a real estate operator, and his wife, Mrs. Frances Mary Berry of 200 East Chestnut street, want the case to go on trial. The trial will start today.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Arkansas took the lead today in legislative action looking toward immediate aid of its hungry and penniless farmers.

A bill was passed in the house by a vote of 71 to 13, which, if it becomes a law, as expected, will make available a fund of $1,500,000 of state money and added federal credit from which farmers can borrow to feed themselves and their stock, fertilize their land, buy seed, or hire labor for the new crops.

It is not a scheme to put the farmer on a dole or charity basis, but to take him and his family out of the Red Cross bread line as soon as possible, making it easy for him to get money, but making him eventually responsible for it as a loan.

Dodge Bond Selling Difficulty.

The bill circumvents Arkansas' bond selling difficulties by appropriating outright $1,500,000 of state funds, to be borrowed from the highway department at once and repaid when the bonds are sold.

This money is to be used by a state agricultural finance corporation, set up with the governor as head, to buy stock in the Federal Intermediate Land bank and thus enable the farmers to take advantage of the liberal federal credit terms, increasing their million and a half by six times.

The $45,000,000 federal relief loan fund was declared "a farce so far as this state is concerned" during debate over the bill. This is because it does not permit the farmer to use it in buying food. Food is what the farmers will need for three months, and a million are now dependent on the Red Cross.

Loans from Federal Bank.

They want to get out of this condition as soon as possible, and the legislature thinks that the bill passed today will accomplish just this.

It was apposed by proponents of a direct $15,000,000 state appropriation, who see in this new measure a chance for the governor to play politics in making the loans to the county organizations to be set up. The loans to the individual farmers, however, will be made by the federal bank, in amounts from $50 to $2,000, tenant share cropper and all poor farmers being eligible. The security is the crop. If that fails—the state will hold the bag.

"But that is no worse than asking the federal government to give us money," said one legislator. "This is a better scheme. It helps us to help ourselves. It is little enough when the Red Cross is appealing to the nation to feed us."

Gov. Parnell is sitting uneasily on his throne. Threats of impeachment are in the air, with the situation much as it is in Tennessee, although the fire here is more likely to fizzle out before it reaches the dynamite.

Talk of Impeaching Governor.

Senator Quarles of Phillips county introduced a resolution in the senate today recommending impeachment of the governor on the following counts:

"That the governor has dominated the banking and insurance departments and has not enforced the laws regarding banks and insurance companies, resulting in many failures.

"That he has not taken proper steps to protect public funds on deposit in banks.

"That he has sponsored a program of heavy state expenditures which eventually would lead to the bankruptcy of the state.

"That he made his misleading statements to the eastern press which did not reflect true conditions in Arkansas with reference to the drought and the business depression."

Half the senate was on its feet to defend the governor and the resolution was quickly defeated by a vote of 32 to 1.

In the house, where another impeachment resolution is brewing, Representative Johnson of Johnston county said today that the committee appointed to investigate highway bonds, "has enough stuff already to impeach at least one commissioner and get close to the governor."

Woman Trapeze Jumper Killed at Detroit Circus

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—A woman trapeze jumper was killed at the Shrine circus at the fair grounds coliseum this afternoon. The victim was Catherine Solt. She leaped from her trapeze toward that from which her husband was swinging. The timing was faulty and the husband missed her wrists, seizing only her fingers.

Ruined by Quake

Arrow on map points to Napier, a city of 14,346 on North Island, New Zealand, which was destroyed by an earthquake and fire early today. Many are feared dead and thousands are homeless. The quake was felt in the entire vicinity of Hawke bay and at sea, ships being tossed about.

BACK $2,000,000 BOND ISSUE BILL FOR POOR RELIEF

Legislators, County Officials Meet.

Plans to speed up the adoption of house bill 75 in the state legislature, authorizing the county board to issue bonds up to $2,000,000 to provide relief for the poor, were discussed yesterday at a special meeting of the board's legislative committee. The session was attended by 15 state legislators, the majority of whom pledged their support to the proposal.

The bill, which has been approved by the executive committee of Gov. Emmerson's commission on unemployment and relief, was introduced in the house on Jan. 20 by Representative Joseph H. Donahue of Chicago.

The proposed measure would allow the county board, "when it should deem it necessary to provide temporary relief for the poor" of the county, to issue bonds for that purpose up to $2,000,000 without a referendum, provided the county has already spent $500,000 for the same purpose in the same fiscal year.

Speakers at Meeting.

Among those who addressed the legislators were President Cermak of the county board, Commissioner Charles H. Weber, chairman of the legislative committee, Mrs. Amelia Sears, also a commissioner, and Representative Donahue.

"Because of the present unusual state of unemployment among the people," said Commissioner Weber, who presided, "it is necessary promptly to furnish temporary relief to prevent suffering and privation. The county will have exhausted its funds for poor relief long before the winter is over.

The legislators declared that an emergency exists and that under the plan worked out it is hoped to advance the bill to the second reading next Tuesday without reference to a committee. It was pointed out that the senate may act promptly when it reconvenes on Feb. 17 and that it is possible that the act may be approved by March 1.

Will Work for Bill.

Weber will go to Springfield today to work for the bill.

The only unfavorable comment at the meeting came from Representative Ralph E. Church of Chicago, a Republican, who questioned the advisability of raising the tax rate. The bill provides that the county board shall levy a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds

DROUGHT AREA 21 STATES; VICTIMS NEARLY MILLION

U. S. Red Cross Reports Needs Are Growing.

In twenty-one states affected by the drought the American Red Cross is now giving relief to 800,000 victims and within two weeks that number is expected to reach 1,000,000 persons. That word was received here yesterday by the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross.

At no other time in its fifty years of service has the American Red Cross been confronted with a greater problem, James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter, said yesterday in discussing conditions in the drought areas. He pointed out that the largest number of disaster sufferers given assistance simultaneously prior to the present disaster was only 350,000. That was during the Mississippi flood.

Lack All Resources.

"It is difficult to make people realize the plight of these people who are now in our care," Mr. Nicholson continued. "They are absolutely without resources and there are none at hand to which they can turn except those of the Red Cross. The effects of their privations, endured because they have been too proud to request relief, are shown now in a constantly increasing need for medical aid and supplies. Food and clothing are their primary need, but medical care is necessary in every section."

The quota of the Chicago area for the $10,000,000 national fund is $940,000. Under the leadership of President Hoover's Chicago Red Cross Drought Relief committee, with Samuel Insull as chairman and Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, Howard Fenton, and Melville Traylor as vice chairmen, $367,357.72 has been raised by a committee of fifty influential men. All but $7,137 has been given, the Chicago chapter said, by corporations and individuals in amounts of $100,000 or more.

Heading the list of these large contributions is the Insull group, which pledged $100,000. The International Harvester company gave $35,000 [$100,000 pledged nationally]. The Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company pledged $15,000, American Steel Foundries, and Griffin Wheel company and officers, each $11,200.

Among Larger Gifts.

The First National bank, Halsey, Stuart & Co., Samuel Insull, and United States Gypsum company, $10,000 each; Illinois Bell Telephone company, $9,500; partners of Cook, Sullivan & Ricks, $6,000; E. N. Hurley, A. W. Harris, Sewell Avery, North American Light and Power company, Chicago Title and Trust company, Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co. [Chicago branches], Quaker Oats company, and Frederick H. Rawson, $5,000 each.

The Foreman State National bank contributed $4,000 and General Electric company [Hawthorne plant], $3,000. Other gifts from $2,500 to $135 were received from many corporations and individuals.

Additional contributions are urged by the Chicago chapter. They should be made payable to the American Red Cross Drought Relief fund and sent to the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, 616 South Michigan avenue, Chicago.

MOTHER'S NOTE TO SALLY WINS PERMANENT JOB

More Employment Offers Received.

Last week a mother of four children wrote to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE: "I don't know how to manage any more without money coming in." She pleaded for a job for her husband who could do almost anything that concerned automobiles.

Through the letter which was published in part, her husband was given a temporary job with Mrs. F. on the south side as a chauffeur. Yesterday Mrs. F. called Sally to express pleasure over the man sent to fill the job.

"We like him very much," said Mrs. F. "He is pleasant, deserving, and willing to work, so we have decided to give him the job permanently. I am glad that I can help this much during this uncertain employment period."

Another Plea Is Answered.

"And that isn't the only bit of encouragement," announced Sally at the end of a Monday that proved far from being a blue one. "On Jan. 29 we told in a published letter about a mother with a little boy to support, who wanted work as a seamstress. We have had three responses offering her work."

Sally was especially elated because there was a rise in the market of jobs for men yesterday. There were several calls for plumbers. G. B. on North Whipple street wanted a man to help install two hot water boilers. Mrs. L. F. on East 50th street called for a plumber, and A. P. on West Washington street wanted another plumber.

Among other jobs was that offered by Mrs. B. B. of River Forest who needed a man to wash walls.

Other Offers of Jobs for Men.

Mrs. J. B. on Leland avenue called to say she would pay a man fifty cents an hour to wash windows.

Mrs. J. P., Oak Park, wanted a plasterer; the C. S. company, West Austin avenue, an electrician; the P. cleaners, Cottage Grove avenue, a seamstress, and the R. W. S. company, Diversey parkway, two Negroes to wash cars. A permanent job for a stenographer was offered by the W. P. Storage company on South State street.

If you know of a job tell it to Sally Joy Brown at THE TRIBUNE, Superior 0100. She will see that the order is promptly filled by the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street.

HEART ATTACK PROVES FATAL.

WOMEN REORGANIZE IN FINAL CAMPAIGN FOR RELIEF FUNDS

The women's division of the governor's commission on unemployment and relief reorganized yesterday to aid in the final drive for the $5,000,000 relief fund. When the commission was first organized the women's division was given the work of obtaining clothes for the needy. Now they are a part of the fund raising committee under Philip R. Clarke and have been given a quota of $50,000.

The first contribution obtained by the new division was a gift of $2,000 from Mrs. John C. Welling. Officers are Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman; Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy and Mrs. Harold Foreman, vice chairmen; Mrs. Edward F. Swift, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, secretary.

Yesterday's contributions of $40,883 brought the total collections to $4,183,679, leaving $815,321 to be raised before Feb. 11, when the drive ends. Among subscriptions reported were: James B. Clow and Sons and employes, $5,000; Arthur Young and company, $1,200; Chicago Stock exchange [additional gift], $1,000; Cole, Rood, Ham, and McGregor company, $315. Girl students of the Presbyterian College of Christian Education contributed $15, obtained by refraining from serving dessert at all meals.

DESCRIBES TASK OF DISTRIBUTING BREAD TO NEEDY

How to dispense 50,000 loaves of free bread each week to Chicago's unemployed was a knotty problem for Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., vice chairman of the commission, told 800 Episcopalians last night. He spoke at the Church club dinner preceding the annual diocesan convention which opens today at St. James' cathedral.

Mr. Ryerson said the bread had been obtained by the commission from bakers. At first an effort was made to distribute it through the schools. Complaints immediately arose from grocers and bakers. The system was stopped when it was discovered that bakers' sons were carrying home their allotment, Mr. Ryerson said. The bread now is distributed among the shelters for the unemployed.

now houses 10,000 men nightly in various shelters. It also provides free of charge "yellow tickets," to be given to men asking for money. These are good for shelter and food.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN.

Mrs. Emma C. Johnson, 68 years old, a widow, 2326 Bryant avenue, Evanston, died yesterday of injuries suffered on Dec. 24, when she slipped on the ice, fracturing her leg.

MORE JOIN RANKS OF GOOD FELLOWS TO AID THE NEEDY

"Please accept this donation toward the help of some needy one. I will continue to send something each month as long as I am working. A FELLOW WORKER."

That message accompanied a gift of $20 from a new Good Fellow, received yesterday at THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund. It, with other gifts and pledges amounting to $409.80, brought the fund to a total of $86,025.57.

This money is being spent to tide Good Fellow families over to better times. Each family adopted by the Good Fellow is provided with a budgeted income which not only furnishes food and shelter, but clothing, fuel, light, household incidentals, and car fare to search for work. This places the family upon its feet and eases the worry of hard times until the unemployed find work again.

Contributors are assured that every penny they send to the Good Fellow fund will be used for needy families as THE TRIBUNE bears the expense of administrating the fund. All families aided are first investigated by the United Charities, the Catholic Charities, the Salvation Army, and the Jewish Social Service bureau to assure their need and worthiness.

Acidity
Not Stupidity, Lost Him His Job!

He was a good man, but couldn't do himself justice. Felt as if he were carrying a hidden burden—something that was tiring him out and keeping him mentally depressed. An ambitious man at heart, but lacking the necessary "drive." "Lazy" and "stupid," they thought him, but a doctor would have recognized the truth—"Acidity!"

A constant "tired feeling"—a lack of pep, dash and fire—is one of the surest signs of an acid condition. When, as a result of our unnatural living habits, the stomach secretes too much acid, it does many things to us. It causes acid-indigestion, with sour, gassy fullness, painful stomach distension, heartburn and nausea—a condition which in time may result in an attack of acute indigestion. The acid also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines. This breeds poisons which permeate the whole system. The poisons sap strength and vitality, which make us feel tired all the time, and mentally depressed, and they rag our nerves to the point where we can't sleep at night, exhausted as we may be.

The modern and true way to correct acidity is by the release of active oxygen within the intestinal tract. This is now accomplished by an amazing and harmless white tablet developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the gastric juice, generate nascent or active oxygen. The live oxygen does the three things necessary to correct acidity in the right way. It stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, which keeps the acid in check. It corrects fermentation and putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal. It stimulates peristalsis or the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity, and only Magnesia Oxoids supply them, because it is the only Magnesia product known to science that, when taken internally, releases oxygen to the system.

Make This Acidity Test!

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores, or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel, how much more soundly you sleep, and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist, and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

GERMS

Colds and Throat Infections May Sit Right Beside You!

Every cold and throat infection is caught from somebody else. During the Winter infection is more common than ever. Do the sensible thing—realize that every exposure to crowds exposes you to danger and act accordingly. A reliable defence is offered you in McKesson's Extol. This is the new antiseptic of new germicidal power and penetrative ability. It revolutionizes all former standards of antiseptic mouth washes.

The "10-Second" Germicide

Extol kills germs faster than any ordinary preparation yet known. And it reaches parts that other antiseptics miss. It penetrates the mucous membrane and reaches the germs that lie hidden underneath the outer layer of mucosa. Hence its action is complete and thorough. Extol is the best "means of prevention" you can use but if you have already caught a cold or sore throat, it will relieve it in fast time. Extol is utterly harmless and most delightful to use. Also, it's economical. Costs less than other preparations and as you can dilute it more liberally, even further. All McKesson Service Druggists and all independent drug stores sell Extol. Get a bottle today and be forearmed against Winter ills. Note the name, EXTOL—a McKesson & Robbins product.

3 'EXECUTED' IN EAST ST. LOUIS GAMBLING DEN

BULLETIN.

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 2—[AP] Two of the three men slain in a gambling house here had been recently engaged in the East St. Louis "kidnaping racket," St. Louis police said tonight. Four persons were under arrest late tonight.

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Machine gunners put three men on the spot here early yesterday. They executed them in typical gangland fashion.

CARL SHELTON.

The "little massacre" came to light late today with the finding of the bodies of the three victims buried under a pile of brush in Lovers' lane, near Granite City, two miles north. Apparently the gangland execution was carried out in "Wide Open" Smith's, a gambling den and hoodlum hideaway at 330 East Broadway.

Victims of the killing were Dan Hoffman, 39 years old, pawnbroker and ladies' wearing apparel shop owner of 213 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis; J. P. Carroll, bandoleerator, and Theodore Kaminski, a former chauffeur of St. Louis, reputed active in gambling here recently. Carroll and Hoffman lived in St. Louis, Mo., although in business here. Kaminski had been arrested several times on minor charges.

Find Execution Spot.

Coincident with the discovery of the bodies, which were found by Homer Foster, 22 years old, a miner, deputy sheriffs raided "Wide Open" Smith's and found ample evidence of the execution.

As the officers walked upstairs they bumped into Oliver Niehaus, 39 years old, a world war veteran, and Jack Rudolph, a Negro porter. They were arrested. Rudolph told police that Niehaus had hired him to clean up a den, which was littered with bullet shells and stained with blood. Niehaus denied knowing anything of the killing.

Authorities were certain the massacre had occurred in Smith's place. The walls were punctured with bullets. A door had been torn from its hinges, sawed and chopped into pieces, and partly burned in a stove as though to hide evidence. Blood was spattered about. As officers waited two telephone calls were received, one inquiring for Carl Shelton and another for Tommy Hayes, both notorious east side gangsters.

How Bodies Were Found.

Young Foster, who found the bodies of Hoffman, Carroll and the Negro man in Lover's lane, related his experience tonight.

"I was on my way back to my Collinsville coal mine for a load of coal," he said. "As I was passing Lovers' lane I noticed what might be a body. I thought I was mistaken and drove on. Later I passed the place again, and was sure I saw a body, but I didn't get out. I did not my boss about it. He told me to start back and I did, taking my friend and two brothers to the place. When we got there, police had arrived. I guess my boss had called the authorities."

Midnight Firing Explained.

St. Louis authorities were called to assist in the inquiry because of the St. Louis connections of the murdered men. Hoffman was known as a business man, but was said to have many acquainted with gangsters and to have sold them guns.

Hoffman was reported missing yesterday. He was last seen Saturday night. Shortly afterward rest near the Smith hangout reported hearing prolonged firing, and although police investigated, the shooting could not be traced. It was in this setting, police believe, Hoffman 'and the others were slain.

SCHOOLGIRL, 14, VANISHES; LEAVES OF HER CAFE J

Employment of a schoolgirl, 14 years old, in the chorus of the cafe, 22d street and Wabash avenue, was charged last night in a call to police of her disappearance. The girl is Irene Holmes of 1625 Wilson avenue. Miss F. Zeta Young, director of the Juvenile Protective association, will investigate the case today.

The charges were made by the girl's father to the North Racine avenue police. She was employed at the cafe two nights a week during last summer, he said, and since school started she has been appearing in the chorus on certain nights. Irene generally returned home at 3 a. m., and departed ostensibly to school, at 8:30 a. m.

Since she disappeared Wednesday the father asserted, he learned that Irene had been to school once in all.

MR. GROUNDHOG IS POOH-POOHED BY WEATHER MAN

Somewhat exasperated by hundreds of telephone calls yesterday, C. A. Donnel, the weather bureau chief, delved into statistics and meteorological lore to explode the ground hog myth.

If any credence is to be put in the ground hog tradition, Mr. Donnel said, we are in for six weeks of winter, for the sun shone yesterday and the little rodent saw his shadow, presumably to scamper back into his hibernating quarters.

But not even meteorologists can forecast the weather for six weeks ahead, and past performances show up the ground hog as more often wrong than right, according to Mr. Donnel.

Older than Christian Era.

The ground hog superstition, say the weather sages consulted by Mr. Donnel, antedates the Christian era. Feb. 2, or Candlemas day, was observed by the ancient Romans. A Scottish legend had it that

"If Candlemas be fair and clear
There'll be twa winters in the year."

Following the advent of Christianity, Candlemas was observed by the church as commemorating the presentation of Christ in the temple. In the western world it came to commemorate the purification of the Virgin Mary.

Out of the traditional belief that Candlemas portended the early or late arrival of spring arose the legend of the ground hog, or woodchuck, who was supposed to come out of his long winter sleep on Candlemas morning, the weather experts say.

Shows Increase in Sickness.

Health Commissioner Kegel yesterday produced figures showing a sharp increase in respiratory diseases reported in January over the number for January of last year. The unseasonable weather was blamed. A total of 684 influenza cases were reported in January of this year, compared with fifty-six last year. The deaths from influenza jumped from 37 to 77. Pneumonia cases totaled 1,321, as against 772 in January last year, and deaths from this cause increased from 323 to 422.

MILLIONS SAVED ON FUEL

Mild winter weather has saved Chicagoans millions of dollars in coal bills thus far this season, a survey revealed yesterday. The consensus among leading coal dealers was that consumption this winter is about six weeks behind that of the previous year, or a decrease of approximately 15 per cent in comparison with the winter of 1929-'30.

Difficulty was experienced by investigators in attempts to estimate the actual saving in dollars and cents. The grades of coal consumed in this area sell at prices varying from $5.50 to more than $12 a ton, it was pointed out, and figures were not available showing how much of each grade is consumed.

However, a conservative estimate put the saving at approximately $12,000,000.

"The average annual consumption of wagon and truck delivered coal in the Chicago area is approximately 10,000,000 tons," said an official of one of Chicago's largest coal companies. "This excludes coal delivered by railroads. The decrease in consumption has been estimated at about 15 per cent. That would indicate a reduction of 1,500,000 tons this year.

"It probably is sheer guesswork, but the average price per ton paid for coal may be set at $8. That would make the saving to Chicago a total of $12,000,000."

WRECKAGE ON WAVES GIVES CLEW TO FATE OF THE FLYING WIDOW

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—A gray colored piece of wreckage bobbing on the waves of the North Atlantic, 275 miles northwest of Horta, today supplied a possible clew to the fate of Mrs. Beryl Hart and former Lieut. William S. MacLaren, who took off from Bermuda on Jan. 10 in the monoplane Tradewind for the Azores.

The navy department was advised in a message from the steamship Youngstown that the ship passed what appeared to be the remnant of an airplane wing at 3:01 o'clock on Jan. 31. The position of the wreckage was latitude 41 degrees, 46 minutes north, longitude 31 degrees, 44 minutes west.

This position, the navy department said, was 275 miles northwest of Horta, on the island of Fayal, Azores, and 150 miles north of Corva, the westernmost island of the Azores group.

For several days after the disappearance of the Tradewind various reports were received that the airplane fell into the ocean after passing the Azores. They proved groundless when ships searched the sea in the vicinity of the reported landings.

Freed After Serving 40 Years as Killer Confesses

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

DESSAU, Germany, Feb. 2.—Forty years ago young Josef Theerman was sentenced on circumstantial evidence to life imprisonment at hard labor for the murder of a woman whose heir he was. Yesterday, an utterly broken old man, he was released from prison here following a deathbed confession by the real perpetrator of the crime. Theerman, who had never ceased to maintain his innocence, has returned to the little village of Brosa, where he formerly lived, to try to adjust himself to the changed conditions.

BOGAN CONDEMNS CATHERINE II. AS SCHOOL PABULUM

But Teacher Says Book Is Proper History.

The story of the life and loves of Catherine the Great, empress of Russia from 1762 to 1769, is not fit reading for 14 year old high school sophomores, William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools said yesterday. He referred to the recent assignment of a biography of Catherine II. to an Austin High school history class for study and review.

The superintendent acted as the result of a complaint written by E. H. Wise, 4635 McLean avenue, father of one of the 40 pupils in the history class conducted by Miss J. Louise Hanna. Mr. Wise wrote that his daughter, Carol, 14 years old, had been asked to read and report upon the book in which he had found many passages he thought unfit for young pupils.

"An Error," Says Bogan.

"Either the teacher had not read the book before she assigned it or else it was an error of judgment on her part," said Mr. Bogan yesterday after reading the book. When told of the superintendent's criticism, Miss Hanna replied: "If fault is to be found with Catherine's biography, the works of Shakespeare and Spenser should also be withdrawn from the school libraries."

Among the passages in the book, which was written by Katherine Anthony, that were branded as "entirely too raw" by the superintendent was the following paragraph: "The love relationships of Catherine the Great form the most fascinating aspect of her life and character. She has been celebrated as a Northern Semiramis, a Russian Messalina."

Potemkin who is designated in the book as the fifth on Catherine's list of 13 lovers, received more space than any of the others. He is characterized as a "great Russian brute who drank heavily and swore outrageously." Of him the author writes, "according to legend, Potemkin became a sort of pander to his lady."

Her Declining Years.

In one of the episodes of Catherine's life, a 24 year old youth, Plato Zubov, was the chief actor. Miss Anthony writes: "At the age of sixty, the empress had no eyes for anything but youth. Her lovers had been growing younger and younger."

Mr. Bogan would not say yesterday whether any disciplinary action would be taken. Members of the board of trustees who looked over the book, gave opinions that the biography was perhaps true but the subject matter was too blatant for young minds.

M'DONALD SEEKS NEW LOAN; DOLE FUND IS "BROKE"

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Great Britain's unemployment insurance fund is now in such straits that Prime Minister MacDonald admitted in the house of commons today that the government would have to ask parliament before the end of the present month for power for further borrowing.

In December it was estimated by the labor ministry that the fund could struggle on through March without an additional loan, but the increase in unemployment has upset that calculation.

The fund now owes the exchequer nearly $350,000,000, or $50,000,000 more than was reported to the royal commission on unemployment several weeks tgo. It was estimated then that it would have to borrow this year $200,000,000, but more likely its needs for loans will average $5,000,000 a week, making the annual total just about equivalent to what Great Britain sets aside for her sinking fund.

DAISY, DENIED RETRIAL, TRUSTS MERCY OF COURT

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Stoically accepting defeat in a fight for a new trial, Daisy De Boe threw herself on the mercy of the court today at the end of her fight to escape a conviction of stealing $825 from Clara Bow.

DAISY DE BOE.

A hope that she might gain another chance to fight the grand theft charge filed against her by the film employer whom she served two years as secretary disappeared in a decision by Superior Judge William Doran denying her a new trial.

Her counsel, William Beirne, tried unsuccessfully to show the verdict was reached by "lot or chance." The defense immediately sought permission to file an application for probation, which was granted, and a hearing set for Feb. 10.

Flaxen-haired Daisy sat quietly at th e counsel table, eying the judge closely as he considered for a moment the request for a probation hearing and without a change of expression heard him grant the plea.

TURKEY STAGES GRIM DRAMA OF LIFE AND DEATH

28 Are Hanged at Dawn, 29 Cheat Reaper.

BULLETIN.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 3 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Twenty-eight religious reactionaries, convicted of participation in the abortive revolutionary outbreak of December at Menemen, were hanged there at dawn today.

MENEMEN, Turkey, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Menemen was a town of startling contrasts tonight—a stage set for death tomorrow but on which tonight was played a hilarious drama of life regained.

The winter wind whistled past twenty-eight newly erected gibbets, standing black against the sky line, which at dawn will bear the bodies of men who sought the return of religious rule with the restoration of the caliphate.

Yet in the public squares, regardless of the towering gallows, twenty-seven others who were acquitted of the same crime loudly rejoiced in their new found liberty, sacrificing sheep for meat to distribute to the poor.

Death Cheats Gallows.

Thirty-two were to have died at dawn on gibbets scattered about the town at the very spots where on Dec. 23 dervishes exhorted the populace to rise up against the modernistic innovations of the new Turkish republic.

At Angora the parliament ratified the death sentences of thirty, but commuted the sentences of two others to twenty-four years' imprisonment. At about the same time the waiting gallows were cheated of two more victims by death itself, as two others died of heart attacks in their cells.

Four Gibbets Removed.

And so while the feasting and loud rejoicing of the liberated continued far into the night, workmen set about taking down four gallows.

But twenty-eight remained and at the first light of dawn gypsy hangmen will kick tables from under the condemned men and they will swing like ghosts in the long white vestments of death, with placards hung around their necks detailing the crime for which they died.

In the meantime these holy men and their humble followers awaited the end with oriental stoicism. Only one, Larz Ibrahim, showed any sign of emotion—and that was not for himself but for another.

Larz Ibrahim, an army chaplain, was the chief lieutenant of the 96 year old Sheik Essad, who was condemned to death but died in his cell last week a few moments before the news came that his sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment.

Tonight Larz Ibrahim wept ceaselessly over the aged sheik's white beard, which was wrapped in silk bearing the inscription:

"The sainted beard of a sainted master."

LYLE INDORSED BY DOVRE CLUB, A G. O. P. POWER

City Hall Machine Puts On Loop Show.

BY PARKE BROWN.

One of the indorsements that politicians consider among the most potent of those based on racial lines went to Judge Lyle yesterday. He was recommended to the voters by the Dovre club, an organization of voters of Scandinavian birth or descent with more than thirty years of Republican history behind it.

In previous elections the Dovre club indorsement most frequently has been given to Deneen candidates, but it was announced that the vote of the executive committee preferring Judge Lyle to Ald. Arthur F. Albert, the Deneen entry, was unanimous. Some time ago it was reported the Albert managers were confident that he would receive the Dovre indorsement.

The committee's decision was announced by the club secretary, J. Henry Jonassen. Albert Petersen, an attorney, is president of the club.

Ignore Foes' Charges.

Lyle headquarters during the day again refused to answer attacks made upon the candidate and his managers. At a noon meeting in the Cort theater Mayor Thompson hinted that he had facts reflecting on the moral character of the judge. At about the same time Ald. Albert attacked John Leonard East, manager of the Lyle headquarters, because his downtown office is in the same suite as that of William Lorimer, former United States senator.

"My friends warned me that the gangsters and racketeers wouldn't stop at anything in framing charges against me," said Judge Lyle. "The public knows it, so I shan't waste time on that sort of rot."

"I'm giving what energy I have toward electing Judge Lyle," said Committeeman East, "so why should I go into a mud slinging contest with an expert?"

East is in the coal business on the south side, but recently found it necessary to open a downtown office. He took a room in a suite with Lorimer, who is said to be interested in a paving company represented by a son. But East and Lorimer, it is stated, have no business connections.

Pay Rollers Crowd Theater.

The Thompson theater meeting was a packed affair. City hall employés in some offices were told that if they went to the meeting they need not return to work for the afternoon. Ward committeemen brought in delegations of 100 each. Labor unions identified with the demonstration, some of which were said to be collecting slush funds of $5 per head, brought in large groups.

The result was that the little theater was filled and between 2,500 and 3,000 were left standing in Dearborn street with the burro, the mule, and the horse that Thompson is using in the campaign. Amplifiers carried the speeches being made inside and a large detail of police, including a captain, a lieutenant, and several mounted men, kept order.

Lyle Urges War on Crime.

Judge Lyle's speeches during the day continued to center on the crime situation.

"Our government," he said, "was organized primarily in defense of citizens and their inalienable rights to life and property. Progress in achieving this purpose in Chicago or anywhere else must begin with the safety of life and property.

"Hundreds of murders occur in Chicago each year, as well as thousands of robberies, burglaries, larcenies, assaults and similar attacks upon the persons and property of citizens. Such a crime record does not reflect peace and security or the reign of law and order, but rather the rule of the bandit, the gangster and the gunman.

"The Chicago police department is maintained by the taxpayers primarily to prevent crime and if it cannot achieve this large order its aim should be to arrest offending criminals.

Calls Speed Essential.

"The speed with which criminal cases are handled by the courts is a fully reliable and intelligent index to the efficiency of our local judicial machinery. An innocent man is entitled to an early acquittal, and the speed and certainty with which a criminal is punished is one of the surest ways in which to extinguish crime.

"There is seldom a legitimate excuse for the dilatory procedure of constantly granting continuance after continuance in felony cases in our courts. Any relaxation of efforts to give speedy and certain justice to professional criminals with long police records can only benefit such offenders."

In a speech at 4329 West Madison street last night, Ald. Albert promised that if he is elected mayor he will have the city controller issue monthly statements of city finances.

"The statements," he said, "will be the kind that everybody can read and understand. You will know what your tax money is buying."

Cermak Warns Democrats.

A. J. Cermak, Democratic organization choice for the mayoralty, again told his ward leaders and workers at a luncheon at the Bal Tabarin in the Hotel Sherman to "let the Republicans settle their own family quarrels without any interference."

"The Republican candidates are already in a terrible mixup," he said. "As evidence of it I may say that every day Republicans are asking me for whom they should vote in their primary. They tell me they want to vote for the man who would be easiest for me to beat.

"I tell them that I'm not concerned who the Republican nominee will be, that I feel certain I can defeat any Republican in the field or any independent who may be placed in the field. The total vote of the Republicans in the primary may be bigger than ours, but my vote will be bigger than that of any one of the Republicans."

Other speakers at the luncheon were State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman, and Clayton F. Smith, chairman of the managing committee. Mrs. George E. Brennan was introduced and cheered.

Saturday night's revision of the poll books resulted in the erasure of 96,981 names from the list of voters qualified to vote in the primary. Last Tuesday there were 173,313 names placed on the books. Minus the erasures the gain now is 76,332 over last fall's registration, the present total for the entire city now being 1,340,566.

"Keep Out of the Republican Primary," Cermak Warns Democrats

WIDOW OF COAL MAGNATE SAYS FLAT WAS LOOTED

Complaint that thieves ransacked her apartment and took between $5,000 and $10,000 in jewelry, bonds, and money while she was in the Town Hall court yesterday as a defendant on a minor charge was made last night by Mrs. Alta M. Bogle, 40 years old, 847 Wolfram street, to Detective Frank Casey of the Sheffield avenue station. The police are investigating.

Mrs. Bogle appeared in court on a charge of disorderly conduct lodged by Clarence A. Le Roy, a tenant in the Wolfram street building of which she is manager. She was granted a jury trial. The charge is said to be based on a dispute over furniture and other articles which had been in the Le Roy apartment. Mrs. Bogle is the widow of Walter S. Bogle, millionaire coal man.

Eskimos Save Missionary Lost on Arctic Ice Fields

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Rev. J. H. Webster, Anglican missionary at Coppermine, lost for almost a week on the arctic ice fields, was found Friday by Eskimo searchers. He was exhausted and frostbitten. The young missionary left Coppermine to visit the Eskimo sealing camps. Two days later the lead dog of his team made his way into an Eskimo camp and the natives started search.

EVANSTON READY FOR HOT BATTLE OVER MAYORALTY

Hahn Will Campaign Against Bartlett.

Two developments last night gave shape to Evanston's forthcoming mayoralty campaign, which, politicians assert, promises to become one of the hottest in the history of the suburb. The entrance of a new candidate in the race, and the withdrawal of another resolved the campaign into a battle between Charles H. Bartlett, the present mayor, and John F. Hahn, realty broker.

Hahn, who served the suburb for 26 years as city clerk, announced his candidacy last night at a demonstration in which a crowd of supporters assembled on the lawn of his home, 705 Milburn street, to urge him to enter the race. Addressing them from his front porch, Mr. Hahn stated that he would oppose Mayor Bartleet on a platform favoring civic improvements.

Mayor Ready to File.

While Mayor Bartlett has not publicly announced his candidacy it is known that his petition is prepared for filing on Friday, the opening day for filing. He has served the city as mayor for six years.

John P. Russ, a justice of the peace, was the candidate who withdrew last night. His withdrawal leaves three candidates in the field, the third being James Huxtable, who has run for mayor every term for the last twenty years. Russ is expected to run as alderman in the Fifth ward.

Mr. Hahn in his speech last night declared himself in favor of lake front improvement for Evanston and the extension of the outer drive along Lake Michigan.

Sunday Movies an Issue.

One of the issues of the campaign, politicians believe, will be Sunday movies. Although the proposal to permit Sunday movies won by a majority of 56 votes on a referendum at the last election, Evanston theaters are still dark on Sunday and the people are still divided on the issue. The aldermen looked upon the referendum as an advisory and not a compulsory matter, and they voted against opening the theaters on the Sabbath.

March 3 is the last date on which candidates may file. The election is to be held on April 7.

LAWYERS CLASH AT HEARING OF ELECTION BOARD

Objections to the nominating petitions of William G. Agar, candidate fo alderman in the Fourth ward, led the list of protests heard by the board of election commissioners yesterday and involved opposing attorneys in caustic argument before the board took the matter under advisement, along with a number of other protests.

Attorney Urban A. Lavery, formerly counsel for the election board, represented Agar, who is vice president of the Agar Packing and Provisions company. Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington, another expert on election laws, was counsel for David Ofner, an investigator for the corporation counsel, who filed the protest against Agar in behalf of Ald. B. A. Cronson, candidate for reëlection.

Attorney Harrington charged that numerous names had been forged to the petitions and introduced as witnesses persons whose names appeared on the petitions but who testified they had not signed. Lavery had these witnesses write their names as evidence before the board and then charged that they deliberately tried to change their handwriting to confuse the commissioners.

Guard at Leavenworth Becomes Prisoner Instead

Topeka, Kas., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Charles C. Drake, former guard at the Leavenworth federal penitentiary annex, was sentenced today to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $1,000 for conspiracy to smuggle narcotics into the penitentiary.

ANNOUNCES LOW BIDS ON SEAWAY MASONRY WORK

The Connolly Contracting company of St. Paul submitted the lowest bid, $415,350, for completion of the masonry work of the Brandon road lock and dam, Illinois waterway, Col. W. C. Weeks, United States engineer, announced yesterday.

The low bid for the Dresden island lock and dam, submitted last week was $848,541, but much more work is to be done on this project. The Brandon road masonry work, or foundations for the steel structures of the locks, gates, and operating bridges, is about 75 per cent completed, Col. Weeks said.

About ten days will be required for approval of the bids by the chief of army engineers at Washington and after this the contractors will have ten days before work must begin on the two projects. Except for a dam to be built at Marseilles, completion of the Brandon road and Dresden island segments is all that remains to be done on the five locks and dams.

Hoover Signs Bill for Kankakee Railroad Span

4 MORE LAWYERS DESCRIBE JOBS ON CANAL STAFF

One Testifies He Was Not Given Any Work.

Four more lawyers employed by the sanitary district during the whoopee days told yesterday what they did to earn their salaries, as the investigation of 55 of the district's former lawyers entered its fourth week before Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor. Judge Taylor is sitting as commissioner of the Illinois Superme court to hear the charges of the Chicago Bar association that the lawyers accepted money without giving a maximum of service.

One of the respondents questioned yesterday was Henry Jacobs, former state's attorney of Marshall county. He was employed by the district from Feb. 1, 1928, until Nov. 15 of the same year and was paid $3,166. Jacobs said that he had represented the state in several cases against the district and therefor was familiar with the district's work before entering its employ.

Tried No Cases, He Says.

The lawyer, questioned by Attorney Willard Matheny, representing the bar association, said that his duties were mainly "acquainting himself with the background of litigation involving the district." He said that he studied several cases but did not try any.

Attorney Daniel V. Gallery was the next witness. He was employed by the district for eight months during 1928 receiving $3,541 for his services. He obtained his job through a ward committeeman, he said.

"What did you do?" he was asked.

"I was told that I would be given some work to do in the lake level case, but I was never given an assignment," he replied.

"Do you believe that your pay was just and reasonable?" was the next query.

"I didn't earn it for what I did," Gallery replied. "But I earned it for what I expected to do.

Wm. Scott Stewart Testifies.

Attorney William Scott Stewart said that he did not seek his position with the district but that he had been asked to help out by John Touhy, one of the trustees.

"The district was having trouble with trade unions over construction work and I was asked to help straighten out these difficulties," Stewart said. "I was employed unofficially by Timothy J. Crowe, then president of the board."

He said he did not receive any pay for his work until a year after he was employed, when "Crowe told me he wanted to pay for my expenses and that an appropriation would be made to care for me." The records show that Stewart received $6,000.

At the morning session Carl W. Lutz, an accountant employed to work on the district's pay rolls, testified that 16 of the district's legal department pay rolls during Mr. Crowe's régime were sent to the paymaster without first being examined and approved by the chief attorney.

The other lawyer to testify was William S. Newburger, who was on the pay roll from March to November of 1928. During the examination it was brought out that Newburger had returned the $4,500 paid to him.

DR. JAMES GREER, HEART DOCTOR, IS SUED BY WIFE

Dr. James Richard Greer, well known heart specialist, formerly of Chicago, has been sued for divorce by Mrs. Delia Greer, 5401 Greenwood avenue, it was revealed yesterday in the records of the Superior court. The bill, filed Jan. 20, charges the physician with extreme and repeated cruelty.

The Greers were married July 3, 1900, and separated Feb. 7, 1930. They have two children, Mrs. Leslie R. Howard and Miss Charlotte E. Greer, a public school teacher. Following their separation, the bill says, Dr. Greer moved to the University club, but left soon afterward for California, where he is now practicing.

Dr. Greer is a graduate of Rush Medical college and the University of Chicago. For a number of years he taught medicine in several of the country's leading schools, and in 1925 became attending physician of St. Luke's hospital. He was a member of several Chicago clubs.

Equal Rights —Not Favors

A Message from L. A. Downs, President, Illinois Central System.

The railroads for a long time were almost alone in the field of transportation. In the absence of competition regulation was thought to be necessary to insure good service and low rates.

As time went on regulation came to be strangulation. Restrictions were heaped upon the railroads. Taxes multiplied.

Now there are various forms of transportation, and the field is highly competitive.

Yet the railroads are still intensively regulated and heavily taxed. Their competitors, on the other hand, are relatively free of regulation and taxation.

The railroads have asked the American people to do what is necessary to equalize these competitive conditions. They do not ask favors. They ask an equal chance.

NICKEL PLATE ROAD

ORDER ON TRACKS HELD MENACE TO SOUTH LOOP PLAN

Attack I. C. C. Ruling on Plymouth Ct. Rails.

The entire program of the Chicago Plan commission to open and develop streets south of the loop is jeopardized by the blockading of Plymouth court and Taylor street by the tracks of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, according to Chairman James Simpson.

Mr. Simpson declared yesterday that the city "must fight to the extreme length" in the courts against the recent order of the Illinois commerce commission authorizing the railroad to continue use of the tracks. At the same time Assistant Corporation Counsel John G. Drennan announced that such a fight will be waged, starting with a petition to the commerce commission for a rehearing.

Plymouth court extends from Jackson to 14th streets a short block west of and parallel to State street. It is one of the important links in the proposed system to open the south side of the loop.

See Grave Precedent.

"It is most regrettable that the commerce commission ruled as it did," said Mr. Simpson. "The matter is of stupendous importance to Chicago—in fact the whole plan commission program for south side street development will be defeated unless it is settled properly. Under the circumstances the city must fight to the extreme length to have the order countermanded."

Aside from the hearing of the order upon the south side problem, some of those who have watched the Plymouth court proceedings feel that an even more significant principal is involved, namely, the control of the city over its own streets. They fear that a dangerous precedent has been set when a state body assumes jurisdiction in such a dispute between the city and a railroad over a street opening.

Attorneys for the city have contended that the railroad broke its agreement with the city in failing to remove its tracks when ordered to do so. An ordinance authorizing the tracks to be laid expired in 1920. By its terms the railroad agreed not to resort to any court or commission to delay removal of the tracks at the expiration of the ordinance.

Order Victory for Railroad.

Last August the city notified the railroad to remove the tracks within 30 days and the company appealed to the commerce commission. After hearings extending over several months before Assistant Commerce Commissioner Robert H. Farrell, the commission a few days ago issued its order.

The commission not only authorized the railroad to continue use of three lead tracks which connect tracks in the Dearborn station proper with those in the Dearborn station annex across Plymouth court and Taylor street, but also authorized the continued use of four grade tracks crossing the public alley between Taylor and Polk streets, and six station tracks crossing two other alleys in the neighborhood.

The order was considered a complete victory for the railroad and a defeat for a half dozen south side organizations which have united to support the plan commission and the city. Among these groups are the Greater Central District association, South Chicago Chamber of Commerce, South End Chamber of Commerce, and the South Terminal District association.

Mr. Drennan said the city has 30 days in which to file a petition for a rehearing before the commerce commission and that the petition will be filed soon. If it is rejected, he said, the city will appeal to the courts.

KIWANIANS URGE CONSOLIDATION OF TAX BODIES

A resolution urging an early consolidation of all taxing bodies in Chicago and throughout the state was adopted yesterday at the regular monthly meeting of the All-Chicago clubs of the Kiwanis International held at the Hotel Sherman. The resolution obligates the Kiwanians to obtain signatures to petitions urging the early adoption by the general assembly of legislation under which the consolidation may be arranged.

A meeting of the council subcommittee on consolidation has been called by Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman, for tomorrow to begin plans to consolidate some of the tax expending bodies in Cook county. At a recent public session in the council chambers a number of university professors and citizens made suggestions as to where the committee might begin its task.

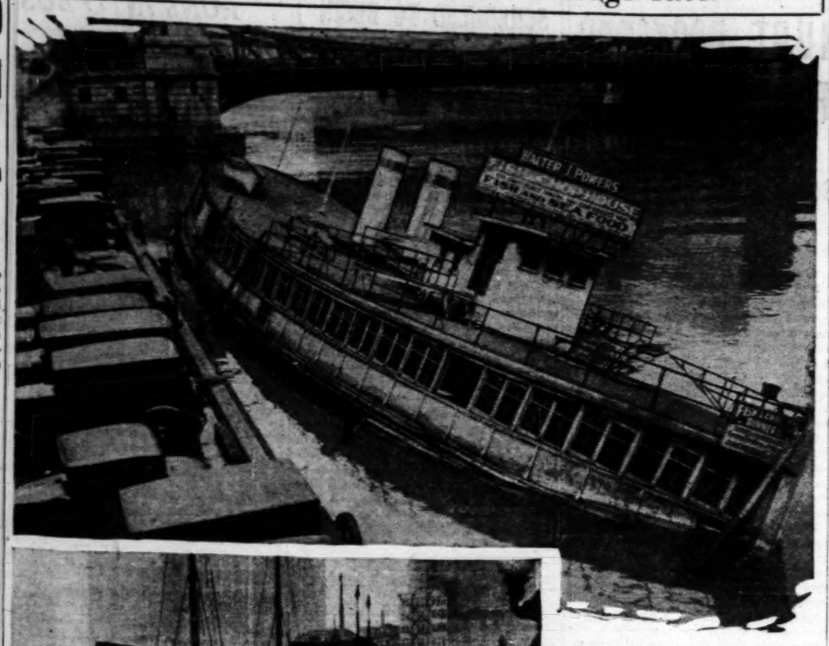
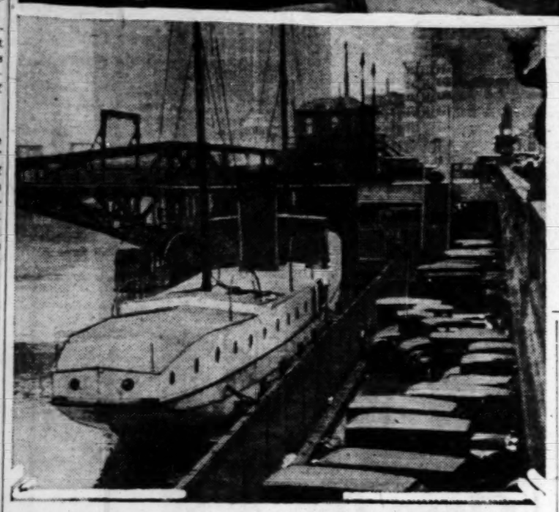
City Permits Boats to Block Chicago River





The sunken ship Rotarian, made the clubhouse of the Cook County Democracy, which supported Mayor Thompson for mayor, and permitted to remain at its moorings at the Clark street bridge and run as a private restaurant and dance hall until it sunk. Since then no attempt has been made to compel the owners to raise it.

TWO BOATS GIVEN FREE DOCK SPACE AT CITY'S QUAY

One Is Mayor's Yacht, Other Sunken Hulk.

During the last three months persons crossing the Clark street bridge have become accustomed to the sight of two boats, each of which occupies a free parking space in the river along the lower level of Wacker drive through the indulgence of the city administration.

One of the vessels is the yacht Doris, owned by Mayor Thompson. It is anchored between Clark and Dearborn streets. The other is the scuttled Rotarian, an ancient sidewheeler. Its hulk rests on the river bottom between Clark and La Salle streets. The rotting timbers of the upper part of the latter vessel project above the water, while a cesspool of sewage, waste paper, and trash eddies between the quay and the lower half, which serves as a catch all for floating debris.

What legal right the two boats have to remain at city docks has never been explained at the city hall.

Thompson's yacht was "parked" for the winter last November, when a seven foot wire fence was erected along the lower level of Wacker drive to inclose it. Together with "official" chains of one kind or another stretched under the drive, the fence serves as a barrier to citizens so bold as to wish to park their cars in space dedicated to public use.

Behind the Rotarian there is a history marked with mystery and vagueness at the city hall.

When it first was towed into the river three years ago the 46 year old converted sidewheeler served as headquarters for "Cook County Democracy," a political organization supporting Thompson. Although other boats pay for docking permits, the Rotarian never obtained a permit from the city. According to the resident engineer's office of the war department, responsibility for the craft rests entirely with the city, as the Wacker drive quay is city property.

For a while the Rotarian was used as a taxi dance hall and later as a fish and chop house run by Walter J. Powers, brother of the late Ald. John Powers. On Oct. 11, 1930, it rolled over on its side and partially sank. A few days later the pilot house burned.

Harbor Master Charles Agnew, a subordinate of Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe, said the boat would have to be removed, but nothing was done until Dec. 12, when City Prosecutor Frank Peska filed a suit against Miles J. Devine, alleged owner of the craft, for maintaining a nuisance. However, the craft remains where it sank.

2 BANKS CLOSED BY WITHDRAWALS IN CALUMET AREA

One Is First Trust and Savings of Hammond.

The First Trust and Savings Bank of Hammond, known as one of the largest banks in northwestern Indiana, did not open its doors yesterday morning. This action, taken by the board of directors, caused runs on two other banks in the area, one of which closed two hours after opening.

The First Trust and Savings bank has resources of $9,400,000, according to officials, and deposits of $5,700,000.

The closing was caused, it was said, by steady withdrawals by large depositors, including several industrial concerns in the Calumet district. These industries withdrew $630,000 in cash in the last ten days for operating expenses, the officials declared, and the closing of the bank was considered necessary in order to conserve assets.

Another cause of the closing, it was stated, was the withdrawal of funds by Lake county, which now has $500,000 tied up in fifteen other banks which have closed in the area in the last three months.

News of the bank's failure to open started a run on the Calumet City State bank which caused it to close. This bank was capitalized at $75,000 and reported to have deposits of $500,000. The president of the bank is John Jaranowski, former county commissioner and mayor of Calumet City.

The Hammond National bank, across the street from the First Trust and Savings bank, successfully withstood an all day run and announced that it had sufficient cash to pay off all depositors.

INK ON FINGERS BETRAYS YOUTHS; LOOT RECOVERED

Six reels of valuable moving picture film were recovered yesterday through the arrest of two schoolboy bandits, who later confessed to several other burglaries. The film, stolen last week from the Chicago Film laboratory, 1322 Belmont avenue, is valued at $25,000.

The youths, Charles Hoffman, 13 years old, of 1511 Belmont avenue, a student in the Blaine school, and Charles Peters, 15 years old, 1431 Belmont avenue, a student in the Burling school, were picked up near their homes yesterday by Sergt. Edward F. Garrity and a police squad. Having been instructed by Fred Lindstrom, finger print expert of the bureau of identification, to search for persons with indelible ink on their fingers, the policemen took the boys into custody when they found their fingers smeared with ink of the type used in the laboratories.

In the homes of the youths the police found the film had been cut in several pieces and hidden. The reels were the property of the Rosenwald Industrial Museum and depicted other famous industrial museums in Munich, S. Kensington, England, and in Paris. The youths also confessed that they had burglarized the paint supply factory of Adolph Koretz, 3319 North Marshfield avenue.

HONDURAS SEEKS ILLINOIS MAN AS FINANCE ADVISER

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Congress today was asked to authorize a contract with William Walter Renwick, American financial expert, to come here to reorganize the finances of Honduras. The proposal was sent to congress by Celleo Davila, the minister of finance.

Mr. Renwick, who is 41 years old, formerly was with R. H. Donnelley & Sons in Chicago.

POLICEMEN AND FIREMEN WILL BE PAID TODAY

Salaries of the city police and firemen, totaling $1,000,000, will be paid as the result of an arangement between City Controller Peterson and City Treasurer Singer whereby money in the traction fund, and other special funds of the city will be used. The corporate fund, out of which the salaries should be paid, has a balance of less than $600,000 with which to meet the pay rolls.

In the opinion of members of the city council the two fiscal officers of the city will be violating, by the use of the special funds without depositing any security for the loans, the section of the Illinois statutes which state that warrants shall be drawn against any fund "only when at the time of the drawing and issuing of such warrants there shall be sufficient money in the appropriate fund in the treasury to pay said warrants."

At present there is not sufficient money in the corporate fund to meet the checks for $1,000,000. The plan is to repay the special funds after Feb. 9 when the passage of the tax levy ordinance by the city council will release $2,341,000 from the working cash fund and authorize the controller to sell tax anticipation warrants against the 1931 taxes.

9 PLANES BURNED IN N. Y. HANGARS; LOSS IS $100,000

Valley Stream, N. Y., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Fire of suspected incendiary origin tonight swept through six hangars at Roosevelt flying field No. 2, destroying nine airplanes and causing damage estimated by officials at $100,000.

The flames, bursting suddenly through the old wooden hangar in which Charles A. Levine, first trans-Atlantic air passenger, kept the machines he formerly owned, spread rapidly.

The big nickelled plane "Uncle Sam," which Levine built at a cost of $25,000, and two "triads," also built at his order, designed for land, sea, and air use, were lost with six other planes. The Levine planes recently were sold at auction for rental of the hangar and their former owner is being sought by the police for investigation of his ownership of stolen securities.

RESORT INVOLVED IN POLICE KILLING REPORTED OPEN

The vice resort at 2904 Prairie avenue, conducted by Vic Shaw, in the investigation of which Policeman James Corcoran was murdered Nov. 25, is again running wide open, according to Charles E. Miner, general director of the Committee of Fifteen.

In a report issued yesterday, Mr. Miner said: "After fighting this case through the courts for three years, this woman resorted to a loophole in the law and the place was restored to her on payment of court costs. She filed a bond of $1,000 to guarantee that the place would not be used for prostitution. At the present time the place is being operated under the name of Mrs. Bailey."

City Diver Karl Knudsen searched the bed of the Chicago river at the South Halsted street bridge in vain yesterday for the gun used to kill Policeman Corcoran. Peggy Smith, 25 years old, who implicated Thomas De Sett of Maywood in the killing, said she threw the gun into the river there. De Sett, who confessed the murder, and Miss Smith were connected with the Prairie avenue resort.

SEVERE STORM LASHING COAST OF CALIFORNIA

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poison by paring them. Statistics show that many deaths have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents worth of Ice-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen and lift off easily with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Ice-Mint overcomes such affections as sore, tired, aching, puffed or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably responsible for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists.

To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way makes it seem the height of folly for anyone to pare a corn and people are warned to stop it.

DEFEAT MOVE TO LIFT BAN ON MEDICAL LIQUOR

Drys Ignore Report of Wickersham.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Drys in the senate today balked against acceptance of a unanimous recommendation of the Wickersham commission for relaxation of restrictions affecting the sale of medicinal liquor. They won out, but by a narrower margin than has been recorded on any wet measure since the 18th amendment went into effect.

The senate twice rejected in roll calls an amendment to the Howell District of Columbia prohibition enforcement bill to eliminate the restrictions on the amount of liquor and the number of prescriptions which physicians may issue for illness. The amendment, which was offered by Senator Harry Hawes [Dem., Mo.], was in exact accord with the recommendation of both wet and dry members of the Wickersham commission.

First Vote Reconsidered.

On the first roll call the amendment was rejected by a vote of 25 to 45. Senator M. E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], one of a group of wets sponsoring the amendment, changed his vote before the result was announced in order to make it possible for him to move a reconsideration.

He explained that some senators may have voted against the amendment without being present during the debate and without realizing that it was a unanimous recommendation of the Wickersham commission. The senate, however, again rejected it, this time by a vote of 29 to 39.

There was, pending adjournment, an amendment by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] to permit physicians to prescribe for medicinal use malt liquor containing as much alcohol as is pemitted in whisky prescriptions.

Clark Ruling Delayed.

The Supreme court of the United States announced a three weeks' recess during the day without handing down its decision on the ruling of Justice Clark in Newark, N. J., affecting the constitutionality of the 18th amendment. This decision is now looked for when the court reconvenes on Feb. 24.

The dry opposition to relaxation of medicinal liquor restrictions was strengthened by an analysis of the Wickersham commission's report, issued by the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals. The board, while approving recommendations of the commission against repeal of the 18th amendment and against modification of prohibition laws to permit the sale of light wines and beer, criticized some of its other suggestions, and especially those of individual members.

Views on Prescription Rum.

"The commission's suggestion that the present restrictions upon the prescription of liquors by physicians be done away with evokes natural sympathy," said the board. "It must not, however, be too hastily approved, lest it be disastrous to the enforcement and humiliating to the medical profession. The obligation rests upon the medical fraternity to show how this can be done without making available to bootleggers a source of supply. It will not do to say that physicians will not abuse such a privilege. The vast majority will not. Some of them will."

Led by Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], one of the authors of the 18th amendment, and by Senator R. B. Howell [Rep., Neb.], author of the pending bill, the drys in the senate kept their forces almost solidly in line against the Hawes amendment. Their chief plea was that the question should be taken up as an amendment to the Volstead act, and not to a bill applying only to the District of Columbia. It was evident, however, that they were not in sympathy with the Wickersham commission's recommendation under any circumstances.

Heflin Changes Vote.

The only dry shifting over to the support of the amendment on the second roll call was Senator J. Thomas Heflin [Dem., Ala.].

The wets were encouraged by the fact that the votes in favor of the amendment represented the greatest showing of strength in the senate for a liberalization of the dry laws since their enactment.

On the first roll call the 25 votes in the affirmative included 16 Republicans, 8 Democrats, and one Farmer-Labor member. The 45 against it included 24 Republicans and 21 Democrats.

In the second roll call the 29 in the affirmative included 16 Republicans, 12 Democrats and one Farmer-Labor member.

The two Illinois senators split on the question, Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep.] voting for the amendment and Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep.] against it.

Senator Royal Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], a physician, and Senator Henrik Shipstead [Farmer-Labor, Minn.], a dentist, were among those who joined actively in support of Senators Hawes and Tydings on behalf of the amendment.

Senator Cole Blease [Dem., S. C.] caused laughter by asking Senator Copeland if he was "acquainted with any one in the District of Columbia who is dying for want of liquor." Senator Copeland had appealed for support of the amendment on the ground that medicinal liquor often was useful in saving life.

"No," replied the New York senator, "but I do not want to place physicians on the plane of the bootlegger or the operator of a speakeasy."

RULES REP. DENISON MUST FACE TRIAL ON 1929 LIQUOR CHARGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Representative Edward E. Denison [Rep., Ill.], must go to trial on a year old indictment charging him with illegal possession of liquor in his Capitol Hill office, as a result of a decision rendered today by Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Representative Denison was indicted by the district grand jury on Nov. 19, 1929, eleven months after a leaking suitcase addressed to him was discovered by federal agents in the union station here. An investigation led to the discovery of a trunk containing liquor in Mr. Denison's office, and in spite of the representative's assertion that both the trunk and suitcase were mistakenly delivered to him, an indictment was brought.

Today's decision sets aside the action taken by Justice Peyton Gordon of the District Supreme court, in which he sustained a demurrer brought on the grounds that the indictment failed to sufficiently acquaint the defendant with the charge, so that an acquittal might be pleaded in the event of an effort to again charge him under the same state of facts.

ONE BY ONE THEY QUIZ THE CODFISH BUT FIND NO RUM

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Capt. John Bendixen finally got his boat back today. He says it took customs officials and coast guardsmen a week to tell the difference between a cargo of cod and a case of whisky while he had to stand around with his hands in his pockets whistling.

Bendixen is the owner of the fishing schooner Good Luck, which was seized a week ago by coast guard cutter 213 while it was coming up lower New York bay on its way to the Fulton fish market. Bendixen and his crew of ten were ordered to proceed to the market. There the customs officials instituted their search.

Take Craft Apart in Search.

They began slowly to disembowel the vessel. In their zealousness they performed feats of vivisection unheard of in the annals of surgery. For one whole day they set to work with hammer, saw, and drill to penetrate the secret places of the schooner. They banged and they tapped and they sawed and they hammered. They resorted to all sorts of devices to discover where the liquor, if any, was hidden. Many of them, it was reported, were found with their ears close to the nether planking of the schooner hoping to hear the gurgle of bacardi rolling in the bottle.

Their Name Is Perseverance.

With the dawn of another day hopes were renewed and bright ideas surged into coast guard brains. Perhaps—suggested an official—perhaps she has a false bottom. Boats have been known to contain false bottoms. The coast guardsmen towed the Good Luck to their base at Stapleton, Staten Island. Once again they went to work with excitement in their hearts, a gleam in their eyes, and their hands full of tools. They dug out her interior. They listened to her heartbeat. They examined her epigastrium and analyzed the contents of her alimentary canal. But of liquor there was none. Only cod, cold, calculating, contemptuous cod, their blank eyes saying more than words.

It was found that the Good Luck had no false bottom, but a good and sturdy keel. The officials at base no. 2 ceased their searching, stood off, and regarded their handiwork. It had been pretty rough, they had to admit. Nobody with a feeling for boats could deny that. Hhe only thing to be done was to fix her up again. And so for the third time another gang of men with a large assortment of tools boarded the maimed and crippled ship.

They finished today and Capt. Bendixen went down to take charge. To his consternation he was told that during the search the ship's papers were lost and that it was impossible for the government to surrender a vessel to any but its rightful and accredited owner. Bendixen was told he would have to take out new papers.

By the time he got his boat he was good and sore. "The seizure of my vessel was an outrage," he wanted it understood. "If they are going to seize every fishing smack that comes up the river the industry is going straight to hell."

DRY REPEALING BILL IS BEFORE HOUSE IN NEW YORK ASSEMBLY

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Cuvillier bill designed to petition for the calling of a constitutional convention looking to repeal of the eighteenth amendment was voted out of committee by the assembly tonight. This action places the bill before the lower house for passage or rejection. Such action was deferred until next Monday night.

Sixteen Republicans joined with Democrats in voting the measure out of committee. The bill was introduced early in the session by a Democrat, Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier of New York, leader of the wet forces in the lower house.

36 CONVICTED OF HUGE ROCKFORD RUM CONSPIRACY

Seven of 43 Accused Are Acquitted.

Freeport, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Thirty-six residents of Rockford, Ill., were found guilty of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law by a jury in federal court this evening after a trial that lasted two weeks and during which government agents unfolded an amazing story of illicit distilling on a tremendous scale in what is known as Rockford's little Italy.

Of fifty-nine defendants named in indictment returned last summer sixteen last week were freed on a directed verdict of not guilty. Seven, including one woman, Mrs. Jean Newell, were found not guilty tonight.

Two of the "big shots" in Rockford's and northern Illinois' liquor traffic, William "Big Bill" D'Agostin and Tony Musso, were found guilty. These men were popularly supposed to be intense rivals and both were reported closely affiliated with Chicago booze syndicates.

The jury took the case at 5 p. m. Saturday and it was reported that from the first ballot a majority was for conviction. The jury came into court Sunday night for further instructions.

The thirty-six defendants found guilty will be sentenced on Thursday. Conviction carries with it a $10,000 fine and two years in federal penitentiary, or both.

A roundup by federal agents that resulted in the arrests and indictments came after months of investigation by prohibition officers of the Rockford liquor racket. Evidence showed trainloads of corn sugar and many hundreds of pounds of yeast found their way to liquor plants.

Victor La Rue, Chicago, assistant U. S. district attorney, was chief prosecutor. His charge during closing arguments Saturday that vice and bootlegging in Rockford was "protected by the Rockford police department" this afternoon drew a resolution from Rockford ministerial association demanding that Mayor J. H. Hallstrom and city council inaugurate immediate investigation of the police department.

Ex-Convict Seized on Attempted Slaying Charge

James Sarkis, 35 years old, was arrested last night by a detective bureau squad under the command of Sergt. Ernest Sloey and charged with the attempted murder of George Bassian, 34 years old, a tailor who lives at 819 West Madison street. Bassian identified Sarkis as the man who dragged him out of his bed on last New Year's eve and shot him after attempting to rob him. Records revealed Sarkis served two terms in Leavenworth for violation of the narcotics law.

BISHOP CANNON CASE SCHEDULED TO BEGIN IN WASHINGTON TODAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church South planned tonight to leave his hospital bed tomorrow to answer charges brought against him by fellow clergymen.

Weakened by long months of illness, the temperance leader, nevertheless, planned a vigorous defense. Tomorrow's hearings, to be conducted by twelve ministers appointed by Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of Birmingham, Ala., are in the nature of an investigation and not a trial.

If charges filed by four prominent Methodist ministers are found to have weight in the minds of the twelve, Bishop Cannon will be suspended from active duties and brought to trial by the general conference of the church which meets in 1934.

The nature of the charges, filed by Dr. F. J. Prettyman of Baltimore, Dr. I. P. Martin of Abingdon, Va., and Drs. Costen J. Harrell and J. T. Mastin of Richmond, Va., has never been disclosed, but they are supposed to be based in part on Bishop Cannon's dealings with a brokerage house in New York, found by the New York courts to have been a bucketshop.

Two Young Iowa Couples Seized Here as Robbers

Two young Iowa couples were arrested here last night in a hotel at 1401 West Madison street on charges made by Sioux City, Ia., authorities of safe blowing, robbery, burglary and the larceny of an automobile. They are Ted Raynor, 18 years old; Forrest Dawson, also 18, and their brides, who were Dorothy and Josephine Faust, all of Sioux City.

SEVEN INJURED AS STREET CAR RUNS INTO BUS

Seven persons were injured, one seriously, last night when a street car crashed into the rear of a motor coach while it was taking on passengers at State and 24th streets.

Henry Ladin, colored, 4821 South Park way, was the most seriously injured. He was taken to the Daily hospital.

Three deaths yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 117. The victims:

Mrs. Hattie Benham, colored, 40 years old, 9347 South Wabash avenue. Died in the Burnside hospital after being struck while crossing 94th street at State street. The motorist was William Shely, 5454 Cornell avenue, a clerk.

William Levis, 50 years old, 2921 North Cicero avenue, a motorman for the Chicago and West Towns Railway company. Died in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, last night from injuries received on Jan. 14 when his street car collided with a truck driven by Fred W. Cleff, 504 Circle avenue, River Forest, at Lake street and Bonnie Brae, River Forest.

William Johnson, 45 years old, a laborer, 2426 South Canal street. Killed when struck by an automobile driven by Wilbert Carter, 2733 Shields avenue, as he was crossing Wentworth avenue at 25th street.

Look for Tide to Refloat Liner Aground in Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Passengers taken from the Munson liner Munargo when it ran aground in Nassau harbor today remained here overnight after officers of the vessel said it probably would sail tomorrow for Miami. Officers thought the Munargo, which they said ran aground because of a jammed steering gear, could be removed at high tide tonight.

STAR ACTOR IS KONJOLA "FAN"

William Demarest, Star in the "Sketch Book" at Grand Opera House, Endorses New Medicine.

Quit experimenting . . . quit looking for the medicine you need . . . put Konjola to the test, just as tens of thousands have. Surely nothing could be wiser than to profit by the experiences of those who have used this new and different medicine of 32 ingredients.

WILLIAM H. DEMAREST
Star in Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" Playing at the Chicago Grand Opera House.

Read what Mr. William Demarest says and remember that countless others have had the same happy experience with Konjola, the modern medicine for the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. After you read Mr. Demarest's words ask your druggist about Konjola. He knows—just as 40,000 other druggists do—what Konjola can do and does do.

Demarest says: "Konjola will always have a place in my dressing room and my home. For nine years I suffered from indigestion, the result of encountering different food, cooking and water while on tour. I tried medicine after medicine with no benefit until a friend in Chicago recommended Konjola. Just imagine my delight when just two bottles of this amazing medicine gave me fine relief. I kept on with Konjola and in a few more weeks I was able to eat anything without discomfort. Konjola restored my digestion completely, and gladly I recommend this medicine."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve deadening drugs, no heart depressing chemicals. It needs no such ingredients to bring relief from ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and from rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Growing Children

Sleepy Water from Hot Springs, Ark., is rich in the precious minerals so essential to growing youngsters. Young children demand a much greater proportion of mineral-building material than is necessary at maturity. Sleepy Water furnishes the calciums, irons and phosphates that build up strong bodies and promote resistance to disease. Deficiency ailments common to childhood may be avoided by the regular use of Sleepy Water. Grown-ups, too, should drink it abundantly every day, for Sleepy Water sweetens the system of acids and poison wastes. Write for booklet.

PUBLIC TO HEAR TRIAL OF BUTLER IN PHILADELPHIA

Parole General So He Can Prepare Defense.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The drastic arrest order which for five days has kept Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler a close prisoner within the military reservation at Quantico, was modified late today to permit the marine officer to make such outside trips as he deems necessary in preparing his defense.

This change of heart on the part of the administration became known after Secretary of the Navy Adams had set Feb. 16 as the date when Butler must go on trial before a court martial board as a result of his recent criticisms of Premier Mussolini of Italy as a hit and run driver. The trial will be open to the public unless another change in plans occur.

As a result of the new order issued by Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, marine corps commandant, Gen. Butler now is free to go to New York, Washington, or any other city as often as he pleases until the court meets at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Punishment May Be Light.

There were the strongest indications today that the navy department will ask some sort of punishment less drastic than dismissal from the service when Butler is placed on trial. Reports that an attempt was being made to cashier Butler and force him out of the service after he had reached the age of retirement were termed untrue in an authoritative naval quarter. The indication was that the naval department will ask simply a reprimand.

Today's developments in the Butler court martial case began early when Secretary Adams appeared at the White House and conferred for an hour with President Hoover. According to some reports the secretary urged President Hoover to drop the court martial proceedings and let Butler off with a reprimand, but this could not be verified.

It later was learned, however, that the court martial proceedings are to go on as planned and that Gen. Butler probably will be accused of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman or conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

Indications tonight are that John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1924, will defend Butler. Friends of Gen. Butler talked to Davis in New York today and at the conclusion of the conference it was said he would decide tomorrow whether to head Butler's counsel. Maj. Harris W. Watkins, Philadelphia lawyer, who served in the marines under Gen. Butler in 1903 and 1904, has been chosen as one of his associate counsel.

Prints Story About Duce.

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Il Nuove, an anti-Fascist Italian language newspaper published in this city by the Progressive Labor association, in tomorrow's issue will publish a letter accusing Premier Mussolini of Italy of having fatally injured a 6 year old child, the daughter of a man named Santini, when the premier was driving some friends at a high rate of speed last Sept. 14 through the hamlet of San Quitiro, in Tuscany. According to the story the child died in a hospital.

The letter, written on Sept. 18 last, according to the editor of the newspaper, Vincenzo Vacirea, former deputy who left Italy six years ago, and the general manager, Girolamo Valenti, charged the premier with having refused to stop the car after the little girl had been hurled against a wall.

It told of the appearance of a police car soon after the accident in which the dying child and two men named Pullacoa and Lazerini, the latter the head of the Fascist group in San Quitiro, were taken to the nearby village of Grosetto. Pullacoa and Lazerini were alleged to have publicly identified "Il Duce" as the driver of the car which sped away. The letter added Pullacoa and Lazerini never returned to San Quitiro.

Mr. Vacirea refused to reveal the name of the author of the letter. He said, however, he would offer it to Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler of the marine corps for use in the general's forthcoming court martial on charges resulting from his Philadelphia speech in which he told of a similar accident with Premier Mussolini as the driver of the car and on which the state department at Washington made an apology to Premier Mussolini after a protest by the Italian ambassador in Washington.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Katerina Rehua, a Maori woman, whose husband has been out of work for nine months, entered an endurance swimming contest here yesterday to earn enough money to buy food for her four children, one of which is only nine weeks old.

She swam 47 hours and 52 minutes, said to be several hours better than the previous world's record, but she finished second to Mercedes Gleitze, who kept up the grind for 23 minutes longer.

Mrs. Rehua's prize was $500 and Miss Gleitze contributed another $500 from her winnings of $1,500. Mrs. Rehua and her husband said they had spent their last shilling for carfare to the pool where the marathon was conducted.

CALL PROTEST MASS MEETING IN BUTLER CASE

A mass meeting for all persons who wish to protest against the apology to Premier Mussolini by the American government followed by the court-martial order against Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler for remarks resulting in the apology will be held in a local auditorium some time this week.

Under the direction of Dr. George U. Lipschulch, a world war veteran, a petition is being prepared which will be sent to the court martial board. Telegrams of confidence have already been sent to Maj. Gen. Butler and to Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., who is reported to have been Gen. Butler's informant.

LETS NEW YORK TAP DELAWARE RIVER WATER

Referee Reports on New Jersey's Complaint.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The right of New York City to increase its water supply by taking water from five tributaries of the Delaware river within the New York state boundaries was upheld today in a report made to the United States Supreme court by Charles N. Burch, special master in the case, who urges the court to hand down a decree to that effect.

In a sense, therefore, New York state, which joined in bringing suit against the Chicago diversion, promises to be a victor in a case considered parallel in many respects to that in which the ruling went against Chicago.

Should the court uphold the master's recommendations in the present case, the losers would be in the state of New Jersey, which asks for an injunction against New York City, and Pennsylvania, an intervenor, siding against New York.

Places Restrictions.

While Mr. Burch's report recommends a denial of New Jersey's request and supports the New York diversion, it places certain restrictions on the city's right to take water from the Delaware water shed. It recommends that New York be denied the 600 million gallons daily that it asks for and be limited to 440 million gallons daily; it recommends that, before any diversion is allowed, New York be required to build sewage treatment plants; that there must be releases from impounding reservoirs in case the river falls below certain stages; and that New Jersey and Pennsylvania shall have the right of inspection at all times.

New Jersey filed a bill of complaint in 1929, claiming that the diversion would affect the navigability of the Delaware, deprive that state of riparian rights, injure the sanitary and industrial use of the Delaware, injure the recreational value of the river, and other allegations.

Special Master Reports.

Mr. Burch was appointed master to hear testimony. "New York City," his report stated, "acting under the authority of New York state, should have the right to select its source of additional water supply. This is a matter which concerns the administration of its own internal affairs and should not be controlled by another state unless its plan for additional water supply is willful or arbitrary and without sound basis and unreasonably injured such other state."

Summarizing, he said, there would be a "substantial damage" to New Jersey greater than she and her citizens should bear, but that this could be removed by the treatment plants and the reservoir releases.

He denied the plea of Pennsylvania for 750 millions gallons daily, saying neither she nor Philadelphia had any "present or authorized" plan for using water from the Delaware.

"The modification of the New York plan of diversion recommended will leave conditions so that New Jersey will not be unreasonably affected and will occasion only such very slight and inconsequential damage and inconvenience as New Jersey must necessarily bear in the case of a stream in which it has only a common interest with other states," the report said.

New York today asked the Supreme court for permission to amend its original answer to the complaint of New Jersey. New York specifically denied it was dumping garbage in navigable waters.

LABOR DELEGATES DEMAND WOMAN MINISTER RESIGN

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Resignation of Miss Margaret Bondfield, minister of labor, was demanded by some delegates to the Lancashire conference of the Independent Labor party today because of her alleged attempt to force unemployed mill girls into domestic service under a threat of losing the dole. E. Sandham, Labor member of parliament for Kirkdale, assailed Miss Bondfield and declared that it was not labor's business to perpetuate a system under which rich women with no children could employ three or four servants while working class wives struggled unaided.

AUTO INDUSTRY PICKS UP SPEED AS PUBLIC BUYS

Factories Recall 100,000 More Workers.

BY HAL FOUST.

The automobile industry is starting the second month of 1931 with more than 100,000 employés added to its pay rolls within the last thirty-one days. Still more workers are being recalled as the factories are stepping up production to meet a public demand that was awakened during the national automobile shows after sixteen months' slumber.

Thousands of other men are being returned to jobs of producing material for the automobile plants. It is difficult to estimate their number. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce figures that 4,700,000 persons are employed in the motor vehicle and allied industries, a tenth of the nation's wage earners.

Increase Nears Half Million.

Accepting the chamber's figure, a ten per cent increase in the automobile business would mean an increase in employment of approximately 470,000 persons. The January automobile production was approximately 175,000 cars, an increase of thirteen per cent over December.

February production schedules have been boosted way a head of January's, some of the plants increasing output twenty and thirty per cent. The leaders of the industry believe they have broken the buyers' strike by producing a better automobile at a lower price in relation to value.

The Pontiac, Mich., correspondent of THE TRIBUNE reports that the four major automobile factories there are adding an average of 400 men a week to their combined pay rolls.

Other Cities Report Increases.

At Auburn, Ind., the force in the automobile plant has been doubled, raised from 300 to 600 men.

At Cleveland, O., 1,000 auto body builders have been returned to work in the last three weeks.

Thousands have been recalled in Flint, Mich. One of the large factories which was closed for inventory in December now has 13,500 men on the pay roll. A spark plug company is working 2,900 men fifty hours a week.

At Lansing, Mich., an automobile plant has 3,000 employés engaged in increasing production thirty per cent.

Clergyman's Son New York Defendant.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Landlady and the fellow lodgers who accuse James Matthew Maxon Jr. of having beaten aged David Paynter to death in a rooming house brawl last April began today their story in General Sessions court, where the young man went to trial charged with second degree murder.

Mrs. Rose Hickey, whose roomers called her "Ma," and James McCarry, the porter, were the first witnesses. Maxon was presented by the state's attorney as one who, intoxicated, by his own statement, had run amuck, wrecked the rooming house, and killed an old and penniless fellow lodger.

Then the Other Side.

Later his own attorney said he was a young man, confused and terrified, striking out blindly to defend himself.

Maxon's father, the Rt. Rev. James M. Maxon, Episcopal bishop coadjutor of Tennessee, was a spectator at today's trial.

Neither Mrs. Hickey nor McCarry saw the defendant strike Paynter in the mêlée that followed after she awoke at 3 o'clock last Good Friday morning, saw Maxon standing by her bed, and screamed.

Drinking Is Admitted.

But Mrs. Hickey told of a dramatic chase in which, she said, Maxon beat her a couple of times. Twice, she testified, Maxon threatened to kill her.

Under cross examination by Martin W. Littleton Mrs. Hickey admitted that she had drunk several gin cocktails early in the evening. She also admitted that since Paynter's death she had retained a lawyer and had asked him if he though she ought to have to stand the loss resulting from the damage to the rooming house furniture.

21 ROOMS AND 9 BATHS IN NEW RASKOB FLAT

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee and former executive in General Motors and the Du Pont industries, has leased for ten years the seventeenth floor of the apartment house being erected by Vincent Astor at 120 East End avenue, it was announced today.

The structure is seventeen stories and a penthouse, and occupies a site 114 by 177 feet at the northwest corner of 85th street.

Mr. Raskob has replanned the space, providing twenty-one rooms and nine baths. They include a huge drawing room, a number of loggias, and several interesting gallery and dressing room arrangements.

8,000 DENTISTS DISCUSS WHAT'S BEST FOR TEETH

an Annual Convention of Chicago Society.

The sixty-seventh midwinter session of the Chicago Dental society—an annual convention which in recent years has come to be regarded as the most important and best attended dental congress in the world—was opened yesterday at the Stevens hotel.

Incomplete registration lists indicated last night that last year's attendance record of 8,000 would be surpassed. The program, which includes demonstrations by 300 dental technicians and essays to be read by 100 of the foremost members of the profession, will continue for the next three days.

The Chicago Dental society has 2,500 members. How the society's convention is able to attract nation-wide attention and attendance was explained by Dr. Stanley D. Tylman, member of the University of Illinois faculty and chairman of the convention committee.

A Policeman Is Needed.

"You see how popular it is," he said, pointing to the uniformed policeman at the door of the hotel's grand ballroom where a clinic was in progress. "We need the strong hand of the law to keep out dentists who are denied invitations because their practice is unethical. We found that now a policeman could overawe them."

It is the prestige of the Chicago Dental society and the efforts expended on the convention program which explains the popularity of the conventions, according to Dr. Tylman. Within a week after election of officers, the new chairman of the convention committee will begin enlisting 200 of his associates to work through the next ten months lining up speakers, clinicians and exhibitors for next year's session, he said.

Sounding the keynote of this year's convention, Dr. Harris W. McClain, in his address as president of the society, considered the relationship between dental troubles and organic diseases.

May Cause Many Diseases.

"A healthy mouth contains a complete set of sound teeth, supported by vigorous gums and strong, healthy bone," he said. "Damage to any part of this machine may lead to disorders in other parts of the body. The infection of a decayed tooth may pass through the root into the blood stream, resulting in various forms of rheumatism, neuritis, heart disease, lung trouble and kidney disease."

On the dental profession's program to improve the health of the mouth Dr. McClain listed eight activities: State and municipal surveys to determine existing conditions, coöperation with medical organizations in fostering periodic health examinations, coöperation with state and municipal health boards in public health projects, organizing dental clinics in public and parochial schools; sponsoring and conducting dental clinics in state asylums, orphanages, and other institutions; furnishing speakers for radio and club meetings and coöperation with social agencies to provide free dental service for the poor.

Tell of Work in Schools.

A survey in Chicago public schools two years ago revealed unclean mouths among 50 per cent of 66,000 school children and an average of four cavities in each mouth, Dr. McClain said. In Chicago's fourteen school clinics dentists last year extracted 17,000 abscessed teeth and by use of fillings saved nearly 14,000 decayed molars, considered the most important teeth in the mouth.

In conjunction with the convention, manufacturers of dental equipment and supplies are holding a $1,000,000 exhibit in the basement of the Stevens, including every item from a 25-cent tube of tooth paste to a $5,000 dental chair, complete with electric drills and an X-ray lamp.

One manufacturer is showing false teeth which are guaranteed immune to the ravages of prohibition liquor.

ASK COURT TO HALT PLAN TO GIVE HOUSE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The District Supreme court was asked today to prevent Mrs. Mary Henderson, 90 year old Washington social leader, from disposing of any of the real estate belonging to the estate of her husband, former senator from Missouri, John B. Henderson, or of her son, John B. Henderson Jr.

MRS. MARY HENDERSON. [H. & E. Photo.]

The petition, which was filed by Mrs. Henderson's granddaughter, Mrs. Beatrice Wholean, comes as the result of an offer made by Mrs. Henderson last Friday, to present a mansion to the government as a residence for the Vice President.

According to Mrs. Wholean, who is a daughter of John B. Henderson, Jr., her grandmother is mentally incompetent properly to perform her duties and functions as a trustee under the wills of her husband and son, having been under care of physicians and in sanitariums for the last two years. She declares her belief that the elderly lady has disposed of various properties for sums reaching into hundreds of thousands, and that there is no means of knowing how these sums have been reinvested.

Removal of Mrs. Henderson as a trustee of the two estates is asked.

DOCTOR HELD AFTER DEATH OF DIVORCEE

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Dr. Frank L. Nathanson, 3346 West Madison street, be charged with attempted abortion in connection with the death, last Saturday, of Mrs. Mae Johnson, 30 years old, 4306 North Crawford avenue, a divorcee.

Several witnesses told Deputy Coroner Jacob Shewel and the jury that Mrs. Johnson had informed them that Dr. Nathanson had operated upon her. Dr. Nathanson and his nurse, Miss Esther Wandell, 3408 North Harding avenue, denied this. An examination had been made, they said, for which $55 was paid. The physician was taken into technical custody by Albany Park police after the inquest. Later Dr. Nathanson was booked on the attempted abortion charge. He will be arraigned in the Felony court today.

ESTIMATE RUSSIA HAS 1,000,000 IN "EXILE CAMPS"

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—While the government of soviet Russia takes the attitude that the number of "exiles" at work in its "concentration labor camps," together with the conditions of their service, are Russia's own private business, it is probably a safe estimate to put the number so employed at 1,000,000, of whom perhaps 200,000 are in the northern timber camps.

Exile is still one of the principal "means of government" in soviet Russia, as it was under the czars, and for the same reason. It is not only a form of punishment—especially political punishment—but it has other functions.

One is to remove subversive individuals from their familiar milieu to a remote spot where their potentially harmful activities will be nullified—as the bolsheviki put it, "where such misguided persons will be given a chance to regain by honest toil their lost citizenship in the socialist fatherland."

Another, which economically is of great importance in a huge, undeveloped country like Russia, is for the purpose of colonization—as Cromwell sent "malignants" to Virginia and the West Indies, which is a fearly apt parallel of present conditions here.

Different Forms of Exile.

In Russia there are different forms of exile. First is prohibition against living in capital cities. This is called "minus six," meaning that the individual in question may live anywhere he pleases, except in the capitals of the seven federated states that form the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Second, there is exile to a specified locality. The exiled person must notify the authorities of his arrival and must stay there. In both these cases there are no additional restrictions of his personal liberty and an exile can live as he pleases.

The third is exile to the "lagers" as the Russians call them, something equivalent to the "concentration camps" which the European countries established for enemy aliens during the world war.

Each concentration camp forms a sort of "commune," where every one lives comparatively free, not imprisoned, but compelled to work for the good of the community. They are fed and housed gratis and receive pay for their work, though on a lower scale—perhaps one-third is the average—than the outside rates. The anti-Kulak drive during the last two years has greatly increased the number of these "anti-social" exiles, which led to a new departure in their treatment.

Refuse to Deny Reports.

One might fairly reckon that, including urban exiles, upward of 2,000,000 persons have been removed by authority during the past two years.

Soviet officials say they will not trouble any more to deny or refute reports of conditions, however alarming or detailed, emanating from Riga, Helsingfors, and other cities in the border states. They have decided henceforth to leave such matters to the test of time and the public's sense.

DISMISS $800,000 ACTION AGAINST STATIONERS' ASSN.

Suit for $800,000 damages, charging conspiracy in restraint of trade, brought by Sidney Morris & Co. of Chicago against the National Stationers' association was dismissed yesterday when a jury in the court of Federal Judge Julian W. Mack returned a verdict of not guilty.

The principal charge of Sidney Morris & Co. was that members of the association had ordered the manufacturers of stationers' supplies not to sell to the plaintiff because it was engaged in price cutting.

The suit was instituted three years ago and among the original defendants were Clifford Wilson, Houston, Tex., president of the association; Fletcher B. Gibbs, Oak Park, general manager in 1927; Horders, Inc.; Boorum & Pease company; Wilson-Jones Loose Leaf company, and the Shaeffer Fountain Pen company.

WORLD WARNED TO AID CHINA 'OR SHE'LL GO RED'

U. S. Economist Pleads for Foreign Loans.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2.—Dr. Paul Monroe of Columbia university, famous economist, whose scheme is to solve China's financial and economic complications through readjustment of German reparations, arrived in Shanghai today and conferred with T. V. Soong, finance minister.

Neither Mr. Soong nor Dr. Monroe would discuss the purport of their conversation, but Dr. Monroe announced he entertained little hope of his plan being adopted unless European conditions forced a readjustment of the whole war debt question, in which event he hoped it would be possible that the United States and other powers might be able seriously to consider the matter of extending financial assistance to China.

How Plan Would Work.

Dr Monroe proposes that Germany make reparation payments both in money and goods to furnish China credit and machinery for domestic economic development. He suggests such advances be credited to France and England as reparation payments to them while the United States would credit France and England with like amounts as payments on the latters' war debts to Washington. The United States would in turn accept China's obligations secured on improvements made possible by German advances.

Dr. Monroe, whose presence in China is connected with the adjustment of final details of the American return to the Boxer indemnity funds of $20,000,000 to further Chinese education, stated that prior to his departure from New York he had conferred with Wall street bankers regarding the matter of advancing loans to China and found them unanimously cold to the proposition.

Dr. Monroe said:

"Chinese rehabilitation is impossible without outside financing, but American bankers are adopting a hard boiled attitude and seem unwilling to render it. Apparently they would rather see China go red or fall into dissolution than advance money at seemingly no greater risk than they experience in advance of great sums to Latin America or Europe."

Farmers Earn $50 a Year.

He added that he made extensive investigations of Chinese living conditions in north China and found that the average total annual income from Chinese farms died not exceed $50 in American money, and that this income was gradually lessening because of the silver slump and the world economic depression.

Unless American bankers give serious thought to the Chinese financial and economic situation, he said, China is bound to retrograde, resulting in the loss of one of America's best potential customers. Dr. Monroe declared he had discussed the Chinese finance question with members of the state department and that he had been authorized to confer with the American minister, Nelson T. Johnson, as well as Chinese officials.

Dr. Monroe is a native of Madison, Ind., and was for many years on the faculty of the University of Chicago. The economist will go to Japan this week and from there to Russia, returning to the United States in the spring.

Red Bandits Sweep On.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Feb. 2.—Communists along the Yangtze river as well as in the south are creating a serious problem to the Nationalist government, while in the north banditry is steadily increasing. On the outskirts of Peiping bandits are robbing people. In Jehol there are 20,000 bandits, mostly former soldiers. The entire length of the Peiping-Suiyan railway to the Mongolian frontier is in the grip of bandits.

Communist organizers are actively working along the Yangtze. Whether they are under Russian influence is not clear, but certainly the radical troops recently bought off by Nanking are either breaking away or are being succeeded by others. The latter theory leads to the suspicion that these communists have been incited by Moscow sympathizers, who are continuing their activities in the various regions of China.

Question of a Foreign Loan.

The situation on the Yangtze is serious owing to the activities of new units, which for the last week have renewed attacks upon foreign gunboats, chiefly American and British, escorting foreign merchantmen.

Meanwhile the legations are keenly interested in the Nanking report indicating a division in the government over the question of a foreign loan, one faction, headed by President Chiang Kai-shek and Finance Minister T. V. Soong, favoring a $10,000,000 gold loan indorsed by the league of nations, while the other faction prefers a silver loan through American channels.

JAMAICANS PLAN GAY WELCOME FOR PRINCE OF WALES

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Thousands of Jamaicans flocked into the city tonight that they might be on hand with a great welcome tomorrow as the prince of Wales and Prince George steam in aboard the liner Oropesa from Havana.

The city was gayly decorated and the reception to be given the British princes tomorrow will be the gayest held since that of forty years ago when their father, now King George, visited the island.

The princes, who are on a trade trip to South America, are scheduled to land at noon. A night reception at government house will be given by Gov. Sir R. E. Stubbs and Lady Stubbs. On Wednesday the royal party will sail southward.

GANDHI'S PARTY SPLIT ON BRITISH DOMINION OFFER

Section Asks Acceptance of New Constitution.

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.]

ALLAHABAD, India, Feb. 2.—Vallabhai Patel has been elected president of the ensuing session of the all-India nationalist congress at Karachi, but Mahatma Gandhi, in effect, continues to be its controlling head. Patel always has been a close follower of Gandhi and it is expected that his guidance in the Karachi congress will be along the lines his leader marks out. The congress working committee will hold its next meeting Feb. 13, at a place to be fixed by the president.

It has been provisionally decided to hold the next annual meeting in March. This is regarded as an indication that the congressmen, who are gathered here, are peacefully inclined.

Although no formal decision has been announced, an important section of the congress is apparently pressing for the acceptance of the promised constitution. Even extremists are not disposed to minimize the great advance registered at the London round table conference.

One section, it is reported, holds that as the congress leaders have left jails on amnesty they are bound to come to a settlement, and the only question now is whether they should accept the situation and consolidate their gains or hold out for more.

W.C.T.U. UPHOLDS LIQUOR REPORT OF WICKERSHAM

The Wickersham report calls for "observance and enforcement of the 18th amendment," in the opinion of officials of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, according to a statement issued last night.

The officials, headed by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, and Mrs. Ida B. Wise, vice president, met to map out a plan for a campaign of education of the organization's work. Following the meeting, which was held in Evanston, Mrs. Boole and Mrs. Wise issued the following statement:

"We believe the issue is clearly drawn in the Wickersham report and that it calls for observance and enforcement of the 18th amendment. We feel the question now before the people is whether or not liquor shall rule in America. We believe it will not rule, and no political party can live that dares to say it can."

POLICE 'FORGET' AS JURY PROBES ALLEGED FIXING

War on Gangs, Charge Given by McGoorty.

While the newly impaneled February grand jury was hearing a statement yesterday by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty on the supergovernment set up by the Capone gang because of "statesmanship resulting in the eighteenth amendment," the special grand jury on police graft was having difficulties.

The special jury was seeking the truth regarding the alleged "fixing" of a rape charge against three men. The jurors complained of the apparent forgetfulness of several policemen. No information was imparted to the jurors, it was reported, regarding who authorized the changing of the charge against the alleged rapists to disorderly conduct, which charge was not pressed in court.

Police Captain Can't Remember.

Capt. Joseph Palczynski of the West Chicago avenue station was reported to have told Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles E. Lounsbury that he didn't remember the case and that he had not authorized the abandonment of the rape charge. Lieut. Daniel O'Hara, who sent the complainant to the County hospital for an examination, said jurisdiction was taken from him.

Policeman Peter Ward, one of the arresting officers, testified that Lieut. O'Hara had told him that Capt. Palczynski was responsible for placing the minor charge against the men accused of criminally assaulting Miss Pearl Heller, who came to Chicago from Wausau, Wis., to be married. The girl said she was waylaid by the three men. Lieut. O'Hara said he didn't remember ever saying any such thing.

Assistant State's Attorney Joseph R. Orrico, who was assigned to the West Chicago avenue police court at the time, said the case had passed out of his memory. This was accepted with the explanation that because only a complaint of disorderly conduct was presented in court, Orrico would not have paid attention to it because the city prosecutor would handle it.

Will Ask Girl to Appear.

Prosecutor Mueller said he had records of the County hospital showing that a report was made that the young woman had been attacked and that she had also been cruelly beaten. He said this report was given the police originally. Since then, he learned, the young woman has gone back to Wausau and supposedly the marriage had taken place. She will be asked to appear before the grand jury, he said.

The other policemen involved in the case are to be heard today or at a later date, as the continuance of the special jury became certain when it was learned that the $50,000 requested from the county board would be provided.

President Cermak gave assurances yesterday that this sum would be available for the investigation even though it has not as yet been formally appropriated. Prosecutor Mueller was told that his bills would be paid pending final passage of the budget, which will include the $50,000 allowance, barring unforeseen opposition.

McGoorty Delivers Charge.

Chief Justice McGoorty's charge to the regular jury was made after Charles Heggie, 3500 Sheridan road, president of the Scully Steel and Iron company, had been designated as the foreman.

"The attention of preceding grand juries has been directed to organized crime in the Chicago area," the court stated. "Its activities have been gradually extended until they cover a large scope. Its rapid growth and prosperity constitutes a menace to the orderly development of our community life.

"Obscure hoodlums of little more than a decade ago have become rich and powerful. They have, with apparent immunity, conducted vast operations in the manufacture, distribution, and sale of alcoholic beverages.

One Individual in Control.

"The most serious effect of the rise and growth of organized crime in Chicago is its baleful and blighting influence upon public morals and politics. The traffic in beer in this community, with its enormous profits and long trail of corruption, is admittedly controlled by one individual or syndicate. The struggle for such control has been a long and bloody one.

"However much we may deplore statesmanship resulting in the adoption of the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution, and legislation relative thereto, we should not permit a supergovernment, based upon violence and lewlessness, to be erected in our midst.

Demands Prompt Action.

"We are facing a situation that should be strongly met by all lawful methods. Public opinion through the press and other civic organizations demands prompt and determined action. It is gratifying to note that the various municipalities of Cook county have responded to my request for the closest practical coöperation in crime detection and apprehension.

"The morale of the public enemy has been weakened but not broken. I charge you to exercise to the limit the great power vested in you, with courage and fidelity commensurate with your solemn responsibilities as grand jurors."

TWO MORE VICTIMS OF PARTY LUNCH POISON DIE; MAKING TOTAL 12

Grafton, N. D., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Death of two more persons today brought to twelve the number of victims of botulism, a form of food poisoning, which attacked seventeen persons after a party Thursday night. Ten of the victims died Friday, Saturday or Sunday, and two others today.

The latest deaths were those of Genevieve Hein, 16, whose parents and a brother and a sister had died earlier, and Joseph Leach, 30.

None of the others who partook of a salad which included home preserved peas was believed to be in danger.

lous to him. He ended his statement by praising Acting Commissioner Alcock, and said that his police department knowledge was based on general charges made by past grand juries or on opinions cited to him in the past by "high police officials."

The grand jury, it is reported, got no information which might result in future witnesses being called.

RECALL BRUNKER TALK

Boston, Mass., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Several members of the Boston City club when interviewed tonight affirmed the printed account of the speech delivered by Albert R. Brunker of Chicago in the auditorium of the club last Thursday night.

A report of the speech of the Boston Post quoted Brunker as saying that the men who shot seven men to death in the St. Valentine's day massacre were Chicago policemen. He was also quoted as saying that "80 per cent of the Chicago judges were under criminal influence" and that "Al Capone had 6,000 city, state, and federal officials on his pay roll."

Report Substantially Correct.

Mr. Brunker's talk was one of a series of weekly events which the club arranges for the members during the winter.

W. T. A. Fitzgerald, registrar of deeds of Suffolk county, stated: "I attended the meeting of the Boston City club last Thursday night and I read the account of Mr. Brunker's speech in the Post the following morning. It seemed to me to be a correct account of what he said.

"As I recall it he said that two of the five killers in the St. Valentine's day massacre were policemen."

Edward E. Whiting, one of the public trustees of the Boston Elevated railway and chairman of the City club reception committee, said: "The Boston Post story of the speech was substantially correct."

Carl W. Gram said he did not hear Mr. Brunker say that 80 to 90 per cent of the judges in the city were criminals.

Dr. William C. Crawford, president of the Boston City club and head of the Boston trade school, said: "While I cannot recall his exact words, I should say that the crowd got the impression that the city judges, to put it mildly, were in harmony with the racketeers."

Paint Saltis as Horny Handed Son of Toil at Vagrancy Trial

Just a solid citizen from the rural haunts of Wisconsin, whose interests are in barns, not bars, whose livelihood comes from lake water, not from prohibition liquor—that was Joe Saltis' rôle yesterday in the courtroom of Judge Justin F. McCarthy. Prosecutors Harry Ditchburne and James Brown did their best to prove that legally the beer baron is a vagrant, but at the close of a day of lengthy argument the advantage appeared to shade toward Farmer Joe and his attorney, James Burke.

Moreover, Joe will have his day in court today, Judge McCarthy indicated last night. Farmer Joe will be permitted to recite from the witness stand his tale of toil among the cows and the chickens, and even, barring strenuous objections from the prosecutors, will be permitted to unreel for the edification of court and spectators his moving picture—the only one of its kind—featuring Joe Saltis at work. No previews have been held, but it is understood that the only members of his supporting cast are the livestock about the summer resort, Barker's lake, of which he claims to be sole owner and manager.

Attack Jail Term Evidence.

Urbane and unperturbed by the energetic efforts of the prosecutors to depict him as "a person idle and dissolute, not giving a good account of himself, loitering about the streets, steamboat landings or public places, who habitually neglects his calling and fails to provide lawfully for himself and his family," this prominent "public enemy" lolled in his chair and was politely, and only occasionally alertly, attentive.

Persistently throughout the day Prosecutors Ditchburne and Brown battled to introduce evidence that in November, 1926, Saltis was sentenced to the House of Correction for a year for carrying concealed weapons. Just as persistently Burke invoked the statute of limitations, which precludes, he asserts, the introduction of any evidence prior to eighteen months before the date of the vagrancy warrant, which is Sept. 16, 1930. Judge McCarthy reserved his ruling until today.

"Are Gangsters Penitent?"

"Your honor," objected Burke at one point, "the law is presumed to be applied in a spirit of reformation, as here in a case in the Texas Supreme court in which the decision points out that beyond the statute of limitations, a veil should be drawn across the past of the penitent defendant.

"Are you trying to tell us, Mr. Burke," observed Ditchburne, "that the gangsters are penitent?"

Pending the court's decision on admission of evidence on the house of correction sentence, Burke placed on the stand yesterday citizens of Winter, Wis., near which Saltis lives, at the Barker Lake resort.

Tell of Saltis Farm.

Dr. H. A. Smith, now of Antioch; Clarence Beyers, a mechanic at Barker Lake; Arthur Donlon, keeper of the general store; George Fenners, superintendent of a silver fox and deer farm he testified Saltis owns; M. R. Schoenfeld, an engineer, of 163 East Walton, Willian Ryan, wholesale grocery salesman, and John Kluczynski, keeper of a soft drink place at 4958 South Hermitage, testified to Saltis' occupation as owner and manager of the resort.

Ryan, who told the court he had done business with Saltis for several years, testified on cross examination that his former occupation had been manager of a brewery. Kluczynski also told Ditchburne that his soft drink license is not kept in his own name, "because I didn't want the police pestering 'round.'"

This coffee has everything that you want coffee to have because Hills Bros roast it evenly . . . continuously . . .
a little at a time
CONTROLLED ROASTING . . . HILLS BROS' PATENTED CONTINUOUS PROCESS DEVELOPS A WEALTH OF AROMA, FLAVOR AND RICHNESS LACKING IN BULK-ROASTED COFFEE
TO THOSE carefully chosen coffees which make up the Hills Bros. blend, nature has given the utmost in flavor. And to develop that flavor to the fullest extent, Hills Bros. roast their blend by a process that has no equal in exactness.
Evenly . . . continuously . . . a few pounds at a time . . . the coffee passes through the roasters in which the heat is automatically controlled. Every berry is roasted evenly—to a degree that gives Hills Bros. Coffee its ever-satisfying flavor. What's more, it's a flavor no other coffee has because no other coffee is roasted the same way.
Whenever or wherever you buy Hills Bros. Coffee it is always fresh. Hills Bros.' vacuum packing process removes air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, from the can and keeps it out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh.
Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trademark—on the can.

How Sick Is A Sick Man When He Says He's Sick?

We have had everybody, from the President down, tell us that there is nothing fundamentally wrong with economic America. There is a world depression, of course, but America has the power and the sinews, by itself, to overcome that.

We are assured that there is more than enough money, that there is no over-production except on the farm, that there is plenty of energy ready to be let loose; and, in short, that the blood and the sinews of this nation are right and only the mind is wrong.

If they mean what they say, then what this country needs is a neurologist, not an economist.

For there can be nothing worse the matter with anyone than a sick mind. If there is anybody sicker than the man who says he is sick, or any woman more sleepless than the woman who says she can't sleep, we have failed to hear about them.

Psychology is real, in spite of the fact that it has virtually left the studied environment of the university to make a stage appearance as the juggler's wand of sales and advertising men.

When a man says he is sick, he is sick. When a man says he is afraid, he is afraid. All the advice in the world can tell him he ought not to be afraid, and he is still afraid.

The analysis of the problem by the advisors of our nation is absolutely right. The brains and the capital of America are afraid.

But from any psychologist's standpoint that is more than enough. Also, from any psychologist's standpoint, that fear is not going to disappear over night. We are not going to wake up some bright, sunny morning and say, "we are all right now; we are no longer afraid." It won't happen that way.

The thing that happens is that action always starts where there is no fear, or where the fear is less, or where the desire is greater than the fear.

Now, when we take True Story Magazine for our parallel, it is not hard to find where desire is greatest. Certainly, where desire is great enough to overcome fear.

For here in your wage-earning America today is where most of the buying is going on. Here is where your mass consumption, in spite of its present handicaps, is steadily growing to equal your mass production.

The man on a salary has much more to fear than the man on a job. The man on a salary knows that, when he gets out of a position, he may have to readjust himself to some entirely new business proposition before he can get going again. While the man on a job merely has to wait for another job. No wonder the salaried man has a far greater fear than the wage-earner. No wonder his fear is greater than his desire.

The wage-earner's lot is certainly different. His job itself is his security. When he loses it, he is not threatened with the eruption of his entire life. Therefore, when he has a job he can afford to spend a good part of the money he earns.

And that is exactly what he is doing. When he gets out of a job, one of the first things he—or his wife—does is to stop buying True Story Magazine, and we know very little about him till he gets another job. They do not buy our 25-cent magazine when they are worrying about their rent.

So ours is always the bull market of mass consumption.

We know this, not only from our own letters and manuscripts that tell us what is going on in their world, but from the hundreds upon hundreds of reports from the great advertisers of America whose letters regarding their use of True Story are almost too startling to print.

Here is The Borden Company saying, "True Story is a true leader in our Eagle Brand schedule for next year."

And the Carnation Milk Products Company saying, "We have become convinced that there is a great, new, reading public in America which perhaps is reached only in part by other magazines."

And Knox Gelatine saying, "True Story has produced more inquiries than any magazine we have ever used. And to convince the doubters that the inquiries were worth while, I had a follow-up put on several thousand returns with the startling result that we found sixty percent new customers, of which ninety-two percent had bought Knox Gelatine and liked it."

And Johnson & Johnson saying, "This placed True Story as the lowest cost per inquiry on my national advertising list."

And so on through a list of names that are household words.

All of which is not hard to understand, if you understand wage-earning America. Hoover was right. This country is sound in its blood and its sinews, even if the mind at the top is a bit scary and sick.

America is very fortunate in having nearly ninety percent of its wage-earning masses still employed. And American manufacturers and financiers have been very far-sighted in keeping the wage-scales of those many millions up to the very highest possible point in order that their buying power might be the least impaired.

THE ASSESSORS ASSESSED AND REVIEWERS REVIEWED.

The corporate fund of the city is cleaned out. There is not enough money on hand to pay the policemen and firemen. The educational fund of the school board is also scraping bottom. There is not enough money in it to pay the teachers when next their checks are due. The city treasurer, Mr. August Singer, has decided to meet the city's bills with money from the city's trust funds and to meet the school board's bills by transferring money from the building fund to the educational fund with no more collateral in each case than the canceled pay checks.

Mr. Silas Strawn doubts that this method is legal. He ought to know. He used to be president of the American Bar association, and no lawyer in Chicago is as familiar with the intricacies of our public finance as he is. But the question of legality may be put aside for the moment. The more imperative fact is that the situation as it has developed is inexcusable. These recurring crises in the finances of Chicago's local governments are not and were not inevitable. They might easily have been avoided had the board of assessors, and especially the board of review, made a conscientious effort to perform their duties.

The treasuries are empty because taxes have not been collected. Taxes have not been collected because of delays in assessment and review. After a painstaking examination of the chaotic condition existing last spring, the legislature in special session provided a schedule of dates when tax payments are to fall due. The act provided that the 1929 taxes, which ordinarily would have been paid last April, are to be paid on April 1 of this year.

At that time it was commonly assumed that the assessment and review would be completed in ample time. As a matter of fact, the assessment was already under way. The first of the books was ready for the reviewers on July 29. It was widely believed that the reviewers would receive the books, one by one, as the assessors finished them and hear complaints against the assessments as they became available. The board of review refused to adopt this common sense system and chose instead to wait until it had all the books in its possession.

The real estate valuations were completed by the assessors on Oct. 26, a week before the general election. Time was growing short, but the reviewers refused to accept the books for another week and more. Finally, on Nov. 7, the board of review took formal jurisdiction.

If taxes are to become delinquent on April 1, as provided by the legislature, the bills ought to go out a month earlier, or March 1. The board of review had no time to waste. However, it wasted a full month before getting down to business. The first hearing was held on Dec. 8. Progress meanwhile has been painfully slow. Two-thirds of the time available between Dec. 8 and March 1 has elapsed and the field has scarcely been scratched. It has been estimated that at the present pace the work cannot be completed before June 1, if then. That means that money will not come into the treasury until July.

The dilatory tactics of the board of review are the more amazing in view of the strong movement in the legislature to abolish the present machinery of assessment and review. The reviewers appear to be making the best possible case for those who seek to destroy them.

CRIME STATISTICS.

Among the important services performed by the crime commission, as pointed out by Oscar Hewitt in an article in Monday's TRIBUNE, is its check upon official crime statistics. To know what crimes are being committed in the city is essential to intelligent judgment upon the efficiency and integrity of our machinery of defense, the police, the prosecution, and the courts. To have the facts juggled, as the crime commission has shown them to be, is to confuse and prevent practical measures of relief.

It seems to have been a common practice of incoming police administrations to show a decrease of crime by the manipulation of records. The object of this practice needs no explanation. It should be abolished. It will continue, subject to such restraint as civic agencies like the crime commission and the press can impose upon it, so long as the police administration remains entangled in practical politics and is changed every time a new political control arrives in the city hall. When, if ever, we can establish a police administration that is independent of political influences and domination we may hope a reliable system of police records can be established in due time. It is true official statistics, as reported, tend to support official prestige and conceal official shortcomings, but a police department which is comparatively free from entanglements in practical politics and which has developed a professional self-respect can be depended upon to establish a system of records which will be nearer the facts than the pressure of politics has permitted police statistics to be. Official statistics and records always need analysis and checking up and always will, but a public service which is independent and able to develop efficiency need not fear honest records and will be less tempted to pervert them than one which, like our police service, is the perpetual victim of a low order of politics.

A CONTRAST IN POLICY.

The keen interest of the Japanese in the maintenance and increase of their naval power is in striking contrast to the disposition of our government toward naval reduction. We are officially preoccupied with experiments in reducing and limiting our fleet as a contribution to world peace. Since the Washington conference our naval strength has been both absolutely and relatively decreased. At the same time Japan's has increased, and, in spite of this fact, Japan is today showing every indication of a determination to build up her naval power. Her diplomacy is resolute and skillful and directed constantly to procure the very best terms in every negotiation. It concentrates its thought upon Japanese interests and has never shown a sign of wandering into the cloudland of altruistic adventure.

Approaching the international conference on disarmament, we now learn, Japan has a hitherto undisclosed reserve of $30,000,000 for possible eventualities and has under consideration a project for additional building above its main plans to build to the London treaty level. The government is under sharp criticism for failure at London to secure a 70 per cent ratio in auxiliary units, and the response is that the treaty gave a ratio of 72.2 per cent for the present and ultimately 62 per cent, providing the United States builds up to its treaty terms.

The important fact is not ratios but the conspicuous determination of Japan to be superior in the Pacific. We, on the other hand, seem to be interested only in naval retrenchment and oblivious to naval decline. That this course of action will produce peace in the Pacific can only be inferred on the assumption that the American people will be satisfied to accept a position of inferiority in the Pacific. If we are willing that our communications with China and our trade with what eventually will be one of the most important markets of the world shall be controlled by the Japanese naval power, we are following the right course. In our judgment that course is leading us not toward peace, but toward war.

CITIZENSHIP RIGHTS IN CITIES.

Rural argument is that concentrated populations cannot be permitted full representation with agricultural districts. That is: where the greatest interests are involved in legislation there shall be the least representation in the legislature. Isn't this quite absurd? Where the social order is most simple the lawmaking power shall be concentrated; where it is most complex this power shall be diminished. Where there are the largest investments, the most diversified activities, the most extensive planning for the future and the greatest incentive to development there shall be a restriction of citizenship rights needed for the proper determination of political questions which may affect metropolitan life.

The only home rule which could be a satisfactory substitute for loss of equality in representation would be separate statehood for the metropolitan area. The defenders of restriction refer to other metropolitan areas in which there has been a loss of representation. That is proof of nothing except the misfortune or folly of the disfranchised people. The composition of the United States senate was a political necessity in the forming of the Union. It is not an ideal scheme. It is indeed responsible for a great deal of trouble. It is one reason why the senate so frequently behaves with such irresponsibility. Proportionate representation is the theory of the American government, and in every violation of it there is a danger.

THE SALOON, OLD AND NEW.

One of the stock arguments against the repeal of national prohibition is that it would bring back the saloon. Of course, it need not, and, considering the consensus against that result, the virtual unanimity of opinion against the saloon, it would not. But the argument for national prohibition on that ground is weak for another reason, and the reason seems to us conclusive for any but a closed mind. Repeal could not bring back the saloon because the saloon is already with us.

The saloon is here in its most obnoxious form, the speakeasy. Col. Reeves of the Crusaders told legislators at Springfield the other day that whereas Chicago before prohibition had 5,000 saloons, it now has 20,000 speakeasies. In the national capital, at the doorstep of the prohibition control bureau, he estimates that there are 2,000 speakeasies. Whether his estimates are approximately accurate or not, it is notorious that speakeasies abound, a saloon which pays no revenue to the upkeep of government, but imposes more responsibilities and difficulties upon it than ever existed before, a saloon which is harder to regulate or restrict or suppress than the old saloon was, a saloon which produces moral, political and physical evils worse than those which the old saloon could be charged with.

Prohibition has not abolished the saloon. It has multiplied the speakeasy, the worst form of the saloon.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Times.]

Twenty covered garbage trucks were placed in service on Wednesday with a touch of ceremony in front of city hall. The event was certainly more deserving of celebration than many a public function staged in City Hall park, when measured by permanent gains for the health and self-respect of the people of New York and the beauty of their city. We may look forward to the eventual disappearance of that most extraordinary sight in a great metropolis—refuse wagons open to the air and distributing their contents of litter and ashes with a fine impartiality over select residential districts and tenement streets.

It took two years of study of European methods to give us the new covered garbage vans. It may seem like looking a fine motor truck in the mouth to wonder why this city of unparalleled wealth in this nation of unapproachable mechanical development should have waited for Europe to show us the way. Not only has New York City more money to spend on keeping itself clean, but its needs are greater. Our consumption of food in containers of wood, paper, or tin and our consumption of reading matter are on a much larger scale than abroad, and these are the main sources of street contamination.

The new covered wagons, it is to be hoped, are a step forward in a campaign that will not be ended until the problem of our littered streets has been solved. The paper and fruit skin bespattered sidewalks of New York are a disgrace and a byword.

FAMILY MEDICINES.

THE case against the family medicine chest ranks well up with the case for it. In New York state, outside of New York City, twenty-two children died from drugs picked up somewhere around the home. Some of them resulted from childish voyages of discovery into the family medicine chest. Some of them were caused by medicines which belonged in the family medicine chest if they belonged in the house at all but somehow they had been left around.

Poisonous medicines are safer in the chest than they are outside, but, on the other hand, having a medicine chest in the house is a temptation to keep drugs on hand and sometimes people forget to put medicines back. Of the household remedies strychnine is very much the most dangerous.

The twenty-two deaths in upper New York were distributed as follows: Strychnine, 12; stearate of zinc, 2; kerosene, 2; arsenic, 1; compound of cathartic pills, 1; gasoline, 1; grippe tablets, 1; muriatic acid, 1; turpentine, 1. One other child died from eating night shade berries, probably gathered for use in making a home made medicine. The arsenic was in rat poison. The stearate of zinc was in dusting powder on a baby.

The great improvement in the last five years indicates that the danger will be gone by the end of another five years. In the preceding three years, in the same territory, there were eighty fatalities among children 5 years of age and under. Of these accidents about one-half resulted from the taking of pills and other medicines containing strychnine.

After all, upper New York state is only a small section, and the total population of the country is several times that of that region. Let us say that 100 young children are killed yearly by taking medicines that are left within their reach, and that one-half of these deaths are due to strychnine poisoning. The statement would not be far wrong. If parents feel they want a family medicine chest they will do well to see to it that no tonic, cough medicine, laxative pill, or any other mixture containing strychnine finds its way therein.

IT'S A PLAIN BUNION.

M. S. H. writes: About ten years ago I wore ill fitting shoes that were too short. It wasn't long until the joint at the base of the big toe on the right foot became inflamed and enlarged, and the toe itself now points to the middle of the foot. The left foot is almost normal. This enlarged joint is still very painful and inflamed despite the fact that I have worn sensible shoes for many years. Is there any way to treat this joint to rid it of the soreness? I am under the impression that a bunion has formed on my foot. Can a bunion be removed or pain relieved by other means than surgery? My foot, with the shoe on, is not unsightly, but the pain is intense.

REPLY.

Plainly, you have a bunion. Protecting the enlarged joint by means of bunion plasters may relieve the pain and tenderness. Wearing a toe straightener will lessen the size of the knob. In some instances paper, or cotton between the toes will act as a toe straightener. Wearing shoes that are broad in front helps some cases.

Many cases require some kind of an operation.

IT IS EASILY POSSIBLE.

A Reader writes: Is it possible that the presence of a police dog could aggravate a case of eczema?

REPLY.

It is easily possible. That could be the cause of the trouble. There are many kinds of eczema and many causes for it.

BANK NOT LIABLE.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Purchased some six per cent real estate gold bonds through a bank. The bank has changed hands recently and I have not received the interest on the bonds. Upon inquiry they tell me that the bonds are all right, and when I complained they remarked that I had purchased them through the other bank. The rents are paid on the building covered and I do not see why the interest is not paid. Please tell me if this bank is responsible for the interest. W. P.

Neither bank is liable on the bare facts that you state. You should look to the security and to the maker whose name is signed on the bonds.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SOUTH SIDE PROPERTY.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[Friend of the People.]—When the paving of 25th street and 26th street west of State to Harvard was begun the street signs were removed and they were never replaced. Can you inform us when same will be replaced, as it causes great inconvenience in making deliveries to this section? Also, can you tell me what progress has been made toward the extension of the street railway system west from State street to Western avenue on 25th street? R. H.

Street signs referred to by writer have been ordered replaced.

The traction ordinance provides for extension of the street car right of way on 25th street, but there is no definite information available when the work will be done and cars operating.

NOTARY SEAL NOT ESSENTIAL.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I sold my business about three months ago, making a bill of sale on ordinary paper, and stipulating that I would not begin business within four blocks of the old location. We had a witness sign it, but did not acknowledge it before a notary. J. W. F.

The fact that the contract was not signed before a notary would not prevent it from being legally enforceable, if that is what you mean to ask.

THE HYMN OF THE MARINES.

(New Version.)

From the halls of Montezuma
To the shores of Mandalay;
From the forests of the Amazon,
Clear up to Hudson Bay,
Wherever humans can be found,
They one and all beseech
For news of Smedley Butler
And his famous banquet speech.

From Greenland's icy mountains
To India's coral strand;
From Gary, Indiana,
To far off Samarkand,
Frenzied people clutch each other
Much tighter than a leech,
Begging news of Smedley Butler
And his famous banquet speech.

From the frozen wastes of Russia
To the hills of Tennessee;
From the sands of the Sahara
To the bonny banks of Dee,
They run around in circles
Demanding each of each
The facts of Smedley Butler
And his famous banquet speech.

From Copernicus, so far away,
From Venus and from Mars;
From Saturn and from Eros,
From the sun and moon and stars,
Come frantic signals through the night
That 'cross all space we'll reach,
And tell of Smedley Butler
And his famous banquet speech.

LET'S HAVE A TAG DAY FOR UNCLE SAM.

A rich widow in Washington has offered to give a splendid mansion to the government as a Vice Presidential residence. It's a pretty present, but it will cost Uncle Sam $30,000 to furnish the place to begin with and $25,000 a year to run it. We sort of thought there was a joker in that thing somewhere.

But, anyway, if the Vice President has a mansion given him free to live in with upkeep, taxes, and everything, some big-hearted neighbor ought to send in the groceries. And maybe some more neighbors will drop around Monday and help do the washing.

Which reminds us that a house, a great big fine house, was offered free of charge to Cal Coolidge, too, when he was V. P. But the government wasn't going to pay the upkeep, which would have fallen on Cal. So he asked how much it would be, and when he was told twenty-five thousand bucks a year, Cal jumped backwards out of the nearest window and ran all the way back to his modest lodgings. Maybe not true, but it sounds like Cal.

AND NOW they're bragging about a new kind of onion—a sea onion, the Virginia Scilla, that can be used: [1] to cure dropsy and similar ailments, [2] to cure croup, [3] to manufacture whisky. We haven't: [1] dropsy or any similar ailment, [2] the croup or even a bad cough, and [3] we won't tell why we demand a barrel of those onions. But bring 'em on!

WE HAVE WITH US TONIGHT—

Mr. Toastmaster and Gentlemen! A man has a job in a big brewery in Germany drinking fourteen bottles of beer every day so that experts can study the result. Now, friends, speaking of jobs, here IS a job. [Cheers.] And yet, with all the talk of the great opportunities, the marvelous possibilities in the great, glorious United States of America, where, I ask you, where, from the rock-bound coast of Maine to sunny California, and from the snowy Canadian boundary line to the yellow Rio Grande, can you, can I, can any of our tens of thousands of unemployed get a job drinking fourteen bottles of beer at a brewery every day? [Groans and convulsive sobs.] So now, friends, let us blush with shame, hang the head, and repeat with sorrow those bitter words, "Who won the war?" I thank you.

WE'LL TELL YOU NOW so that you can't wail: "I didn't know, I didn't know!" The poem, When I Have Ceased to Dream, by Marjorie F. W., which we think is one of the most poignant, throbbing things we have ever read, has been set to music by Ed Moore, the Line's (and also THE TRIB's) musical critic, and will be sung by Conciaidi over W-G-N radio next Thursday night on his program from 10:30 to 11. And here's the idea: When I Have Ceased to Dream was first printed in the Line and then in the 1929 Linebook (10 cents on the hoof, 12 cents by mail). Now you know.

A PRAYER.

Not only in my summer let me sing,
When Beauty storms my senses and my soul,
When mine is the mysterious and dark
Delight of one who feels the quivering
Tumultuous heart surrender utterly,
Idolatrous of that bright deity.

Let me not ever lose the moment when
I stand, transfigured, on the shining verge
Of dreams beyond all telling and I glimpse
The realm where earth and heaven subtly merge.
O God, when in my winter I shall walk
The quiet and the twilight ways along,
Let me feel still a Breath upon my brow
And find in snows the silver seeds of song!

IT WAS RUMORED yesterday that, because Mussolini has kindly said the incident is closed, Gen. Butler will not be put on trial after all. That won't please the 110 per centers. They'll say now, by hack, we've got to court martial the general just to show who's boss over here.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY.

FEBRUARY 3, 1915.

PETROGRAD.—Russian army headquarters issued the following statement: "German officers are deceiving their men when they affirm that the Russians are being defeated in Poland and Galicia. On the contrary, the Austrians are fleeing. The mountain passes are held by the Russians. Russian cavalry has penetrated the Hungarian plains and is now approaching Budapest. Marshal von Hindenburg is vainly endeavoring to advance."

PETROGRAD.—Travelers from Turkey declare the Anglo-French fleet bombarding the Dardanelles has destroyed four of the principal forts. Turkish officials along the channel have fled to the Asiatic shore.

HAMBURG.—Dr. Tonio Riedemann, director general of the Deutsche-Americanische Petroleum Gesellschaft, or German-American Oil company, denounced not only the American government but the American people as "a pitiful set of weaklings" because of what he called the truckling of the United States to Great Britain over the petroleum and other embargoes.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 3, 1901.

LONDON.—England has paid the last tribute to the dead Queen Victoria. Her body now lies before the altar in Albert Memorial chapel at Windsor, waiting for the final interment on Monday in the royal mausoleum at Frogmore. The gorgeous trappings of military power trailed behind the coffin of the dead queen as it passed through streets lined with mourning subjects. When all had been done at the chapel, the king-at-arms, with fanfare of silver trumpets, recited the titles and honors of the dead monarch, and closed the formal proclamation of the demise of the queen with the cry, "Long live the queen!"

TOPEKA, Kas.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, the saloon wrecker, announced her purpose of extending her crusade to the whole world. Incidentally, she thinks that after she has smashed all the available glassware in Kansas, Chicago would be a good starting point for the more far reaching tour of destruction. In a letter addressed "To the Dear People of Chicago" Mrs. Nation said: "I may visit Chicago soon, as I realize that your city is sorely in need of fearless spirits. I would as soon destroy a saloon in Chicago as in Kansas, as no state has the power to legalize the liquor traffic."

PRETORIA.—The following statement was issued by military authorities: "The enemy having left Bushveld on account of fever and having collected in the eastern districts, between Natal and the Delagoa Bay railway, and having threatened an organized attack on the eastern line, Gen. Kitchener has decided to drive them out. The columns moved on Jan. 27 included Smith-Dorrien, from Wonderfontein; Campbell, from Middleburg; Alderson, from Eersta Fabrutjeb, and Knox, from Kaalfontein."

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 3, 1881.

LONDON. — By a parliamentary coup d'état the continuous session of forty-two hours of the house of commons on the Irish coercion bill was brought to an end. The session is understood to be without parallel in English history. Scenes of intense excitement marked the putting of the check on the tongues of the talkative Irishmen.

PLYMOUTH.—A vessel has arrived here with the figurehead of the lost training ship Atlanta.

CHICAGO.—The friends of Jesse Spalding are getting up quite a boom for the old man for mayor. If he should get the Republican nomination he will make Carter hump himself. It will take a heap of taffy for the Irish Land league meetings to enable the present occupant to renew his tenure of office.

SIOUX CITY, Ia.—Black smallpox, said to have been communicated by Russian immigrants on their way to Yankton, S. D., is raging in Union county, Dakota, a French-Canadian settlement twelve miles from this city, and thirty-two persons have died. When the disease first broke out the people were wholly unacquainted with its contagious nature and funerals of the first victims were largely attended. This spread the pestilence.

A MARINE BESIEGED.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Ever see a marine besieged? It's a rather interesting, not to say sensational, spectacle. They're thick-necked devils, you know, and they do love a fight, physical preferred, verbal if necessary. If you have any doubts, follow the developments of this Butler-Mussolini affair and see who comes out on top.

The background is this:

During the hearings of the London naval treaty President Hoover was said to be outraged by the freedom with which admirals of the general board of the navy discussed Japan and Great Britain as possible enemies of the United States and cast suspicion on the pacific purposes of those two powers with respect to the United States. He could do nothing about what he regarded as the indiscretion of the high admirals. They had been invited by the senate to talk and they were talking. Then came along Gen. Butler with an insouciant yarn about this bellicose dictator of Italy, and the general is visited with all the dissatisfaction due to the high admirals, plus whatever he might be entitled to on his own account.

Smedley D. Butler is a marine with a record of service in that fearless fighting corps that is a little more than magnificent. He will talk at that general court martial—talk right into the eyes, ears, noses and throats of every one there; and what he will say, some of us sincerely hope, will flabbergast not only the "mad dog of Europe," but official Washington as well.

J. P. GALLAGHER.

THE TRUTH AS A DEFENSE.

Mount Vernon, Ind., Feb. 1.—Mussolini has been offered an apology and Butler a court martial without so much as an inquiry into the truth or guilt involved. Again "the truth is no defense." If matters continue I propose that we adopt a gag and handcuffs as our national emblem. AN AMERICAN GIRL.

MANIFEST DESTINIES.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—If Gen. Butler is still proud of this epigram of his, "I believe that God made us the most influential nation in the world for a purpose, and that it is our duty to keep our neighboring nations from murdering one another," he has no right to call Premier Mussolini the "mad dog of Europe," just because he believes, too, that God made Italy, if not the most influential nation in the world, then not to be second to any other.

ALFREDO CANNATARO.

TO SAFEGUARD MONEY.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—A small exercise of common sense would suggest that when guards are conveying money from big stores it should be placed in a small safe at least 500 pounds in weight and those engaged in transit should be ignorant of the combination.

DR. C. S. PAGE.

EXPLAINING MR. MELLON.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—The combined influence of Mr. Mellon's official position and his personal fortune makes the man probably the most powerful figure in finance in the world, and to have conflicting views with him in matters of finance calls for courage, at least, not presumption in the probable case of Mr. Mellon. Yet there are those of our leading citizens and many of our honorable congress who do not believe Mr. Mellon in his dramatic blodgeoning of the proposed cash payment of the war veterans' bonus.

Of course, it is not only the right, the duty, of the secretary of the treasury to express himself on such proposed legislation, and the marvel would be that anything could withstand the simple statement of his official opinion. Was it necessary thus for Mr. Mellon to develop a resentment which he carried to the point of eloquence? Was he called upon to employ such abusive terms as "reckless and unwarranted abuse of the public credit," "unmitigated inflation," "disastrous results—beyond comprehension," "destruction of all hope"? I think that for many of us who haven't understood Mr. Mellon heretofore that gentleman is revealing himself quite clearly now. The millions to his credit before the war were multiplied by profit in war. He has devoted his life to the building of wealth. Now he is an old man and he has been given the job of custodian of much of it. He holds it, counts it, guards it, plays with millions as a child plays with blocks; arranging them craftily in patterns or piling them million upon million, billion upon billion. Now it seems that this proposal for paying the soldiers has disturbed his little pattern bit, and as children are not tolerant of interference when playing, so is Mr. Mellon resentful. He has designed a pleasing financial structure and he doesn't choose to alter it. It becomes then, a personal issue with Mr. Mellon as well as a question for serious cognizance. RAY O. CHAPMAN.

THE SUBWAY ASSESSMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Everybody in Chicago will use that subway, so why should only a few have to pay for it? When the north side are not the only ones that would make use of it. In the few years we have had assessments for Ogden avenue, South Water street, Chicago avenue, La Salle street, and now we get this other one for the Wabash street subway. Do people think we are multimillionaires?

MISS VITA CARNE.

WICKERSHAM THEME BOOK.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The United States has paid a half million dollars for a book of five words: "Yes, we have no bonuses."

STATE PAY ROLL PERILED BY TAX DELAY IN CHICAGO

Governor May Urge New Revenue Raising Law.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Prospects that the state may find itself shy of funds for pay rolls by April 1 and spiders may be spinning cobwebs across statehouse desks and windows, are expected to bring a special message from Gov. Emmerson to the legislature dealing with revenue reform, particularly in Cook county.

The governor has told his friends that within the next two or three weeks, after senate leaders return from their sun baths in Florida, he intends to express himself urgently as some of the pending measures. It is intimated he will deal with proposals to scrap the Cook county taxing machinery and substitute a modern and simplified system.

Seek Public Hearings.

Chicago legislative leaders are to seek tomorrow a date for full public hearings next week in the house revenue committee on the bills of Elmer J. Schnackenberg. He has introduced three measures to abolish the Cook county board of assessors, board of review, and the township assessors in the country towns.

The tax muddle in Cook county, which has led to the warning of Silas H. Strawn that the taxing bodies face another crisis of no funds to meet pay rolls and that the banks will not buy tax anticipation warrants unless the assessing machinery is reformed, now is tying up the state.

In his special message the governor is expected to reiterate what he told the Illinois Agricultural association last week, that Cook county now owes the state $17,000,000 in taxes long overdue. He places the unpaid balance in 1928 taxes, due last year, at about $4,000,000 with $13,000,000 more in 1929 levies.

Face Slashing of Forces.

Gov. Emmerson is expected to point out that about one-half the revenue from the taxation of property for state purposes comes from Cook county and failure to receive the money already has reduced some of the state funds to the point where they are inadequate and some offices are faced with the possibility of reducing forces, if not of putting up the shutters.

Some of the governor's intimates say he also is talking of linking the revenue subject with his suggestion for restricted representation for Cook county, his reported line of argument is that although Cook county, with 52 per cent of population, but only 19 out of 51 legislative districts, has "taxation without representation." The tax muddle and the delay in collections of state funds now are resulting in "representation without taxation." The 1929 taxes will become delinquent on April 1, but it is regarded doubtful whether the tax bills will all be out by then.

Meanwhile differences of opinion are springing up as to how far the present machinery should be abolished. Legislators here seem agreed that the 30 Cook county township assessors should be eliminated, and also the board of assessors. As to the board of review, there is much discussion. The Schnackenberg bills provide two methods. Each proposes that the board of assessors should be replaced by a county assessor, a scientific expert, to be appointed by the president of the county board.

But Out Review Board?

One bill also blots out the board of review and creates a board of assessment and revision of three members to be appointed by the county board president. The chairman, designated by the appointing power, is to be the county assessor. This is the joint tax commission's proposal. The other Schnackenberg bill retains the board of review, but places restrictions upon it intended to remove abuses.

The Schnackenberg bills carry emergency clauses, and efforts will be made to put them in effect by March 15. With Gov. Emmerson emphasizes the needs of the state treasury Cook county legislators look for substantial aid from downstate members in rolling up the requisite two-thirds vote for emergency taxation reform.

CHICAGO GIRL WINS C. H. DODGE MEDAL FOR WELFARE WORK

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Miss Mayde B. Johnson, 5493 Cornell avenue, Chicago, was awarded the Cleveland H. Dodge distinguished service medal for her work in the near east at a luncheon. Miss Johnson, who spent four years in welfare work among orphans and refugees overseas, returned recently to this country.

MISS JOHNSON.

The occasion of the luncheon was a gathering of a group of influential New York men who have been interested in work in the near east since the early days of the war. At the meeting Dr. James L. Barton, vice president of the Near East foundation and chairman of Near East relief, was presented with the Greek cross of the Redeemer, the highest civilian honor of the Hellenic government, and Barclay Acheson, also an official of both organizations, received the decoration of the Order of the Phoenix.

$1,700,000 GAS TAX REFUND TO BE MADE IN JUNE

Will Go to Nontaxable Gasoline Users.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Gas tax refunds to farmers and others who use nontaxable gasoline in Illinois will amount to about $1,700,000 for the biennium by the end of June, it appeared today. The farmers themselves will have been paid more than half a million dollars, if estimates are correct.

This is contingent upon the passage of the $425,000 deficiency fuel tax appropriation bill in the house, where it now lies after being passed by the senate under the steering of Senator Harry G. Wright [Rep., De Kalb].

Allotment Insufficient.

The appropriation became necessary when gas tax collections rolled in to the department of finance above anticipation and the rule of "more collections, more refunds," operated to such a degree that it became evident that the $1,250,000 allotment for the purpose made by the general assembly in 1929 would not be sufficient to meet the demands. The bill was one of the first passed by the upper house this session.

On Jan. 1, $1,189,362 had been paid out in refunds to farmers, construction firms, the industrial group, ship owners, the federal government, and others.

Lists Refunds to Farmers.

From Aug. 1, 1929, to Aug. 1, 1930, the refunds totaled $565,128, of which $290,916 went to the farmers. The amount paid them from the $624,234 which went out of the fund between August and the first of the year has not been announced, but the calculations made today show another $300,000 will be turned back to the agriculturists by June—a total of $500,000 for the twenty-three month period.

The deficiency appropriation, if passed, will be allocated out of collections and not from the general revenue.

SLIGHT CUT CAUSES DEATH.

A slight cut from a broken bottle was blamed for the death of Mrs. Sallie West, 22 years old, 404 West 79th street, who died in the county hospital yesterday of an infection in a finger on her left hand.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

TANGLED RECORD BLURS TRAIL OF ROBBERY GAINS

Blocks Effort to Estimate Increase of Crime.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago's robbery complaints last year totaled 6,350. That is the number reported by the commanding officers at the police stations to the secretary of the department and tabulated by the Chicago Crime commission. This number is equivalent to one robbery complaint every hour and 23 minutes during the entire year. There is nothing on the face of the record to indicate any inaccuracy.

The 6,350 robberies for 1930 is 66 per cent more than the number in the records for 1929. It is five times as many as were reported to the secretary of police in 1928. But the 1928 relationship must be considered in the light of the crime commission's exposure of the suppression of reports in that period. Last year, through the coöperation of Police Commissioner Alcock, it is believed that all of the robbery complaints were filed with the secretary. That, the records indicate, does not appear to have been the fact in 1927 and 1928.

Two Records Show Tangle.

While it is probable there was a substantial increase in robbery within Chicago last year, it is impossible by the official records to reckon the increase.

Records show that more than three times as many robbery cases were heard in the Municipal court in 1928 as were reported by the commanding officers to the secretary of police. The Municipal court heard and disposed of 50 per cent more robbery cases in 1927 than were reported to the secretary of police.

In 1928 the secretary's office reported 1,263 robbery complaints from the commanding officers. In that same year the Municipal court disposed of 3,899 cases. In 1927 the secretary's office received 2,330 complaints of robbery, but the Municipal court disposed of 3,527 robbery cases. In that same year the crime commission said that the commanding officers received 4,928 complaints of robbery. The official annual report of the police department shows 2,951 robbery complaints for 1927.

Attempt Good Records in 1930.

In 1926 the robbery complaints filed with the police secretary totaled 1,298, the annual police report shows 3,169, and the Municipal court shows 2,658 robbery cases disposed of. And so on.

It is pointed out that 1930 was one of the few years recently when there was a serious effort to report all of the criminal complaints to the secretary of police; and consequently a comparison of 1930 with other years does not present a true ratio of the increase. However, a comparison of the robbery complaints by years—as reported to the secretary of police—with the robbery cases heard and disposed of by the Municipal court for the same years, indicates the difficulty in obtaining reliable data. Such a contrast follows:

Year—	Robbery complaints. Police reports.	Municipal c't cases heard.
1929	3,825	2,818
1928	1,263	3,899
1927	2,330	3,527
1926	1,298	2,658
1925	1,702	2,762
1924	1,755	1,804
1923	1,402	1,447
1922	2,007	2,216

It will be noticed that between 1928 and 1922, both inclusive, each year more robbery cases were heard and disposed of in the Municipal court than were reported to the secretary of police. In that period the police accounted only 11,742 robberies, according to reports in the secretary's office, as compared with 18,243 robbery charges heard and disposed of by the Municipal court.

ANSWERS BELL, ROBBED

Frederick Darnastrader, 5158 Drexel avenue, a partner in the Perfection Mail Order company, 406 South Franklin street, became curious last night when unable to get a response thru the speaking tube to a persistent ringing of the doorbell. He opened the door to his apartment and a man placed his foot in the crack and threatened Darnastrader with a revolver. The robber then summoned his accomplice and Mrs. Darnastrader was locked in the bathroom while the pair forced her husband to give them jewels valued at $3,000. The pair then searched Darnastrader, found $90 in his pockets and fled.

Two men stole $225 yesterday from Arthur Sokol, 1432 South St. Louis avenue, when they held him up in his meat market at 5903 North avenue. The robbers locked him in the refrigerator.

Charles Miller was robbed of $131 and a stickpin valued at $75 when two bandits held him up in his shoe store at 5036 South Ashland avenue yesterday. In another shoe store holdup two men took $25 from Frank Houdek, 4133 Washington boulevard, manager of the Kinney store, 4203 West Madison street.

Bandits made a haul of $680 yesterday in a robbery of the combination bakery and butcher shop at 2754 Milwaukee avenue. From John W. Knippel, manager of the market, they took $594, and from Mrs. Maude C. Rausch, owner of the bakery, $86.

Three Negroes who thrust guns through the wicket of the cashier's cage last night took $150 from Miss Charlotte Sayers, 24 years old, cashier of the Lynn movie theater at 1044 West 63d street.

Ernest Novak, 4944 Merrimac avenue, a collector for the Urbandel Mortgage and Finance company, was kidnaped and robbed of $900 rent which he had collected and had hidden in his shoes. Three youthful holdup men with guns stopped him as he was putting his car in his garage at home and forced him to drive to Maple avenue and Gunnison street, he told police. There they forced him to take off his shoes, seized the money, and fled in his machine.

FALL BASES APPEAL ON CLAIM THERE WAS NO TECHNICAL BRIBE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, the only man convicted on criminal charges growing out of the oil leasing scandals of the Harding administration, today based his hope of escaping punishment on the claim he had no authority from congress to make the leases. The case was argued in the District Court of Appeals.

Frank Hogan, his counsel, in seeking reversal of the former interior secretary's conviction of accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny, said that since Fall lacked the proper authority he could not be guilty of accepting a bribe to influence a lease.

Fall was convicted more than a year ago of accepting a bribe in connection with the Elk Hills [California] lease and sentenced to pay $100,000 and serve one year in prison. Doheny was acquitted.

Atlee Pomerene, special government counsel, replied to Hogan's argument that it made no difference whether Fall's act was "official" just as long as Fall had accepted the money to influence his decision.

KAPLAN SEIZED ON LYLE VAGRANT WARRANT; FREED

Sam Kaplan, a figure in the 20th ward election terrorism trials growing out of the murder of Octavius Granady, Negro politician, in the 1928 primaries, was arrested yesterday on a vagrancy warrant issued several months ago by Judge John H. Lyle. Kaplan was sent to the bureau of identification where he has a minor record. Shortly afterward he was released on a $10,000 real estate bond which was furnished by Max Goldstein, 918 West 22d street, and approved by Judge George B. Holmes. Kaplan will be arraigned in the Felony court today.

Trial of Al Capone for Contempt Set for Feb. 16

The trial of Al Capone, public enemy No. 1, on charges of contempt of court was reset yesterday for Feb. 16 in the absence of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who is ill. Capone was not in court, a previous arrangement having been made giving his counsel 48 hours' notice before calling the case for trial. Capone is charged with pretending illness in Miami two years ago to dodge appearance before a grand jury investigating the booze business in Chicago Heights.

POPE WILL OPEN VATICAN RADIO STATION FEB. 12

ROME, Feb. 2.—At an audience accorded to Senator Guglielmo Marconi tonight, Pope Pius fixed Feb. 12 as the date for the inauguration of the new Vatican wireless station through which the pontiff expects in the future to speak directly to his flock throughout the Christian world. The inauguration date coincides with the ninth anniversary of the pope's coronation.

The new station, which is independent of Rome and is supplied by current from a powerful plant on Vatican City ground, has already been in communication with the United States. Two nights ago Sig. Marconi and Padre Gianfanceschi, director of the station, had four communications perfectly over the loud speaker with the National Broadcasting company at New York.

It is expected that shortly after the inauguration of the station the pope will broadcast a special address to Catholics in the United States. The pontiff will be able to utilize the station without leaving his study in the Vatican apartments through a special duplex instrument made for him by Sig Marconi. This device connects the main station with the papal palace, enabling the pope to listen in or talk from his own desk.

IN ALL but very few cases of baldness, hair remains alive within the scalp but does not receive sufficient nourishment to permit it to push through and grow normally. Thomas' treatment, through the use of modern therapeutic agents, skillfully stimulates the dormant sources of hair growth, increases the nourishing blood supply in the scalp, and actually makes it possible for hair to grow. Baldness is unnatural—Nature intended that man should have hair. Thomas' treatment overcomes local scalp conditions, such as extreme dryness or oiliness, dandruff, itching scalp or falling hair—and helps Nature to function normally.

Sixteen years of success and more than a quarter-million satisfied clients recommend Thomas' scalp treatment. You, too, should call at a Thomas' office today and learn what this treatment can do to help you have a good, healthy head of hair. No charge is made for consultation and scalp examination.

Mrs. Benson was amazed!

OF course she keeps her rugs spotlessly clean. But she never dreamed there was so much deeply-imbedded dirt in her own rug—dirt that was grinding at the nap like particles of glass.

Nor did she know before that a Federal Moto-Brush cleaner can do everything any cleaner of any price can do. So we showed her.

You too will be amazed to see how Federal gets every bit of dust and dirt, lint, thread and paper... how it beats out the trampled-in dirt before it sweeps... how its suction cleans with a magic touch. With attachments it is the complete home cleaning plant. And now the new Sanitizer attachment enables you to spray and sanitize clothing, furniture, rugs, etc.

Phone Randolph 1200—Local 66 for a demonstration on your own rugs. There is no cost or obligation. We merely want to show you what a Federal can do. It's worth the few minutes time to know what a Federal really can do, especially since a Federal costs less than the high-priced cleaners.

The 80 per center -always falling a little short

SO often the difference between winning and losing is so little. Too many people just miss the mark because they are 80 per centers! Not sick—just below par; tired, too quickly spent by a little effort.

Their greatest need is renewed vitality and increased resistance. To build needed vitality, physicians know the value of two protective factors—Vitamins A and D.

Eighty per centers—the people who are under par—may obtain these "building-up" vitamins an agreeable, new way. With Squibb Adex Tablets, a vitamin concentrate of Squibb Cod-Liver Oil!

Before they knew cod-liver oil contained these factors, physicians recommended it to under-par people as a health-builder.

Each tablet contains as much Vitamins A and D as one-half teaspoonful of Squibb cod-liver oil.

Besides improving the general condition of people who are run down, Squibb Adex Tablets help protect against colds. They also ward off certain nose and throat troubles which cause discomfort.

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Dana Larrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frame-up by Gwen Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned, except the home ranch, was mortgaged. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his grandmother and his young brother, Chuck, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a doctor. Chuck has expensive tastes and his indulgent older brother has a hard task saving for his college tuition and material demands.

Mart McGuire tempts Dix with the idea of changing the brand of the cattle from Gray's C T ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

Slim, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch, but one passage leads to it, through what is seemingly a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal hideout for cattle.

With vague misgivings Dix begins rustling from Gray's herd, hiding the stolen stock in Lost valley. A blizzard obliterates all traces of the crime. After a second drive Dix was ready to call quits, but Mart and Tom continued night riding on their own. Dix's profits mounted steadily after every shipping.

Chuck and a flyer friend, named Frosty, arrive at the ranch. Chuck confesses to Dix that he has given up a medical career for aviation. He and Frosty plan to build secretly a competitive plane for a prize.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

AN UNFORESEEN DANGER.

"How long would it take—this plane building?" Dix asked, and Frosty darted him a surprise glance.

"Not so long. Why?"

"O, nothing. I was just wondering." Dix inspected his cigaret, scraped the ash off against the rock, and began smoking again.

"What I hate is the way Gram is going to feel when she finds out about me quitting the medical course," Chuck worried.

"Quitting?" hinted Dix. "Did you ever take any of it?" He was remembering how full Chuck's letters had always been of every subject except the medical work. And he saw Chuck squirm mentally at the question.

"Well, if you must know, I took the 'pre-med' for a year and I didn't like it. Nothing except the chemistry, and I followed it up in metallurgy. What I wanted to be was a geologist and mineralogist. It looked to me as if I'd do better at that than I ever would in the medical—only I couldn't make you folks see it in a thousand years. So—damn it, Dix, I'm the one that's got to work at the profession I choose, and at least I ought to have some say about what it shall be."

"You're having it, ain't you?"

"I am now, yes. But a fat chance I'd have had of ever making you see it my way back there. I may be dumb, but I wasn't dumb enough to try explaining by mail—not to you and Gram."

"Geology's a long ways from flying, seems to me," Dix drawled. "Why the sudden change of heart?"

"O, well—I struck Frosty for a job last spring after school closed. That settled it. We fell for each other right away and got to running around together, and as far as flying went—well, to me it was like copping a good horse, if you get what I mean. I always was a pretty fair mechanic, and, as for flying, I never had to learn, seems like. I just flew."

"Air minded," said Frosty, fanning smoke from his eyes. "Like I told you. Larry's a born flyer."

"So are you, Dix, if you only knew it," Chuck exclaimed. "You wait till you've been in the air once! Frosty says you've got the look of a flyer, and he knows."

"Chuck wants to use this shed for a workshop to build an airplane in."

"So you never even started school this year."

"Well, Frosty needed me," Chuck explained, flushing. "I know—it was taking money under false pretenses, you might say. But we needed the money for parts on a plane Frosty was building, and then he was giving me flying lessons—and if I'd told you what I was using it for, and that I wasn't actually in Johns Hopkins at all, you know you'd have popped off and I'd be in bad. I figured that you could spare the money for our work just as easy as you could for the university, so I took it. I don't know, of course, just how we stand in regard to the estate or whether I've been getting more or less than my share of the income from the cattle. I've left that to you. What I want to say is this: If I've been digging into you for things I'll pay it back out of what we make in this contest."

"Aw, hell!" said Dix, disgustedly.

"Say, what's the shed used for over there?" Frosty asked abruptly, waving a hand toward the big corral.

"Weaning shed," Dix answered, so brusquely that he was immediately ashamed of himself and took the trouble to explain. "That's where we wean the calves from their mothers in the fall. It's sheltered from the north winds, and water's handy. And then, after the worst is over, we can haze the cows down in the lower pasture and out on the range if we want to, and they won't come pesticating around again. I guess we built that after you left, didn't we, Chuck?" he added guilelessly.

"Yeah. I never saw it before," Chuck studied it critically. "Say, Frosty, I bet I got you the first time. You thinking what I'm thinking?"

"I am if you are," Frosty made cryptic reply. "Some sweet thought, eh? If you know what I mean."

"Darn right. Dix, you won't be needing that shed till fall, you say. Frosty and I will just move right in and build our competition plane there. Look at that level landing field spread out before you, Frosty! We'll have to take down a couple of panels of fence later on to run the plane in and out, but we'll put it back when we're through. Dix, you couldn't have picked a better spot for us if you'd tried!"

Dix sat motionless as the rock he was on. For once his brain refused to snap into action in the face of an unforeseen danger. All he could think was that, if Mart were only here, Mart might think of something convincing to offer as an excuse. And while he was still running mental circles Frosty got up, dropped his cigaret into the sand, and ground his heel on it.

"Let's go look her over," he suggested to Chuck. "It sure looks from here as if it had been built to specifications for our purpose; all except the corral, and that's necessary to keep the cattle out and as a camouflage if any one comes snooping up here. Dix, you certainly had a thought when you built this place! Roof a little low for working on the wings, maybe—but we can alter that without much trouble. You've used corrugated iron, and all we'll have to do is raise the roof."

They were walking toward the corral while he talked, Dix trailing behind them in a condition bordering on panic—a justified condition, as it happened, for they had just reached the gate when there came Mart and old Tom riding out of the shed as unconcerned as you please. They pulled up short and sat staring. Then Mart said something to Tom, and he got off and disappeared into the shed like a panther slipping into a hole in the rocks.

"Hey! What're you doing in our hangar?" Chuck yelled.

"Your what?" Mart rode forward to meet them, stopping again with his horse turned so that a clear view of the shed doorway was blocked. "I reckon there is no such thing as you name—unless it's a new name for shirt and pants."

"Chuck wants to use this shed for a workshop to build an airplane in," Dix explained carefully, his eyes never leaving Mart's face.

"The hell he does!"

"Says you!" Chuck retorted, grinning.

"Chuck and Frosty want a place where this airplane won't be seen till they're ready to show it," Dix went on. "They want to enter some flying contest with it. Chuck ain't a doctor; he's an aviator, it seems. Or he's going to be if he don't break his neck first. I don't know—this is going to get us in pretty hard, Chuck."

"Does she have to know? All the more reason why we oughta build the shed up here. Gram needn't know a word about it till it's ready for the calves up here. Gram needn't know a word about it till it's ready for the calves when she's bound to see and hear us when we take off, I suppose. I'll be through with her by that time. Say, what's the big idea—building a shed as big as that high a door? Frosty says it's not high enough, but——"

"Account of forkin' hay in to the calves endurin' a storm," Mart explained with great dignity. "Me an' Tom, we planned that there door our own self. We aimed to have room to hold a forkful of hay up outa the way of them damn calves—that's why we made it high, wide, an' han'some. But if you all don't like that there shed and that door, if you don't like any of our ideas, why, there's a shed down closer to the house you can have just as well use, and we'll keep this'n right the way it is now."

"That's right," Dix hastily agreed with him. "We could clean out that shed down in the cottonwood grove—it's a handier place and a better shed, anyway."

"That shed down there isn't so hot," Chuck made instant objection. "We'll just use this one, if you don't mind, and keep Gram from knowing about it as long as we can. I know that old shed in the cottonwoods. There isn't a flat piece of ground as big as a saddle blanket around there. Here we've got a clear, straight half mile to take off and fly level at low speed. That's one of the test requirements. It's made to order, isn't it, Frosty?"

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE RIFT WIDENS

SURE, SPUD, THE GIRLS HAVE GOT A CLUB THEY CALL THE A.B.C. AN THEY DON'T LIKE BOYS.
WHAT'S A. B. C. STAND FOR?
I DON'T KNOW, BUT IN A CLUB OR SOCIETY 'A' USUALLY STANDS FOR AMERICAN.
AN' I SUPPOSE 'B' STANDS FOR BOYS.
I BETCHA I KNOW. THEY'RE GOIN' TO CUT THE BOYS, GEE! I BET IT'S AMERICAN BOY-CUT!
SURE! THAT'S WHAT A BOY-CUT IS — NOT HAVIN' ANYTHING TO DO WITH SOMEBODY.
WELL, THEY CAN BOY-CUT ME. IT WON'T MAKE ME MAD, EH SHORTY?
WE RANGERS DON'T CARE.
I'D RATHER GO SKATIN' OR SKIIN' ANYTIME THAN PLAY WITH GIRLS.
THEY'RE STUCK UP.
THEN THINK THEY'RE BETTERN BOYS. THAT SHOWS THEY DON'T KNOW MUCH.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This picture will remind you of a rather dull party attended by a lot of pleasant and ingenious folks who set out to make it a success—and succeed in rendering it amusing if not a brilliant occasion.

Charles Rogers, lovable as ever, is seen as a rich young American who goes broke in England, and whose adventures in the gentle art of making a living lead him into complications, romance and final beatitude. Stuart Erwin qualifies as a nearsighted and hapless pal, though hampered somewhat by dialogue and situations. Frances Dee is agreeable enough as the girl in the case. Others players do very well, indeed, with what they have to do with. Direction, photography and sound are all right.

You get several unexpected and hearty laughs out of this number. And you appreciate them, for they assault you at doldrum-y moments.

You'll be personally fond of the leads in this picture and—the little Punch and Judy theater with its comfortable seats IS such a charming place in which to relax!

"SEA DEVILS."

Produced by Security.

Directed by Edward Levering.

Presented at the Rialto theater.

THE CAST.

Killer Lundgren, alias Johnson	Walter Long
Richard Taggert	Edmund Burns
Ann McCall	Molly O'Day
Quartermaster	Paul Tanzer
Tiger Brown	Theodore Strohbach
Governor Allen	Henry Otto
Capt. McCall	James Donnelly
Cook	Jules Cowles

Melodrama on the bounding deep! That's "Sea Devils!"

The story—unoriginal, but well acted—starts in a penitentiary from which escapes Richard Taggert, a nice young man wrongfully convicted of another's crime. He makes for the ocean and, what would you? finds himself aboard the very ship on which swaggers the murderer for whose sins he, Richard, has been pining in gaol. And the fellow is no better than ever. No. He has fell designs on the captain and the captain's daughter. Also he plots mutiny. An exceedingly hard-boiled egg!

Do you think Richard Taggert permits Killer Lundgren to accomplish his fell designs? Well, you think . . . !

"Sea Devils" has no heavy entertainment value, but it serves to pass an hour away. Note the old timers in the cast.

See you tomorrow.

LONDON SCHOOL BOYS HAVE TALKIES; PART OF REGULAR TEACHING

(Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.)

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Three hundred boys had a new thrill in a west London school today. They watched four one reel talkies in a class room as part of their ordinary school work.

It is believed to be the first time anywhere in Europe that talkies have been introduced into the schoolroom.

From now until early in May the experiment will be continued in seventeen elementary schools, under the auspices of the Middlesex county council, and with the eager assistance of movie companies. The school authorities are anxious to discover whether talkies are of real value in elementary schools, while the companies hope a vast new market may be created in the classrooms of England.

The films shown today were of the educational type. First, there was a "travelogue" of the island of Cyprus.

WELL DRESSED MAN NEEDS ONLY $5,000 CLOTHES INVESTMENT

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The well dressed man of 1931 should have a wardrobe worth $5,000.

Style creators here for the 51st annual convention of the International Merchant-Tailors' Designers association say garments in such a wardrobe would range in price from $150 to $250 each, and would include:

Two tuxedo suits, one full dress suit, one opera cape, one frock coat for afternoon wear, one Chesterfield overcoat, a fitted and loose topcoat, a great coat for motoring, an ulster for bad weather, two knicker suits for golf, two jackets and flannel trouser ensembles, a riding habit, two lounge suits, and nine business suits. None of the latter should be worn more than four times in the same month.

House Adds $500,000 to Geo. Rogers Clark Project

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The house today passed the administration bill to increase the federal authorization for the George Rogers Clark Sesquincentennial Memorial at Vincennes, Ind., from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. The bill now goes to conference. The authorization passed by the senate was $1,750,000.

Prince Ready to Drop Claims to the Throne

Fiancee Ill; Lennart Tells Wedding Plans.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Prince Lennart of Sweden was much more concerned tonight by the fact that Miss Karin Nissvandt, his fiancée, is ill of influenza at her parents' home than that royal sanction to their future marriage had been withheld.

The prince was not too worried about her condition, however, to talk about their future. The prince showed resentment at statements in some local newspapers that he would excluded from the royal house if he married his commoner sweetheart.

He said that on the contrary he had received many expressions of sympathy from his nearest relatives.

One newspaper quoted the prince as asking how it could be believed that he would be audacious enough to go absolutely contrary to the will of his grandfather, King Gustave, who announced today that he would be unable to sanction the marriage.

Prince Lennart seemed eager to indicate to interviewers that there was nothing whatever in the king's attitude suggestive of an angry grandparent, outraged at the idea of prince marrying commoner.

"You mean," asked a questioner, "that the king, for dynastic reasons and under circumstances which influence his position, has felt compelled to refuse assent but that his heart is on your side and that there is a secret understanding between you which assures you that his majesty will not stand in your way, but will allow you to go your own road to the happiness you hope for?"

Smilingly, the prince replied:

"Remember, those are not my words, but you are right. It is like that."

Asked whether he minded abandoning his rights of royal succession, Prince Lennart replied:

"What does the rank of prince realy mean these days in Germany, where we are going to settle?"

The prince said he would become a German agriculturist. But he will remain a Swede at heart, and went on to explain that Mainu castle on Lake Constance, which some believed he would lose by his proposed marriage, was his. The prince said the castle was bequeathed by the Grand Duke Frederick of Baden to the Late Victoria of Sweden, then to his father and thereafter to him [Lennart] without any reservation whatever.

"CHERRIES ARE RIPE."

A comedy by John Emerson and Anita Loos; given at the Erlanger theater Feb. 2, 1931, with Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque as stars, under the management of Arch Selwyn. Stage direction by Constance Collier.

THE CAST.

Sybil Stereny	Vilma Banky
Count Sandor	Rod La Rocque
Baron Peter Stereny	Richie Ling

Margit	Katharine Vleet
Gypsy	Juan Varro

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Of the group of cinema celebrities who were drafted from Hollywood last summer to inject new life into the withered veins of the drama Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque appear to be the only survivors. They have weathered the rigors of a tour in this period of "the road's" decline because they have a good little show. They submitted their vehicle, "Cherries Are Ripe," at the Erlanger last night, and their audience agreed that, for these parlous times of hit-or-miss theatrical productions, it is a satisfactory affair. In the matters of dress, deportment, and civilized point of view this mild and chatty comedy may even be called distinguished.

"Cherries Are Ripe" is one of those Hungarian country house plays devoted exclusively to polite aspects of the art of seduction that are occasionally imported for the American market. They usually are adapted by the clumsiest hack that the manager can find in a week's search, and thus lose their elusive fragrance of the paprica blossom. But in this case John Emerson and Anita Loos—the latter easily recalled from her masterpiece, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes"—have Englished the original gracefully. A program note states that their work is based upon a Hungarian short story rather than a play, but the effect they have achieved is that of adaptation with fidelity to the true flavor of Budapest.

Anyway, here are Banky and La Rocque, decorative creatures from the Golconda of film land, telling with polite and gentle humor a little story, not too crass in its cynicism, about a faithful wife whose virtue is tested on a bet and found to be not too austere. I seem to have heard this plot before, not once but several times. No matter; it always arouses attention.

The husband who asks his best friend to play Don Juan with his wife, but not to go too far; the infallible lady killer who becomes serious before his game of flirtation reaches its climax, and the chaste wife who is yearning to play with fire—these are standard characters of the comedy of intrigue. "Cherries Are Ripe" is not the first time this story has been written, and will not be the last.

Miss Banky is as beautiful and blonde as a great lady of the cinema ought to be, and has a charming lack of ostentation about her radiance. She is, in fact, so demure that one would never suspect she had been in the habit of feeding her loveliness to the hungry eyes of countless cameras. She is decidedly worth watching, with her perfect coiffure, her ideal profile, her dresses by Chanel, Patou, and Molyneux; her smock and negligée by Jenkins Gowns, Inc., and her shoes by Delman. She speaks with a marked accent, and may be somewhat difficult to understand from a remote location in the auditorium; but it is a pleasant symptom of her mid-European origin. It is like that of Nazimova's, without the mewing plaintiveness.

Mr. La Rocque also is a gallant figure as a tall, jovial heart breaker of the Jockey club in Budapest. He looks like an operetta tenor in his uniform by Helen Pons; and his eyebrow mustache hints at Danubian culture; but his manner is that of a straightforward American lad who somehow or other acquired a fancy name and motion picture glamour. Moreover, in his curtain speech Mr. La Rocque decided that now it can be told. He spoke right up with gratitude and announced that Chicago was his birthplace.

Richie Ling is excellent as the gentleman-farmer husband who worries about a possible growth of horns on his forehead; Jeanette Fox Lee is crisp and vivid as an addicted Hungarian flirt; Gavin Muir has his droll moments as an insolent young secretary, and the others are as they should be. "Cherries Are Ripe" is well cast, handsomely dressed, and suavely written. It contains a few slow moments, when the ceaseless talk about love gets too cloying; but, generally speaking, it will serve for a show. And Miss Banky is an excellent substitute for the blessed damozel.

Rabbi Talks of 'Five Greatest Christians, Jews'

Also Lists Atheists and World Religious Chiefs.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Who are the five greatest Christians in history? Rabbi Solomon Freehof, spiritual leader of K. A. M. temple, 920 East 50th street, answers by pointing to Paul of Tarsus, Augustine of Hippo, Francis of Assisi, Pope Gregory VII., and Martin Luther. In a series of sermons delivered at K. A. M. temple Dr. Freehof also has designated those whom he believes constitute the five greatest Jews in history, the five greatest atheists, the five greatest religious geniuses of all time, and the five greatest Jews of the past century.

Jesus of Nazareth, Dr. Freehof pointed out, cannot be counted among the five greatest Christians because, "from the general Christian point of view, he was more than a man and is not to be classified among men, however great they may be. From the Jewish point of view, Jesus was not a Christian. He was born a Jew, trained a Jew,

Paul of Tarsus, Dr. Freehof said, was the greatest of all Christians. He found the religion a little Judean sect and left it a universal faith. While Paul gave Christianity a world sweep, he said, it was Augustine who gave the religion intellectual depth. The south side rabbi then pointed to Pope Gregory VII., who was instrumental in making "Christianity more than a religion."

"Christianity grew into a government," declared Dr. Freehof. "It dominated states and asserted that the church, instituted by God, is higher than governments created by men. This super-dominant power of the medieval church was given it by Gregory VII. He fought with kings and humbled emperors. He rescued bishops from the feudal system and cleansed christendom."

It was Martin Luther, the rabbi pointed out, who in reforming the church in Germany and northern Europe, proved that the church had the power of adjusting itself to the changing atmospheres of human history.

In indicating those he believes are the five greatest Jews of the past century Rabbi Freehof declared that for the Jews of Europe the middle ages lasted into the nineteenth century. Confined in their interests in ancient lore while the world progressed around them, Rabbi Freehof called them "the Rip Van Winkles of culture."

"But," he added, "within the last 100 years the Jews not only have caught up but have risen to intellectual and civic leadership in many lands. The five greatest Jews of the last 100 years, it seems to me, are Benjamin Disraeli, master builder of the British empire; Karl Marx, whose ideas still are transforming society; Paul Ehrlich, the chemist-physician whose discovery may yet rid the world of its most devastating disease; Sigmund Freud, who made the inner life of the mind a field for scientific study; and Albert Einstein, the modern Newton who has created a new understanding of the universe."

Rabbi Freehof's five greatest religious geniuses all came from the orient, while his five greatest atheists were products of northern Europe. He declared Voltaire, Tom Paine, and Robert G. Ingersoll were not atheists. Both Voltaire and Paine believed in a God, while Ingersoll did not know whether he believed in God or not. He was, therefore, an agnostic, Dr. Freehof pointed out.

According to Dr. Freehof, the five greatest atheists are Auguste Compte, "whose atheism was derived from his theory of intellectual progress; Charles Bradlaugh, whose atheism was a part of his political radicalism; Frederich Nietzsche, whose atheism was founded on a moral revolt; Ernst Haeckel, whose atheism was based on a materialistic evolutionary principle of monism; and Bertrand Russell, whose atheism resulted from his pessimism. "He believes the universe is hostile to man, and that religion, which teaches that the universe is friendly to human aspirations, is erroneous and harmful." Dr. Freehof said of Russell.

Two of the greatest religious geniuses of all time, according to Dr. Freehof, are Jews. Another is an Arab, and the other two are Aryans, one a Persian and the other a Hindu. He lists them as follows:

"Moses, who made religion ethical.

"Jesus, who made ethics beautiful.

"Zoroaster, who made social progress religious.

"Buddha, who made pessimism altruistic.

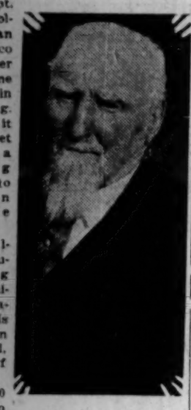
"Mohammed, who made religion democratic."

Rabbi Freehof's five greatest Jews of all time are Moses, Isaiah, Hillel, Maimonides, and Mendelssohn.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Captain Dollar, He's Nearly 87, Plans New Line

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Although he will be 87 years old next month, Capt. Robert Dollar of San Francisco has another big marine project in the making. This time it is his pet dream, a shipping company to operate in Chinese waters.



ROBERT DOLLAR.

Nearly 40 years ago Capt. Dollar made his first trip to the orient to find new markets for his products, particularly lumber. He now operates 19 passenger liners and six freighters to and from the orient, not counting the Inter-Island company in the Philippines.

From the first day he set foot on Chinese soil he has liked the Chinese and they him. His latest visit to China was last fall, when he was 86 years old.

It was then he proposed a new company, to be operated wholly within Chinese waters, but the Nationalist government could not then agree on details. He will go into conference with Chinese representatives as soon as possible to work out the basis of a service.

The parent company of all Dollar interests, founded, owned, and headed by Capt. Dollar, is the Robert Dollar company. This is a $100,000,000 concern operating shipping lines and lumber companies. The aged owner retains full control. He was born in Falkirk, Scotland, March 20, 1844. He says he hasn't the slightest idea when he will quit active business, except that it will not be while he is alive.

HOW SCIENTIST WAS HAILED BY HIS HOME TOWN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BANGOR, Wales, Feb. 2.—Dr. Griffith Evans, 95 years old, an invalid and stone deaf, was given the freedom of the city of Bangor.

Dr. Evans is one of the greatest of living scientists. He did his country invaluable service through discovery of the germ that at one time threatened to destroy all the animals taken to India by the British army.

Completely deaf, Dr. Evans was told by means of writing pads in the hands of Bangor officials at his bedside that within five years of his hundredth birthday he was being "recognized" for his services in discovering cures for animal diseases. He expressed his appreciation. His daughter, Mrs. Garfitt, questioned about Dr. Evans' career, said:

"Father is 95 now and any national recognition would be too late. "If he had been allowed to prosecute his researches his name would have been almost as world-famous as that of Louis Pasteur himself, who was a contemporary of my father's and whose researches followed the same lines. But oblivion has been my father's lot."

Ignorance of the principles of cure by innoculation and suspicions of Dr. Evans' researches caused the war office to recall him to England.

Dr. J. V. Sparks, Yankee, Marries French Woman

Word was received here yesterday of the marriage of Dr. James Vincent Sparks, American medical officer during the world war and associated with the French as a medical officer and aerial observer during the Riff warfare in Morocco. Dr. Sparks is the brother of Mrs. Frank Thale of Wilmette. Mrs. Sparks was formerly Henriette de Victor of Nice, France. The ceremony was performed Jan. 29 at St. Ferdinand church in Paris. Dr. Sparks is commander of the Paris post of the American Legion. He has the Croix de Guerre and is a member of the Legion of Honor.

The girls, both freshmen, are Kathryn Turnbull of Pittsburgh and Jane Tournquist of Polson, Mont.

[Copyright: 1931: by the New York Tintes.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Lanvin collection shows a strong French colonial influence in spongy exotic woolens and moorish striped sweaters and jackets in bengaline for sports and in satin for afternoon wear. There are also vivid three color contrasts.

Arab bournouses, capes, and back draperies are featured here, as well as kimono coats and zouave sashes.

Lanvin waistlines are lowered to the top of the hipbones and loosely defined by wide double and triple varicolored belts. Flaring tunics five inches above the knees predominate in the day mode. There are many loose hipbone length jackets.

Musette bag pockets on long coats are interesting. Wooden bead wraps, scarfs, and belts are sensational novelties. Other features include kimono sleeved waist-length dolman evening wraps and quilled Lamé coats.

The evening silhouette has tightly swathed hips. Contrasting tunics with fored skirts split in panels.

Lanvin features evening muffs matching the dresses.

Martial et Armand shortened their daytime skirts and favor uneven evening hemlines. They show sleeveless coats and long sleeved dresses.

Food Talk.

A few days ago we were asked for our answer to these questions which were under hot discussion in one Chicago home: "What is wrong about using water from the hot water faucet for cooking? Why heat cold water to the boiling point when all that is really necessary is to step to the sink and turn the hot water faucet?" And our inquirer added, "One member of our household contends that water from the hot water faucet should never be used for any kind of cooking."

My reply was something like this: It depends entirely on the food to be cooked whether one should draw water from the hot or cold faucet. Some foods must be started in cold water to be their best. This is true especially of soups and stews, where it is highly desirable that much of the food flavor should be in the liquid. Cold water has no effect on protein and so the natural law of osmosis is unobstructed and the juices flow from the meat into the water, or, as we usually hear it described, "cold water draws the juice out of the meat."

On the other hand, hot water coagulates the protein on the surface of the meat sealing in the juices. The effect of hot water is like searing, only not so great. I may also add here that I like to start potatoes in cold water. I feel that I get a mealier product. Some of you may object to this idea.

Another instance where cold water is needed is when one wants to obtain freshly boiled water.

One of the most successful methods of making boiled coffee is to put the coffee into cold water and heat it only to the boiling point. And the finest drip coffee is made by pouring freshly boiled water over the coffee. Boiling water is needed, however, to start the cooking of all green vegetables. And I see no reason why water from the hot water faucet isn't just as good as water that might be heated on the stove to the boiling point.

Halibut à la Poulette.

1½ lbs. sliced halibut
¼ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
2 tsp. lemon juice
Few drops onion juice
¼ cup melted butter
1½ cups bechamel sauce
2 hard cooked eggs
1 lemon
Parsley

Clean fish and cut in eight fillets. Add seasonings to melted butter and put dish containing butter in saucepan of hot water to keep the butter soft. Take up each fillet separately with a fork, dip in the butter, roll and fasten with a small wooden skewer.

Put in shallow pan, dredge with flour, and bake 12 minutes in a hot oven (400° F.). Remove the skewers, arrange on a platter for serving, pour around bechamel sauce, and garnish with egg yolks rubbed through a strainer, egg whites cut in strips, lemon cut fan shaped, and parsley.

Chicago Science Museum Plans Lectures for Children

Alfred M. Bailey, director of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, yesterday announced that a series of illustrated lectures and two lecturers have been made available for Chicago school children. Wallace F. Worthley of the museum staff has been assigned to lecture on "Tramping Through Glacier and Rocky Mountain National Parks," "Birds of the Chicago Region," "Alaska and the Yukon," and "Backyard Adventures with Animals." Francis R. Dickinson will lecture on two subjects, "Birds of the Chicago Region" and "Louisiana Wild Life." Dates for the lectures will be announced soon.

Miss Irene Dunne at Last Gets Singing Talkie Role

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Irene Dunne, musical comedy star, at last is to fill the rôle for which she came to Hollywood. She was signed by Radio Pictures to sing in the talkies, but musical pictures went into disfavor and she was placed in the dramatic feminine lead in "Cimarron." Now she is the star in the first musical picture of the year, "Marcheta," based on the song by Victor Schertzinger, who will direct.

Skin Like Velvet With New Face Powder

No MORE UGLY SHINE when you use MELLO-GLO Face Powder. New French process makes it stay on longer and prevents large pores. Smoothest, finest, purest powder known—its coloring matter is approved by the United States government. Never irritates or dries skin. Never makes complexion look flaky or pasty, but always fresh and youthful. Try MELLO-GLO.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

One day, during my lunch hour, I met a former co-worker of mine. During our conversation I asked her about my former employer.

"O, he isn't down today. His granddaughter is being married."

"O, that's just fine! I hope every one is happy!"

The look on her face prompted me to inquire further, and then I found, to my dismay, that she had said his granddaughter was being buried. I assure you we both blushed.

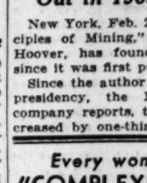
Hoover's Book on Mining Out in 1909; 7,243 Sold

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—"The Principles of Mining," by Herbert Clark Hoover, has found 7,243 purchasers since it was first published in 1909.

Since the author was elected to the presidency, the McGraw-Hill Book company reports, the demand has increased by one-third.

Every woman needs "COMPLEXION PROTECTION"



February's blustery days play havoc with complexion charm. Protect the fairness and fine texture of your skin with Plough's Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream. This dainty cream will keep it soft, smooth and fair; and provides an invisible base that will hold your face powder on for hours.

To nourish the skin—use Plough's Cold Cream to nourish starved tissues, to erase "tired lines" and wrinkles and to fill out hollows in the neck and cheeks. It keeps the skin youthfully young, beautiful.

To cleanse the skin—use Plough's Cleansing Cream to overcome Skin Congestion (dirt-clogged pores). Banishes blemishes and blackheads and makes skin radiantly lovely.

Economical. Yes, Indeed! Each of Plough's Peroxide Vanishing, Cold and Cleansing Creams are featured in the popular 25c and the economy 50c sizes.

Mrs. S. Zaring New Chief of Service Club

BY THALIA ——.

Last year almost all the officers were reelected, but things are different now, and there's a whole new set, all except Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., who will be treasurer for her third year. Barbara King is the new first vice president, and the others are Elizabeth Drake, second vice president; Margaret Emily Lynde, recording secretary; Letitia Channon, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Charles Conrad, Mrs. Paul Walker, and Mrs. Madlener, the advisory council.

The directors are Frances Weary, Mrs. John Dern, Emily Otis, Virginia Woodland, Mrs. William K. Myers, Betty Williamson, Jeanne Street, Mrs. Phelps Dunham, Mrs. Leslie Olmstead, Mrs. Owen West, Margaret Carr, and Ann Elizabeth Walsh. Mrs. Zaring is a good one to occupy the presidential chair, because she and her sister, Mrs. Paul Walker, always have been among the staunchest of Service club supporters and workers.

There's some talk of abandoning the musical revue idea for earning funds next year, and trying some new or different kind of a benefit to bolster the charity budget, but nothing definite's been decided yet. The retiring president wasn't present yesterday to get the rising vote of thanks she got for her two terms of presidential services, but a bouquet from the club is decorating her room at Michael Reese to remind her of their gratitude.

Bits of Travel News Concerning Various Chicagoans.

Peripatetic peregrinations . . . Mrs. Billy Mitchell and her little girl, Ginevra, have been in New York for the last week and will be back on Thursday. . . . Mrs. Townsend McKeever left yesterday for Washington to visit Senator and Mrs. Tasker Oddie, after which she will be in New York for a few days, and will then sail with Mrs. Hayden Harris for a West Indies cruise . . . the Silas H. Strawns and their daughter, Mrs. Wesley Dixon, depart tomorrow for Santa Barbara. . . . Mrs. Herbert Kennedy Jr. and her sister, Miss Rosemary Sidley, are going to Phoenix today. . . . Mrs. Leslie Wheeler has gone to Aiken to be with Alice Cudahy McCormick for a couple of weeks. . . . Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley is going east next week for a between-semesters visit with her daughter, who is at Smith college.

Further perambulations and some parentheses . . . Dr. George P. Marquis is sailing on the 11th for a West Indies cruise. . . . The Edward H. Bennetts have been in Washington, D. C. (They were among the guests at the dinner Secretary Andrew Mellon gave on Friday night at his apartment in Massachusetts avenue for Vice President Curtis.) . . . Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins got back a few days ago from a visit with the A. B. Dicks aboard the Chieftain off Florida (their new apartment at 1350 State parkway is pretty nearly ready, and they may be able to move in some time this month). . . . Alfred MacArthur is going down to Mexico to join Mrs. MacArthur at their residence just outside of Mexico City just after Washington's birthday (the earthquake didn't affect the MacArthur establishment).

There won't be so many Chicagoans going down to Ocean Springs, Miss., for Emily Hamill's and Fifield Workum's wedding on Saturday, because most of those who were asked can't, for one reason and another, make it. Mrs. Thomas L. Marshall is going, however, leaving tomorrow, and perhaps Mr. Marshall, but Peggy Hambleton and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. can't desert "Pinocchio," and the Ambrose Cramers find they can't get away, either, just now. They've all been planning on going, but have had to change their minds as the time approaches.

How Gentleman Burglar Provided a Diverting Hour or So.

And by the way . . . you ought to get Hal Noble to tell you about the gentleman burglar's visit to his apartment [the stickup man stayed for an hour and a half, as I understand it, carrying on an entertaining conversation the while, that is, if anybody twirling a gun could be considered exactly entertaining]. . . . Mrs. Barney Goodspeed's portrait, the one Boutet de Monvel did a little while ago, is to be reproduced, colors and all, in a forthcoming issue of Town and Country. . . . Mr. and Mrs. George Lyle Fischer have moved to New York City [Forest Hills, Long Island, to be exact] because Mr. Fischer has been made eastern representative of the Central Trust company.

If the Drama leaguers haven't absorved a colossal fund of information about every phase of the theater, it won't be the fault of the program committee. Yesterday afternoon they packed the Blackstone ballroom to hear Hatcher Hughes, director of drama at Columbia university, tell about his Pulitzer prize play, "Hell Bent for Heaven." Tea was served after the talk and the affable Mr. Hughes lingered until the last cup had been poured and the last question answered. Some of the Junior league players, all dressed up in their "Pinocchio" costumes, and the cast of "The Man in Possession," headed by Isabel Jeans and Leslie Banks, were guests of honor. Mrs. Marvin E. Miner, wearing a brown duvetyn ensemble with mink trimming and a hat to match, introduced the speaker and later alternated with Mrs. Godfrey Haggard, Mrs. William E. Wright, Miss Clara Lake, and Mrs. Samuel Rinaker at the tea table.

The long list of prominent people who have made reservations for the two concerts to be given Sunday afternoon and Monday evening at the Goodman theater by the International Society for Contemporary Music indicates a large and representative audience. It begins with Aldis, Ames, and Armour for the A's, and goes all through the alphabet of "best names."

"LIFE OF THE PARTY"

Successful Parent Prefers Living to Speaking Theories

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

How often one day's article fails to hold all the thoughts that come flocking in the wake of one idea.

Last week we were holding before the mirror of our minds a comparison between the big things we expect of our children and the much smaller things that we present to them as examples in our own lives.

It is quite right and natural that we should want our children to be finer and better and bigger than we are. But in trying to accomplish this we must do more than just expect it. We must do more than tell them in words what is true and beautiful and wise. We must try to live so that they feel our striving and are influenced by what we are—not by what we say but by what we are.

Example—not precept, as the old sage said.

A large order, isn't it?

But there are many of wide experience who feel that way. At the White House conference in Washington this same conclusion was clearly voiced by Judge Frederick E. Cabot, judge of the Juvenile court of Boston.

This is the short extract from his speech:

"We necessarily come back to the placing of the responsibility of this problem upon the adult and upon society.

"I am going to read to you just a small part of our conclusions here, because it brings out the idea in a better way than I can otherwise: One of our conclusions is this:

"'That the guardians of the child have the duty to present in their own lives such patterns of honesty, sincerity, and courage as shall challenge the child's emulation.' In an age when mechanical devices bring distant wonders, and the spread of wealth provides ease and comfort beyond our wildest dreams, it is of the gravest importance that all adults realize that by no such trickery is the matter of wholesome life produced. It is only in the example of sincere living that the child finds a dynamic impulse for his own wholesome development."

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

GROWING "MODERN" SPINACH.

Many gardeners fail to grow spinach in their home gardens because they found it didn't pay to plant and care for the old fashioned small leafed and quick seeding varieties. But seedsmen announce that there is a new style in spinach and that it is easily grown with no more care than for other commodities.

The new type of spinach is large and heavy leafed and attains its size in any fertile garden if given ordinary care and sufficient space between rows and in the rows. It stays in production for a long period because the plant breeders selected those plants which waited longest before shooting forth seed heads.

By picking leaves, the plants need not be pulled up and the crop continues to be available. One gardener who uses the modern varieties advises the amateur not to plant it broadcast, but to sow it in rows. Not too much seed is recommended, for when the crop begins to mature it will do best if the plants are not less than eight inches apart in the row.

Redingote Completes Stunning Pajama Suit

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special Correspondence.] —The redingote is the most popular top coat in Paris fashions today. The vogue started with Chanel's coachman's coat, gained headway with Schiaparelli's double breasted and single breasted redingotes, and spread through Paris via all the smartest women in the Ritz. The redingote line has influenced amost all the coats for early spring wear, too—happily so, for it makes more women appear to have smart figures than perhaps any other silhouette.

Irene Dana, though, was the first one to think of redingote pajamas, and they are perfectly stunning, as you can see by the above drawing.

The outside coat, cut like an instep length redingote, shown on the figure in the foreground, is of white surah—that wide wale silk that was smart in the days of our youth and is again one of the smartest silks in Paris, where all the couturiers are talking about the importance of heavy ribbed silks for spring. The coat skirt is circular. A wide bias inset fits the coat slenderly around the center of the figure and it is buttoned up the front with little strass buttons. The scarf is dark blue velvet and it can be worn with the coat or with the pajamas themselves, as shown on the small figure in the background.

The pajamas are of white satin, short sleeved, and have the semi-fitted bodice prolonged into a pointed hip yoke. The twisted belt is of blue velvet to match the scarf. Their wide circular trousers are flared still further by accordion plaited godets set in front and back.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My nephew, Donald, age 3, has started to say his prayers. The other night he said, "Now I lay me down to sleep,

"I pray the Lord my soul to keep,

"If I should die," he paused, "Why, that would be too bad," he said, rather sadly. A. L.

Sun-Tan for Some, but White Powder Is Back, Once More

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I was going to say that while one-half the world is down in Palm Beach trying to raise a tan, the other half is at home trying to raise an entirely different skin hue. But it would be a gross exaggeration to claim any noticeable percentage of our women sunning themselves under a tropical Palm Beach sun—this year, at least. Still some of them are there and according to the Sunday supplements, they're dressed for tanning, though dressed may not be the proper word to use, at that.

Anyway, the sun-tan is an issue in some parts of the world, and in others it seems the object is to look anything but tanned. If you are one of the lucky ones who tans with the help of Sol and you do it to a smooth golden tone, you needn't be concerned about bleaching. That's always a becoming cast.

But sun-tan as it was practised in powders, rouge shades and cream bases is passé up where the girls have gone in for romantic apparel. If the girls keep on going romantic it might just happen that they'll be wanting an old fashioned pink and white complexion. However, you can bet more certainly on girls going more romantic in apparel than going pink and white in makeup, because experience has taught us that a pink and white skin is a rare, rare possession and that if you add a decided pink to cheeks and a decided white to the powder puff you come out looking like nothing human.

The reason for this is that skins are not white. They have, whether you like the accusation or not, a little yellow in them, for the most part. Some skins, of course, have other "streaks" in them, but the commonest tint is that slightly yellowishness one. You put a white powder on top of it and it stands out like the whitewash on a fence.

However, just to prove that the trade stylists are ever one leap ahead of their customers, you may now find lovely ivory powder available which fits in well with the current mode of dress.

FAMOUS DOCTOR, OVER 80, REFRAINS FROM GIVING ADVICE

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Called by President Hoover "the leader of scientific medicine in America," and honored by his colleagues in this country and abroad, Dr. William H. Welch revealed himself today as a doctor who will not take his own medicine.

Just two months less than 81 years old, Dr. Welch is to retire in June from the faculty of Johns Hopkins medical school, which he helped to found a half century ago.

"I'm in no position to advise others," he laughed, in response to a question. "I should not advise people to lie in bed until 2 or 3 in the morning reading books as I do. Nor should I advise them to smoke continuously.

"Nor should I advise them to eat exactly what they want, irrespective of whether it was good for them or not.

"I really retired when I was 66," he said. "I stopped teaching pathology in 1916, and, with Dr. William H. Howell, established the new school of hygiene. I should have retired earlier, but have gone on year after year. There is no one who believes in retirement and making room for the younger men more than I do.

"I've been lucky, and it would be presumptuous for me to assume that I have any message to give to any one about life. I don't waste time meditating on the imponderables, of which in the nature of things we can never know too much."

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This crêpe patterned woolen bolero frock is belted at the normal waistline, and the pin tucked shoulders provide a slight fullness across the bust and are decorative as well. The deep pointed outline of the skirt, with the graceful fullness below has a tendency to lengthen the silhouette.

The pattern, 3441, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

B. H.: IT IS CLAIMED THAT cutting the nails with scissors makes them coarse and tough. Use a nail file and file them, rubbing off the rough edges with pieces of emery board. Manicuring instructions may be had for a stamped addressed envelope.

W. R.: THIN SKIN DRIES OUT in cold weather and is then subject to chapping and wrinkles. Prepared meals and cleansing creams should be used instead of soap. It is well to anoint sensitive lips with a healing cream before going outdoors. Any good cold cream or camphor ice will serve the purpose. Lack of Children No Cause for Divorce, in Doris' Opinion

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have been married several years and am childless, through no fault of my own. Recently have met a young man I am very fond of. Would you advise me to leave my husband and start life anew with the possibilities of a home with children? I adore children and long to have a child of my own. MRS. M."

No, I wouldn't advise you to leave your husband, under the circumstances. In fact, I wouldn't advise any woman, under any circumstances, to leave her husband. That's something that is wholly up to the woman, her conscience, and her spiritual belief. Much as I appreciate the longing for children in women seemingly deprived of them, still I would not suggest breaking the matrimonial bonds, as you suggest. And certainly not after being married only several years. Just the other day I learned of friends, who long since had given up hope of having children, presenting the world with a 10 pounder after ten years of married life. You might leave such matters for a Higher Authority to direct. You're apt to make such a muddle of fate when you take it into your own hands and begin to dictate.

Anyway, there is always the adoption of a child to look into, if you want children badly and there seems no hope of having them, yourself. If you have that intense maternal feeling your letter suggests, certainly it should not be difficult to take into your arms and heart some poor little

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Why Confess Love?

"Dear Miss Blake: I love my boy friend and have often told him so. He always contradicts me and says I don't. How can I convince him?

"BLONDY."

Perhaps he prefers to have it his way, Blondy. I shouldn't tell him again.

A Direct Slight.

"Dear Miss Blake: What would you do if a fellow takes you to a party, dances with some other girl all evening, then escorts you home?

"ANXIOUS."

I'd refuse to go out with him again unless he promised to be attentive.

shaver who's been left to battle the world alone. In less than a week's time you'd be defending it, planning for it, dreaming for it just as if it had been your very own. And doesn't that sound a more logical way about going after happiness than the one you contemplate?

It's just the old story about bringing joy into another's life to get happiness back into your own. Besides, this business of taking your life into your own hands to direct and rule, regardless of another's feelings in the matter, doesn't work out advantageously, according to my observation.

How Radio Supplies Big Business Note to American Music

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Maybe radio broadcasts and sublimated business developments are taking us back to the ancients' conception of what music is.

The Greeks' word for it included the arts of the nine muses.

Two hard headed American business men, George Engeles, who in Proctor's theater here used to change the stage signs between vaudevile acts, and Arthur Judson, one time orchestra leader, now are executives of the Columbia and National broadcasting companies. Judson's official title is president of the Columbia Concerts corporation and Engeles is vice president of the NBC and director of its artists' service.

Between them they control Paderewski, Jeritza, Mischa Elman, Harold Bauer, Galli-Curci, Lawrence Tibbett, Yehudi Menuhin, José Iturbi, Florence Easton, Jascha Heifets, Max Rosen, Alfred Cortot, Albert Spalding, Thibaud, Mary McCormic, Schumann-Heink, Zimbalist, Mischa Levitski, and some of the famous symphony orchestras and their conductors, such as Toscanini, Stowkowski, and Walter Damrosch.

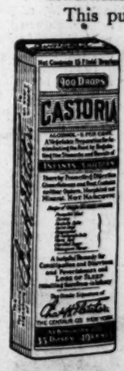
WHEN CHILDREN FRET

MANY things can make a youngster fretful—sluggish bowels; a touch of colic; when teething or at other trying times. But there's only one remedy a mother should ever use to comfort an ailing child in any of these conditions. Castoria!

This pure old-fashioned remedy most mothers have learned to depend on, comforts a child like nothing else. It has an important place in five million modern homes where mothers keep it always on hand, so they will be ready to render first aid when a child is ailing.



Watch your child's tongue; when it is coated, or whenever the breath is tainted, let this pure vegetable preparation come to the aid of that sour stomach or clogged bowels.

The beauty of Castoria is that it can be given as often as needed. It contains no harmful ingredients. The recipe on the wrapper tells you how mild and bland it is. It is a children's remedy, made especially for the children. Ideal for infants—yet effective in larger doses for a child in his teens.

Genuine Fletcher's Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

DESTROY COLD GERMS

Handkerchiefs used during colds soon contain millions of germs . . . are menace to health

Self-infection certain every time handkerchief is used again...one reason why colds hang on

No self-infection possible with KLEENEX

Disposable Handkerchiefs

You use . . . then discard

THE importance of using Kleenex during colds has received dramatic confirmation from the scientific laboratory!

A series of tests prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that a single use of a handkerchief during colds fills it with thousands of disease germs! Germs which carry infection back to the user every time the handkerchief is used again. Making recovery slower, more difficult.

Use only once

Kleenex removes every danger of self-infection. It permits the complete destruction of millions of germs which otherwise must be carried about in purse or pocket—then saved days longer in the laundry bag!

Kleenex is a soft, immaculate, super-absorbent tissue. The size of a handkerchief. So gentle, so soothing, that irritation is impossible. So inexpensive that each tissue may be used just once, then discarded.

You buy Kleenex in Cellophane-sealed packages. Each tissue is as sanitary as it looks—and its snowy whiteness is a joy to see.

The use of Kleenex will materially reduce your laundry bill. It is ideal for children.

Kleenex has many other uses. Beauty experts say these absorbent tissues are the safe, sanitary way to remove cold cream. Being powerfully absorbent, Kleenex picks up all dirt and powder along with cleansing cream.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store. Comes in three sizes: 25c, 50c and $1.00. Send the coupon for generous sample.

BACTERIOLOGICAL TESTS SHOW:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The types of organisms in the enumeration are those known to be associated with colds.

2. That organisms representative of those associated with colds, when rinsed in boiling water and/or soap water, were found not to be killed or appreciably inhibited from growing.

These conclusions were reached after a series of scientific tests by a former professor of bacteriology at Northwestern University Medical School.

What science says about the ordinary handkerchief

1. It may self-infect the user time after time.
2. Spread infection among others.
3. Infect clothing in which carried.
4. Infect clothing in laundry bags (germs survive for days).

To curb COLDS eat Grapefruit

YOU are subject to acidosis this time of year—a major reason for catching colds. For too much acid in the system means your resistance is lowered.

Grapefruit, because its action is alkaline, corrects acidosis; supplies, in generous measure, needed mineral salts and essential vitamins.

OFFICIAL DENIES IMPROPER DEALS BY CLOSED BANK

Attorney Before Inquiry Into Failure.

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Isidor J. Kresel, attorney and director of the closed Bank of United States and special counsel in the appellate division's inquiry into magistrates' courts, appeared as a witness today before Max D. Steuer in the latter's investigation of the bank's affairs and denied irregular business practices attributed to the bank.

He defended the bank's relations with its affiliates and denied that it had lost $17,000,000 in surplus and undivided profits. He said that the transaction whereby the bank is alleged to have paid itself a debt of $2,000,000 owing from two of its affiliates was a misrepresentation.

Challenges Chairman's Testimony.

He challenged the testimony of C. Stanley Mitchell, chairman of the banks board of directors, that a loan of $11,600,000 to two subsidiaries of the bank constituted "the worst banking practice ever heard of."

Mr. Mitchell had testified previous to Mr. Kresel that he was "disgusted" with this loan and said so at a conference of bank officials, attended among others by Mr. Kresel. Mr. Kresel could not remember this conference, which was supposed to have been held in August, 1929.

Mr. Kresel arrived for examination by Mr. Steuer accompanied by John W. Davis, his attorney, who sat beside him throughout the interrogation but did not venture to interfere.

At one point in the proceedings Mr. Steuer questioned Mr. Kresel as to his knowledge of loans made by the bank to judges and asked him to bring with him all data bearing on this matter. Mr. Steuer was particularly interested in whether or not Mr. Kresel practiced before these judges after the loans were made. Mr. Kresel said he knew of these loans, that he did not object to them, but left the question of his practicing before the judges open.

An echo of the Rothstein case developed during the examination when Mr. Steuer asked Mr. Kresel whether he had ever examined Arnold Rothstein's "little black book" which he has had in his possession as investigator of magistrates' courts.

Calls Question Improper.

"If you consider that a proper question," Mr. Kresel flared up, "I shall answer it, but you know that I have the custody of that book in my capacity as special counsel in the inquiry I am conducting. Do you think that inquiry should be brought into this examination?"

"I am not trying to run it," rejoined Mr. Kresel. "You are running it."

At the morning session Mr. Steuer ordered the arrest of J. C. Brownstone, another director of the bank, for refusing to answer questions concerning his stock speculations. Mr. Brownstone was taken before a magistrate and returned later, willing to testify. He was told to come back tomorrow.

Irish Farmers Demand Help Despite Gain in Comforts

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Feb. 2.—The Irish Free State government stands at the present moment in a curiously difficult position. It is faced by an insistent demand for relief for the farming community, which constitutes about 70 per cent of the population, and for two reasons it finds this demand embarrassing.

First, it has no means of relieving the farmer except by placing a heavy tax on the shoulders of the industrial, salary, and wage earning section of the community which is unable to bear it, and, second, because reports from well informed sources seem to indicate that, except in isolated instances, the Free State farmer is not really the object of pity that he represents himself to be.

While the psychological complex of the Irish farmer, which causes him even in the height of prosperity to represent himself as a chronic sufferer from adversity, is well known and understood it is not denied that he has been very hard hit by the present world-wide economic depression, especially where prices for export produce are concerned. That, however, is the limit of the farmer's vision.

Another Side to Question.

There is actually another side to the question. The Irish farmer purchases from abroad a large proportion of his own foodstuffs and a still larger proportion of the feed for his cattle and horses. He sees that for his produce in butter, beef, pork, and live cattle he now receives only perhaps 60 per cent of the prices obtainable a couple of years ago, but he ignores the further important fact that the prices for his own foodstuffs and feed are correspondingly lower.

Thus flour, one of his major imports, and bought chiefly from Canada, can be purchased at no more than the pre-war price, and the corn which largely constitutes his cattle feed is also greatly reduced in price. Corn is imported chiefly from South America, and the price is now not more than one-third of what it was a few years ago.

Rent Question Solved.

Moreover, the farmer is no longer burdened with the landlord's constant demand for an impossible rent. The legislation of the last 20 years has now solved the rent question. Every farmer is the owner of his land and the amount of the annuity which he has to pay is paltry compared with the original rent. Further, this annuity is terminable as soon as the amount fixed as the value of his holding has been discharged. He then becomes the absolute owner.

It is true, on the other hand, that, while rent charges are disappearing, the local rates and taxes on land have increased enormously, due principally to the higher standard of public services demanded. Better roads are a necessity and higher and better education, improved public health services, school children's medical inspection, and medical services generally are now provided.

Living Standard Higher.

In this connection there is one aspect of the farmer's position—true also of the entire population—which is worthy of comment and that is the people are living up to a much higher standard as compared, for instance, with the standards obtaining ten years ago.

In food and dress the farming communities are virtually on a par with city dwellers. Dancing and other amusements are everywhere on the increase. Every farmer who can possibly do so owns an automobile.

In the homes expensive radio sets have ceased to be a novelty, so that the latest developments in jazz music and other forms of entertainment are almost as familiar in the more remote districts as in the towns.

FILE NAMES OF WITNESSES FOR BROTHERS' TRIAL

A list of twenty witnesses with their addresses was filed for record yesterday in Judge John Prystalski's Criminal court where Leo V. Brothers is to be placed on trial next month for the murder of Alfred Lingle. The list was filed by Assistant State's Attorney John Leonard Murphy in accordance with an order entered by the judge.

Defense Attorneys Tyrrell Krum and Robert Ward said that they do not believe the list to be complete. They announced that they would appear before the judge today and demand that the state give the names of other witnesses. The list filed yesterday is practically the same as the one given more than one week ago without the addresses. The last ten names on the list are those of policemen and most of the others are coroner's employés.

Gassy Stomach Pain Ends Quick

"I suffered for months from indigestion and gas on the stomach," says C. Bedford of Detroit, Mich. "I got relief from the very start by taking ACIDINE. I could not eat without being troubled with gas, pain and dizziness. Since taking ACIDINE each day, I feel entirely better and have had no pains, at all."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

8,000 MI. BRITISH AIR LINE TO TAP RAND GOLD FIELDS

Will Fly Over Jungles and Trackless Wastes.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Considerations more romantic than daily flights over jungles, trackless bush, and vast wastes of the African wilderness are aroused by the Imperial Airways' announcement that the London to Cape Town line will be opened this summer. The line will offer more varieties of aerial travel when completed than any other in the world, and it will be the longest. The distance is 8,000 miles.

But the most important feature of the line is that it will tap the gold fields of the Rand. That fact is of prime interest to the whole world of finance. It is of particular interest in London, which sees its dominant position in gold marketing and distribution threatened. Cairo might replace it.

One Section Now in Operation.

Another consideration of great interest is that the line, covering in ten to eleven days a distance ordinarily requiring 17 days by surface travel, will effect a considerable saving in interest charges on gold in transit.

The leg from London to Cairo is already in operation. The African section will go no farther at first than Mwanza, in Tanganyika. By midsummer, however, it will be extended to Cape Town.

At present gold is sent from the Rand to the Cape overland, a trip requiring two days. It is sent from there by a weekly shipping service to London. The minimum of time is, therefore, 19 days. Some of the gold from the Cape goes direct to India, and a little to the United States. But most of it is brought to London for distribution here.

The air line will be able to take gold directly from the Rand to Cairo This is the cause of worry here. Cairo is seen as the natural distribution point for the metal. It might better be held there for shipment wherever the normal forces of the market directed. One of London's most prosperous businesses is threatened. The loss would be purely London's, however. Bullion brokers might transfer their offices as Cairo's position dictated, and insurance probably would remain here. But London's position as the center of the world's gold market appears certain to decline.

One observer sees the air line as an adverse influence on the present privileged position of the Bank of England as a buyer of gold. Under the existing arrangement the whole supply which is left over tends to go to the Bank of England so long as sterling is above the export gold point.

If the gold is distributed from Cairo, however, several foreign countries would be able to buy it even if their exchange is at a discount in relation to sterling because transportation costs might be lower to their banks than to London.

Defeat Halts Fargo Lad's Comeback.

Just 24 seconds after he raised his hands to defend himself against the rushes of King Tut, wild swinging youngster from Minneapolis, Petrolle sat on his haunches in his own corner with his head hanging over the second rope, a knockout victim.

A terrific right hand blast to the chin delivered almost before Petrolle knew what hit him; was the punch that did the damage. His knees began to bend and Tut, fighting ferociously, opened up with a barrage of lefts and rights to the head. All of these blows found their mark and Petrolle suddenly collapsed. He tried to struggle to his feet at the count of nine, but his benumbed legs refused to respond and he sat there with his head hanging over the ropes while the referee counted him out.

The battle was over almost before it started, and the record breaking crowd of 9,500 sat dumbfounded at the startling finish.

As the bell rang, nervous, white faced Tut rushed out of his corner and trapped Petrolle before he could take a step forward. Tut lashed out with a smashing right that caught Petrolle on the peak of the chin. That punch, swung from Tut's hips, knocked all the fight out of Petrolle and dazed him. Petrolle backed into the ropes and attempted to clinch. Tut wrestled him off and then cut loose with wicked lefts and rights to the head while Petrolle stood helpless, unable to ward off the attack. These heavy blasts found their mark, and Petrolle wilted under them, gradually sinking to the floor.

The knockout marked the first time battle scarred Petrolle had ever been counted out, although he had previously lost on technical knockouts, once to Tommy Herman and the last time to Tommy Grogan. The defeat ended one of the most surprising comebacks in lightweight history as Petrolle, decisively whipped by Tut in a Detroit ring 18 months ago, was forced into retirement and then came back to score upset victories over McLarnin and Canzoneri, the latter before he became world's lightweight champion.

Defeat Ruins Petrolle's Hopes.

The defeat ruined Petrolle's hopes of engaging in another match with McLarnin and also of eventually landing a championship contest for the world's lightweight title. At the same time the victory raised Tut's chances of forcing Canzoneri into giving him a chance to win the lightweight championship.

Petrolle, caught in Tut's amazing whirlwind of punches, was unable to land a blow on his wild swinging foe as he was too desperately engaged in attempting to stop Tut's rushes. All he could do was to clinch in a courageous effort to survive that first right hand blast that landed on his chin. But Tut, strong and full of fight, was successful in wrestling him off and then swung those smashing hooks and fight hand blows that knocked Petrolle out for the first time in his career.

Both Petrolle and Tut easily made the required weight, each scaling 133½ pounds at two o'clock this afternoon.

Second Largest St. Paul Gate.

Petrolle was guaranted $12,000, win, lose, or draw, the largest purse he has received in his long career. Tut gambled with the promoters and is assured of at least $10,000.

BOXER HAMMERS HIS HEAD ON WALL TO WIN FAIR LADY

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—Pugilism suffered a serious social loss when Gene Tunney retired, but I am assured that this will be repaired by Max Baer of California, whose representative reminds me again that the boy is in love with a beautiful society belle of the haute monde.

"Please do not think that I am merely trying to obtain publicity," says Mr. James Jennings, representing Mr. Baer, "when I tell you that within six months this boy will be so refined that he will make Tunney look like a member of the lower classes. I am merely trying to set you right and publicity is farthest from my thoughts, as Baer is so refined already that he says publicity is distasteful to him. I expect him to give a luncheon for the press no later than March 1 so that he can make a speech insulting the boys, which is the Derby test of refinement in society as we, of course, know.

Mr. Jennings, the Interpreter.

"My position with Baer is not that of public relations counsel, as you may have surmised in your dumb way, but that of interpreter. I am engaged to interpret Max to you newspaper boys, of whom I used to be one myself, just as Stephen Jerome Hannagan, who also used to be a former member of the fourth estate, interpreted Gene.

"My most difficult task at present, next to keeping photographers off the place, is to explain in simple language which the pressmen will understand why it is that Max spends so much time playfully bouncing his skull off the concrete back wall of the handball court at Gus Wilson's quaint and se-

Scotty Sylvano Fights, Bakes and Wrestles

Scotty Sylvano, 20 year old lightweight, will make his second attempt to win a Golden Glove three weeks from tonight at White City. Sylvano advanced to the semi-final round last year and was eliminated by Karl Ogren, who later went on to win the 147 pound championship. Scotty has been fighting regularly since last fall and has won 17 out of 20 bouts.

Last night he won his seventeenth victory out of twenty starts by decisively whipping George Shrosbee in three rounds at the Marigold Garden arena. About 1,000 watched the bouts.

Sylvano will be one of fifteen boxers to represent Johnny Coulon's gymnasium in the sectional meet at White City. He also is a wrestler, having won the 1929 Cook county interscholastic from Englewood High school in 1929. He captured the 1929 football team and was chosen all city full back.

Sylvano lives with his mother and brother at 8835 Harper avenue. Four days ago he entered business, making doughnuts in his kitchen. Trade is good, he reports.

"I have nine customers along Stony Island avenue," he said.

Representing the Swedish-American Athletic club this year in quest of Golden Gloves are two brothers, Carl and Hugo Swanson, the latter a lightweight and the other a welterweight.

Both came to this country six years ago from Sweden. They stayed in New York for two years before coming to Chicago. They learned to box together and at the same time learned the painting business. They live at 901 Fletcher street. Carl is 26 years old and Hugo 27.

Harold Dunnington again will wear the colors of the Lawndale gym this year in the Golden Gloves tourney. Dunnington reached the quarter finals last year only to be eliminated by Paul Leberto. Dunnington lives with his

CANZONERI BOUT OFF, BUT CARD AT STADIUM GOES ON

Two Battles to Replace Headline Event.

Fight Decisions

At Rochester, N. Y.—Lucky Lawless, Auburn, N. Y., knocked out Pinkey Kaufman, Youngstown, O. [4].

At Newark, N. J.—Johnny Pile, New York, beat Pete Latzo, Scranton, Pa. [10].

BY FRENCH LANE.

Nate Lewis, the Chicago Stadium matchmaker, was keeping late hours last night. He caused the telephone and telegraph companies to come to the conclusion the business revival was moving along at top speed.

For yesterday Mr. Lewis discovered that his headline fight for the Chicago Stadium's boxing show tomorrow night wasn't going to happen at all and that the show must go on without Tony Canzoneri, the world's lightweight champion, there to attract the customers.

Canzoneri had been matched to battle Goldie Hess, a lightweight from the Pacific coast, who is quite a fighter. Hess was stricken with influenza and had to withdraw from his part in the tussle. Mr. Lewis went on a hunt for a substitute. While he still was on the hunt, Mr. Canzoneri decided he was ill also and he withdrew from the card.

Offers Two Bouts for One.

Mr. Lewis decided one substitute struggle wouldn't be equal to the Canzoneri fight as an attraction. So he decided two eight rounders would just about make up for the missing champion.

He button holed Bud Taylor, the old man from Terre Haute, and offered him a lot of money to fight Barney Ross, a former TRIBUNE Golden Gloves champion. But Bud decided he's past that age where a fellow can get ready to fight a good tough youngster on some 50 hours notice, and he told Mr. Lewis to put the bankroll back in his pocket.

Then came the skirmish all through the night in which Mr. Lewis tried to match up enough tough mugs to take the place of one champion. He says he will have the job completed some time today.

Business Good With Santa.

In the meantime Jose Santa, the giant Portuguese who fights Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane, on tomorrow night's card, discovered that he's so much of a replica of Carnera that his business is actually rushing. During the day he signed for an engagement in the Boston Garden on Feb. 13. His opponent for that scrap has not been named, but the big Portuguese was assured he was to have top place on the card.

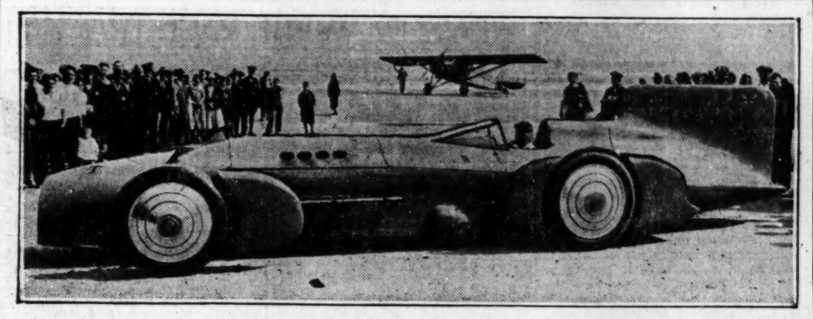
Kid Francis, who is also on tomorrow night's program with George Nate as his opponent, also learned during the day that if he whips Nate he will be Fidel La Barba's foe at Madison Square Garden in New York one week from Friday.

So Mr. Lewis feels if he can get a few more good boys into the Stadium ring swinging at each other's chins, he has enough headliners left on his program to appeal strongly to the boxing public, even with Canzoneri absent.

St. Viator Wins 9th in Row from Wheaton, 37 to 20

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—St. Viator's undefeated basketball team whipped Wheaton college tonight, 37 to 20. St. Viator's reserves were used most of the game. It was the ninth consecutive victory for the Kankakee five.

THIS BLUEBIRD REALLY FLIES



Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British racing driver, and his 1,450 horse power automobile Bluebird, which set an unofficial world's record of 240 miles per hour yesterday at Daytona Beach, Fla. Although the figure was nine miles better than the former record, the trial was not officially timed and was made in only one direction. The rules stipulate that he must make two trials, one with the wind and one against it. [Associated Press Photo.]

Wilson Accepts Cubs' Terms; Best Paid Man in League?

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Hack Wilson, the home run king, is in the fold, but only Hack, his missus, President Bill Veeck and Owner William Wrigley of the Cubs, together with the members of the Martinsburg Elks and Moose, know how much money he will receive this season for thrilling Chicago baseball fans with his baseball bat.

HACK WILSON.

The world at large was not let in the money secret. Hack was going to ask $40,000 most of his friends said. Some said he would ask $50,000. Maybe he won't get either sum, but the amount is sure to be a pretty penny regardless.

Hack came to terms in a conference with President Veeck at Pittsburgh yesterday. The pudgy one was given a one year contract, which, as baseball matters go, indicates a heavier chunk of money than would have been accorded on a longer term contract.

Done with Minimum of Talk.

Hack and the Cub president did a minimum of shadow boxing before the Cub slugger put his name on his new contract. They just said hello and settled down for a nice brief and pleasant session with no loud talk or cursing. Mr. Veeck then closed up his portfolio and went on to New York to attend a baseball meeting and Hack returned to Martinsburg in time for a lodge meeting last night.

While refusing to name the amount which Hack will receive, Mr. Veeck said that he is of the impression that Wilson will be the highest paid player in the National league outside the managerial ranks. If the figure is in the neighborhood of $30,000—and it probably is—Hack will be the highest paid player in baseball, excepting Babe Ruth, from whom he seized the home run crown last season. This estimate also bars Rogers Hornsby, who will get more pay, but a large part of it will be for managing rather than his playing talent.

Statistics Basis for Salary.

The method of compilation of what Hack earns as a Cub performer was not at all mysterious inasmuch as both the president and the player had impressive statistics to consider and statistics are taken seriously by baseball folk. Hack knocked 56 homers in 1930, only four behind Ruth's all time record. This distinction is bound to make Hack an individual attraction in 1931 with the rank and file of fandom. But this wasn't all that Hack had to talk about, for before baseball men look at batting averages and home runs they first look at the number of runs driven in.

As most of the fans remember, Hack showed his worth as a team player by setting a new major league record by batting in 190 runs. It is probable that this counted more in the happy conference yesterday than did the home run mark. Hack also led the league in bases on balls with 105, an indication that none of the pitchers was serving the young man anything soft to hit at. In his number of passes there were few intentional passes such as Babe Ruth used to get. The pitchers simply were trying to make the snorting athlete swing at balls that were just a little bad.

NATIONAL LEAGUE MEETS

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Baseball's rapidly waning winter season will reach its concluding act tomorrow with the February meeting of the National league at the Hotel Commodore.

Only matters of routine are scheduled for the day. It is even likely that time may hang heavily on the hands of the owners unless they should take to discussing holdouts.

It would appear that quite a number of expert performers are at variance with their employers upon salary figures. The Robins still have to bring into the fold Dazzy Vance and Babe Herman, and the Giants and Yanks seem to have some difficulty with Bill Terry and Lou Gehrig.

CHICAGOAN LEADS IN PAN-AMERICAN GOLF TOURNEY

Edgewater Park, Miss., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Russell Martin of Chicago was low with 73 strokes in the first 18 holes of the qualifying round of the fourth annual Pan-American championship golf tournament here today. Fred Lamprecht of New Orleans, title holder, shot par on every hole on the way out but had to score two birdies coming in to card 74. Bob McCrary of Des Moines, Ia., had a 77.

Other low scorers on the first 18 included: H. F. Bowbeer of Berwyn, Ill., 78; Johnny Lehman, western amateur champion, 81; A. O. Breet, Chicago, 82; Ben Stevenson, Chicago, 83; Frank Justin, Riverside, Ill., 85, and Art Sweet, Chicago, 86.

Miami Boxing Board O.K.'s Carnera-Maloney Fight

Miami, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Miami boxing commission today granted permission to Frank J. Bruen to hold the Primo Carnera-Jimmy Maloney fight here March 5. In issuing the permit Louis McReynolds, chairman of the commission, said the Miami organization had no working agreement with either the New York commission or the National Boxing association. Carnera was suspended by the N. B. A. last week.

SHIFT CHICAGO, MICHIGAN GAME TO ANN ARBOR

The Universities of Michigan and Chicago yesterday agreed to transfer their 1931 football game, scheduled at Stagg field Oct. 10, to Ann Arbor. The change was made because the Notre Dame-Northwestern charity game will be played on the same date at Soldiers' field.

NEBRASKA HANDS BUTLER QUINTET 32-14 BEATING

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Nebraska dimmed the national title hopes of Butler university's basketball team here tonight with a 32 to 14 victory.

The Big Six conference leaders maintained an advantage of several points during most of the first half. The score at the half was 12 to 7.

Golfer Slices His Drive; Finds Ball Under Hen

Spartanburg, S. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Fritz Sheram of Spartanburg teed up and sliced his drive into the rough near a hen house.

For some minutes the white pellet eluded searchers until a hen flew off her nest to reveal the ball nestling cozily between two eggs which had escaped unscathed.

CAMPBELL SETS WORLD RECORD IN TRIAL SPIN

Start Delayed by Fire.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Having attained an unofficial speed of 240 miles an hour today, Capt. Malcolm Campbell, veteran British race car driver, announced tonight he would make his official trial for the world's speed record tomorrow, beach and weather conditions permitting.

In one tremendous burst of speed, he drove his trim Bluebird racing car over the nine mile stretch of beach at a rate of approximately four miles a minute, and afterwards declared he was "tickled to death" with the machine's performance.

Crowd Cheers Driver.

"The beach was the best I have ever seen it, and if it is still good tomorrow I shall go for the official record then," he said.

Although Campbell's speed today exceeded by approximately nine miles an hour the present world's official speed record of 231, it was not officially recognized as it was not officially timed. Furthermore he made only one run, whereas regulations specify a driver must make two trials, one with the wind and the other against it.

Engine Catches Fire.

Campbell put the 1,450 horsepower machine in motion near the north end of the course, but was compelled to stop suddenly when he discovered smoke and flames under the hood. A motorcycle policeman with a fire extinguisher ran up and extinguished the blaze near the carburetor.

Without stopping to inspect the motor Campbell started off again. When he passed the grandstand several miles down the beach the machine appeared to be functioning perfectly. It flashed by with a mighty roar and in a few seconds had disappeared at the south end of the beach.

Timer Arrives Today.

The return trip up the beach was made at a slow pace. Campbell explained that he did not care to press his car in practice.

Otis Porter, official timer for the American Automobile association, was notified late today at his Hollywood, Fla., home to come here tomorrow for the official trials.

Gophers Whip Iowa, 36-14; Take 2d Place

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 2.—The Minnesota Gophers, a far different team from that which barely nosed out Chicago Saturday, took undisputed possession of second place in the Big Ten race tonight by defeating Iowa, 36 to 14.

The Hawkeyes in defeat were the fastest team seen here this year. But their speed was not enough. Deficient in basket shooting, they connected for only two field goals in the first half and none in the second.

Earl Loose led the Gopher attack with five baskets and one free throw. He made four of his baskets in the first seven minutes of play.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Basketball as played in the western conference and eastern collegiate circles clashed here tonight with Columbia eking out a 30 to 29 decision over Ohio state.

A field goal in the last 15 seconds of play by Lou Bender, Columbia sharpshooter, terminated a game that saw the Lions come from behind with a brilliant burst of basket shooting in the final five minutes.

PENN DEFLATES INTERCOLLEGIATE SPORTS PROGRAM

Drops Spring Football, Cuts Schedules.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Changes in the athletic system of the University of Pennsylvania, designed to eliminate so-called overemphasis from competitive sports, were announced tonight by Thomas S. Gates, university president, as the result of a survey of conditions here and elsewhere.

Effective at once, the president's statement of policy reveals the decision to eliminate athletic training tables and spring football practice, to readjust intercollegiate schedules and reduce intersectional competition, to install all coaches as faculty members, and abolish the present council on athletic control.

Create New Department.

Under the shake-up, the trustees and president of the university will exercise full responsibility, Mr. Gates announced, through a newly-created department of physical education, which will have control of student health, physical instruction, and the entire range of intercollegiate athletics.

To fill the important post as dean of the department of physicial education, Mr. Gates announced the appointment of Dr. E. Leroy Mercere, a Pennsylvania all-around athlete in 1910-'12 and for the last 17 years athletic director at Swarthmore college. There will be three divisions of the new department of physical education—student health, physical instruction, and intercollegiate athletics, each in charge of a director.

Although the present council on athletics, composed of alumni, students, and faculty, which has had complete control of competitive sports independent of administrative officers, will be abolished, some of its members may be included in an advisory board of athletics.

Coaches Paid on Faculty Basis.

All coaches, in addition to being required to serve as members of the faculty in the department of physical education, with academic rank, will be employed on a full time basis and their salaries established on the same scale applying to other members of the faculty.

There will be no change in the status of coaches now under contract. The only long term contracts involved are those of Russell S. Callow, rowing coach, through 1932; Lon M. Jourdet, basketball, through 1935; Wallace Johnson, tennis, through 1933, and W. S. Merriam, swimming, through 1932. The contracts of all other coaches, including Lawson Robertson in track and Dr. Walter Carisa in baseball, expire at the end o this year. The three year contract of J. R. Ludlow Wray as head football coach, which had two years more to go, already has been broken and Wray dismissed.

Young Loses $10,000 Job.

Lou Young, former head football coach, loses his $10,000 a year job as assistant to the chairman of the council on athletics. Young's name has been mentioned for the football coaching position. So has that of Lou Little, a Pennsylvanian now at Columbia.

The publicity organization which functioned under the athletic council will be combined with the university bureau of publicity, which heretofore did not concern itself with athletic activities.

Provision for financial and other aid for needy students engaging in intercollegiate athletics will be placed upon the same basis as provision for aid to other needy students.

Gates Serves Without Pay.

Mr. Gates, who resigned from the Philadelphia banking house of Drexel & Co. and from the New York, London, and Paris firms of J. P. Morgan & Co. to serve the university without compensation, became president last July.

100 SIGN AT SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Entries in the South Bend News-Times Golden Gloves sectional tournament, to be held here Feb. 9 to 12, passed the 100 mark today. The welterweight division leads in entrants. Twenty amateur boxers are listed in that class.

These entries exceed the record of the first tourney last year, when 91 fighters competed.

Six of last year's South Bend champions have returned for the coming tourney. Included in the group are Robert Hoenig, featherweight; Frank Bodish, bantamweight; John Szekendy, welterweight; Elbert F. Place, heavyweight; Jack Milan, lightweight, and Emery Nemeth, middleweight.

Besides boxers from South Bend there are entrants from 13 other cities and towns in this vicinity, and three from the University of Notre Dame. These cities include Mishawaka, Elkhart, La Porte, Plymouth, Culver, North Liberty, Bremen, Warsaw, and Walkerton, Ind., and Niles, Edwardsburg, and Gallien, Mich.

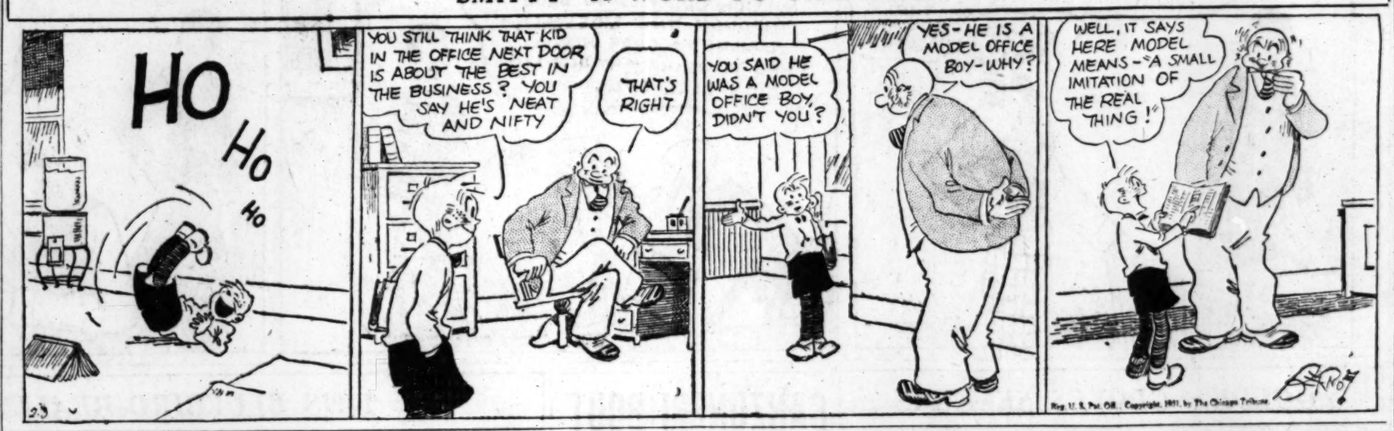
SMITTY—A WORD TO THE WISE



Strange Case of Boxer with an Iron Skull

"The explanation goes back to the afternoon that he met the delicate society bud who is now the object of his affections. They met at 2:30 and when the waiter finally came with the check friendship had ripened gradually into love. But Max knew in his heart that he was not of the same social stratum as this exclusive debutante of the ultra-refined society set, so he decided to devote himself to culture right away.

Tries to Make Skull Thicker.

"'Get me a book of the longest words you can find,' he said to me that night and when I brought him the dictionary the first word he hit upon was something about concussion of the brain. So he asked a doctor about concussion of the brain and discovered that if a fellow gets hit on the head too often he is likely to get this trouble unless he has a very stout skull.

"Then Max reasoned the matter out for himself and decided that he would have to continue fighting in order to earn enough money to support his betrothed in her customary sumptuous style and of course he realized that in fighting he would have to get hit on the skull. So now, to avoid the harmful effects of that hammering on the skull, he spends a certain time every afternoon bouncing his skull off the concrete wall to toughen it.

"Tunney did somewhat the same thing to toughen his hands. He used to carry around a couple of little springs in his hands and work his fingers on them constantly, on the street, at home and everywhere. With Max, the determination to toughen his skull is just as persistent. That is why, when he is driving through the streets, people sometimes are amazed to see a handsome, intelligent young man jump out of his automobile and spend ten or fifteen minutes tapping his head against the corner stone of some bank or library.

Young Love Is Bound to Win.

"People ridiculed him at first, but he is going to have the last laugh yet, and moreover he is going to win the heart and hand of the one he loves. Right now you could hit him over the head with a yard of iron pipe and his eyes would retain the same expression and his speech would remain just as intelligent as before.

"I confess that I sometimes think he seems to be spinning a bit, but Max explains that this is because his brain is in a whirl over love. As far as I am concerned, it is just as bad to be dizzy over love as to be dizzy from too much skull practice, if not more so, but then I don't manage him. I just explain him.

"I think Mr. Hannagan had a similar problem explaining why Tunney used to go off into the woods and run backwards for miles, but the seventh round in Chicago explained all. Didn't it?

Goes for the Tough Ones.

"The dictionary was too big for Max to carry on his road work, so he cut out the road work, and now he does practically nothing but read the dictionary. I tried to get him to start on little words like 'anent' and 'cyclept,' but he said, 'Don't get me any of those preliminary words; get me the tough ones. A man can't get anywhere knocking off setups. Get me another word like sesquipedalianism. They may be tough, but love will find a way.'

"I hesitate to mention it," Mr. Jennings said in a low voice, "but I hate to see an old pal scooped, and I am going to take a chance on making Max sore at me and tell you that he is fighting Tommy Loughran at the Garden Friday night. That poor old concrete wall on the handball court is beginning to crumble and I am afraid we will have to transfer our training quarters to some good substantial jail where the walls are built to take it. He is in great shape now, as hard as iron, especially his skull.

"And do not dismiss the story of the boy's romance as the figment of an interpreter's imagination. If you heard her name you would recognize it instantly. It is as famous as Ringling's circus. And of her social position there can be no question. Max tells me that she has been divorced four times."

Lookabaugh Wins Opening Game of All-Star Cue Meet

Earl Lookabaugh, defending champion, defeated I. Evans, 50 to 32, in the all star three cushion tournament which opened last night at Kieckhefer's recreation room. Sixteen of the best players in the city are entered. Tonight Kieckhefer will play Marbleston.

Okaybee Wins at Miami in a Nose Finish

Miami, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Running a mile and 70 yards as if she were sprinting the usual six furlongs, Okaybee carried the silks of Mrs. G. W. Carroll to a thrilling victory in the East Coast claiming handicap at Hialeah Park today.

The 5 year old mare heretofore was considered only a sprinter, but today she sped over the longer route in 1:42 1-5. Mack Garner got her away fast and she sailed along three lengths in front to the top of the stretch.

The Arden Farm's Sun Shadow moved up fast, however, as the field turned for home. Garner answered the challenge by shaking up his mount and Okaybee clung to her advantage to win by a nose. Sun Shadow beat G. C. Winfrey's Aleman five lengths for the place. The winner returned $9.50 for $2.

The fastest six furlongs of the meeting was turned in when L. Ferry's Protractor stepped the distance in 1:10 2-5 to equal the track record and win the Deerfield purse. The mark was established by Rapid Transit last year.

BIDE A WEE WINS.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Coming strong in the stretch, E. R. Bradley's Bide a Wee won the Lovette purse, which topped the card at the Fair Grounds today.

The 4 year old daughter of Black Toney trailed in fourth place until the field of five hit the stretch. Then she plunged into the lead to beat the Superior stable's Kadiak, the odds-on favorite, by half a length. C. V. Whitney's Rueful, held at 4 to 1, finished third under the guidance of Eugene James.

The Bradley miss was quoted as the second choice together with the Whitney entry and paid $10.30 for $2 in the mutuels. Her time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:47 1-5.

ZAHARIAS BEATS CLINKSTOCK IN STRAIGHT FALLS

It took Zaharias 33 minutes and 10 seconds to take the first fall. It followed a series of flying tackles and two headlocks. The Greek scored the deciding fall in seven minutes and 55 seconds with another flying tackle.

Frank Brunovicz won from Jack Roller in 12:45 with a body slam. Karl Pojello won from Hans Bauer in 10:20 when the big German suffered a knee injury that forced him to quit. Ray Steele, California, made short work of Marshall Blackstock of Georgia by tossing him out of the ring. The time was 2:32. In the first preliminary, Pat O'Shocker, Salt Lake City, defeated Jack Washburn, Hollywood, in 4:27.

McMILLEN, STEINKE WIN.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A capacity crowd of 10,000 jammed the 71st regiment armory tonight for another of Promoter Jack Curley's wrestling shows.

Hans Steinke, giant German, threw Ferenc Holuban of Hungary in 9 minutes 24 seconds in the feature bout. A flying tackle was the decisive hold. Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football star, threw Matros Kirilenko in 12 minutes 31 seconds, also with a flying tackle.

RIP MILLER ADDS FLANNAGAN AND O'BRIEN TO STAFF

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Rip Miller, the navy's new football coach, has laid plans to install the Notre Dame system into the Middies. Signed as head coach last week to replace Navy Bill Ingram, Miller has added Christy Flannagan as back field coach and Johnny O'Brien to tutor his ends.

PURDUE TO HEAR RICKEY.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis National baseball club, will appear before the Purdue student body Friday night in a special address on "Sportsmanship."

LETTS, MAROON TRACK STAR, IN MILLROSE MEET

Dale Letts, University of Chicago track star, who recently set new Bartlett gymnasium marks in both the 880 and mile events, will compete in the Millrose A. C. games at New York Saturday. Letts is entered in the 880 yard run in which he will meet such famous half milers as Ray Conger, former Iowa State star, and Sera Martin, French Olympic star in 1928 who set a new world's record in the 800 meter event at that time, though it has not been officially recognized.

Lee Sentman, Illinois's star hurdler, also is expected to compete in the Millrose games.

Loyola to Play Centenary in Last Home Game

Loyola university basketball team will meet Centenary college of Louisiana at the Loyola gymnasium tonight. This is the last game Loyola will play at home this season.

List 15 Teams for Six Day Bicycle Race

John M. Chapman has announced the makeup of the fifteen teams for the six day bicycle race, which starts in the Stadium Sunday night.

The list of teams and the home countries of each rider follow:

Franco Georgetti and Paul Brocardo, Italy; Paul Buschenhagen and George Kroschel, Germany; Romer De Nef and Adolf Charlier, Belgium; Gaetano Belloni and Pietro Linari, Italy; Alfred Letourner and Marcel Guimbretiere, France; Steve Wagner and Tony Schaller, Chicago; Alfred Marxer and Mickey Rodak, Chicago; William (Torchy) Peden and Lew Elder, Toronto, Canada; Jimmy Walthour and Bobby Walthour, New York City; Gerard Debaets, Belgium, and Tony Beckman, Secaucus, N. J.; Freddie Spencer, Plainfield, N. J., and Norman Hill, San Jose, Cal.; Charley Ritter, Newark, N. J., and Dave Lands, Irvington, N. J.; Reggie McNamara, Newark, N. J., and Charley Winter, New York City; Harris Horder, Australia, and Harry Horan, Newark, N. J.; Emil Richili, Switzerland, and William Grimm, Maplewood, N. J.

Letourner and Guimbretiere won the last Chicago race, while Georgetti and Brocardo won the last New York grind. Debaets and Beckman were victors here a year ago, while De Nef and Charlier recently won a race in Belgium.

BRUINS' PRO FIVE TO MEET TOLEDO TOMORROW NIGHT

Chicago's Bruins will resume their battle for first place in the American Professional Basketball league tomorrow night when they meet Toledo at the Broadway armory.

The addition of Kintzing to the ranks of the Bruins appears to have strengthened the team. He broke in against the Majestics Sunday night and gave an excellent account of himself. Kintzing will not start against Toledo, but he is certain to show during the course of the evening. Bramhall also will be held in reserve.

ST. GODDARD IS LEADING DOG SLED RACE; WOMAN 2D

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Emil St. Goddard, Canada's leading musher, today won the first stage of the 100 mile second annual dog sled Derby, covering the 33 1-3 mile course in 2 hours 54 minutes and 14 seconds. Seven minutes and 28 seconds behind the sledmaster from The Pas was Mrs. E. P. Ricker of Poland Springs, Me., the only woman in the race.

CAPITAL, NOT LABOR, SEEN FARM WORRY

Scrutator Discusses the Rural Wage Situation.

BY SCRUTATOR.

Mention has been made here frequently of the theory that farm troubles in the United States are primarily the troubles of capital and not of labor. This theory involves the statement that, as a worker, the farmer with good equipment available to him gets as much or more per hour of labor than he ever did, and that his recompense has gone up in this respect as fast as the pay of city workers.

Discussions of the farm problem ordinarily leave out of consideration this difference between farm capitalism and farm labor. This is due to the fact that the majority of farmers are not employers except at intervals. Where in what is usually termed industry there is a sharp differentiation between the employer and the employed, often in interests as each conceives his interests, the agriculturist is accustomed to think of himself as a capitalist only.

Cites Farm Wages.

The authority of Josiah C. Folsom of the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture may be invoked to show that real farm wages, on the basis of goods and money received, equal or exceed the average full time, actual wages paid to common labor in representative industries. This is contrary to the belief commonly current.

"If in reckoning their value, the farm perquisites to wage labor are given city values instead of farm values, the comparative showing of real farm wages would be decidedly better," Mr. Folsom added.

It has been in late years a frequent complaint of farmers that they have to pay hired men more than they paid them in years gone by. When the farmer performs all his own work, or gets the help only of his family, it is probable that his work is as well paid for as the hired man's. This is additional evidence that capital and not labor troubles are at the bottom of the calls for relief that were made before the drought situation became serious.

Mr. Folsom listed board, room, fuel, food, privilege of keeping live stock feed pasturage, garden space, use of the employer's animals, tool and vehicles, and garage space as among the perquisites customary to farm workers; these in addition to their pay in money. He discovered that practically two-fifths of a permanently hired man's income on the farm was taken in kind instead of in cash.

Farm Labor's Position.

Considering the freedom from periods of unemployment and the fact that the difference in city and farm values of the products taken in kind runs nearly at a rate of a dollar a day, it is apparent that farm labor is in a much more favorable position than generally is believed.

Without its being realized, it seems that this rather high standard of farm wages has done a great deal to change the course of farming in the United States. It explains why the growing of wheat alone is becoming a non-profit occupation. That type of farming does not furnish an outlet for a sufficient number of days' work a year. It explains partly why dairying, requiring hard work daily and all day long, is growing in favor. From 1918 to 1928 per capita consumption of dairy products increased nearly 30 per cent, and the increase probably continued until the depression temporarily halted this course.

Leaving aside the temporary conditions, it is fair to assume that the farmer's troubles are largely accounted for by high taxes and large debts—mortgages are nearly three times what they were pre-war, and on land valued at about the same prices. Comparable work on the farm, where this work is actually measured as in the case of the hired man, does not seem to be more unfairly paid than city labor.

KESSLER SAYS POLICY OF OIL CONSERVATION MUST BE MAINTAINED

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Asserting that the policy of conservation of crude oil in the United States has reached a critical stage, J. B. Aug Kessler, managing director of the Royal Dutch Oil Company warned that the abandonment of conservation in this country would sound the death knell for conservation in all other crude oil producing countries except Russia and Rumania.

In a statement made in London and given out here by the New York representative of the company, the world's largest oil producer, Mr. Kessler said conservation and coöperation offered the only solution for the industry and that if conservation was halted, over production would be that much worse.

In Mr. Kessler's opinion free application of the law of supply and demand is old fashioned and out of date so far as the oil industry is concerned.

"It was right," he said, "when the industry was organized on a relatively small scale but no longer applies in the same way today."

"My conclusion is that the modern equipment of industry brings with it the absolute necessity of voluntary arrangements for conservation of production in times of over production."

Selling Defaulted Bonds.

1. What would you suggest doing with defaulted first mortgage real estate bonds—taking what can now be had or holding them and taking a chance on the results obtained by the various committees functioning for the protection of such issues?

2. Is it not true that a number of concerns now circularizing the holders of defaulted bonds and offering extremely low figures for same are attempting to get a corner, either for themselves or for others for whom they are agents, on certain issues?—W. S.

1. Except in rare cases there is no established market now for the purchase and sale of first mortgage real estate bonds. Even those houses that have been able to protect their customers against loss through default are not attempting at present to maintain an adequate market. Due to the number of bonds in default, over the counter quotations on defaulted issues rarely reflect the value of the bonds.

In view of these facts the present, in our opinion, is a poor time to sell first mortgage real estate bonds, either those that are paying interest or defaulted issues.

2. Firms or individuals circularizing holders of defaulted bonds and offering them low prices for their bonds are doing so for the purpose of making a profit on them. The small bondholder here is at a great disadvantage because it is usually impossible for him to form an accurate opinion of the worth of his bonds, whereas a prospective purchaser is likely to know their probable value.

Illinois Central.

There are $8,000,000 of these bonds outstanding. They were issued in 1921 and are not subject to call. Security consists of a deposit of $1,000,000 Illinois Central railroad refunding 4s of 1955 and $3,820,000 Illinois Central railroad-Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans railroad joint refunding 5s of 1963.

Compromise Plan May Be Offered.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Owen D. Young and half a dozen other industrialists were called tonight to counsel the house ways and means committee on plans to pay cash on veterans' bonus certificates.

Chairman Hawley announced the heads of General Motors, the American Radiator company, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and others would appear in prolonged hearings, while Chairman Smoot called the senate finance committee to meet in executive session tomorrow.

Hawley's action drew instant complaint of "delay" and "one-sidedness" from minority leader Garner. It came at the end of a day of new warnings, at both ends of the capitol, that economic disaster would follow the floating of a $3,500,000,000 bond issue to cover the cost. The house committee also heard advocates forecast beneficial results to business from enactment of the proposals.

Talk of Compromise.

There was talk, meanwhile, of a compromise that would succeed at this session. Representative Patman of Texas, a Democratic sponsor of immediate redemption, said Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] had expressed belief, after a visit to the White House, that a 50 per cent increase in loans allowed on certificates and a reduction of interest would be acceptable to the administration.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank of New York, predicted before the senate banking subcommittee that "hundreds" of small bank failures would follow a bond issue to pay the full value of the certificates.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, has been asked to testify tomorrow. He has not responded, but is expected. W. H. George, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company will be heard tomorrow. So will E. D. Duffield, of the Prudential Life Insurance company; Clarence Woolley, of the American Radiator company, and Samuel W. Reyburn, of Lord and Taylor, New York.

"Hearings could have been completed by tomorrow," said Garner—author of one pending bill. "The chairman summoned this host of financiers, and I think that the delay is totally unnecessary. Of course the financiers are against this legislation."

Favors Wound Stripes on Purses.

Representative Rankin, Democrat, of Mississippi, argued that the bonus could be paid by increasing the income tax of individuals in the higher brackets. He suggested that "we put a wound stripe on the purses" of wealthy citizens who, he said, profited in the war.

Chairman Hawley inserted a letter from James Simpson, president of Marshall Fields, Chicago, recording himself "decidedly opposed" to paying the veterans. The resulting stimulus to business, Simpson thought would be "so artificial and of such a temporary nature that it would cause inflation which would be quickly followed by a deflation."

From H. H. Weimer, national commander of Disabled American Veterans, came a statement that if compromises should "be forced upon us, we feel that any additional loan allowance should provide that loans already made should not be deducted from new loans, but carried along on the remainder of the certificates."

"We stand for full cash value," he added.

As a means of curbing stock market inflation, Mr. Mitchell recommended repeal of the capital gains tax and urged before the senate banking investigating committee that broker loans made on account of individuals and corporations be considered as part of available credit.

He said the tax on profits made from sales of securities was "one of the faults" of the taxing system and was "disastrous both in a rising and a falling market."

He expressed the opinion that over a period of years the government would get just as much if not more revenue by eliminating the tax. He said holders of securities keep them when the market is on the rise in hope of reaping more profit, and sell in a falling market to avoid paying any tax. Testifying on brokers' loans on account of individuals and corporations, known in the trade as "loans for others" or "bootleg loans," Mitchell said if the reserve system had considered these loans as part of all credit available in 1929 additional steps would have been taken to prevent the stock collapse later that year.

Views Reserve Act.

Mitchell said he saw no way of controlling such loans by individuals, but contended those from corporations should be prevented.

Mitchell described the federal reserve act as "the greatest piece of legislation in our day," but warned bank failures would continue unless all national and state banks were brought within the system.

He said the act probably would have to be modified from time to time to meet changed conditions.

Dividend Cuts by 2 Standard Firms Reflect Oil Troubles

BY O. A. MATHER.

Chaotic conditions in the petroleum industry in the last year or two, which have been attended with overproduction in spite of various restrictive measures and with price cutting, were emphasized again yesterday.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana reduced its annual dividend rate from $2.50 to $2 by cutting its quarterly payment from 62½ to 50 cents, and the Standard Oil Company of Kansas lowered its annual rate from $2 to $1 by cutting its quarterly dividend from 50 to 25 cents.

However, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey declared its usual extra dividend of 25 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of the same amount.

It is evident that the action of the Standard of Indiana directors resulted more from apprehension over the future than conditions in the past. President Edward G. Seubert said that the company more than earned its dividend in 1930, but that the "present disturbed situation in the oil industry necessitated the adoption of a highly conservative policy as to paying out earnings."

First Change Since 1923.

This is the first change in the Standard of Indiana dividend rate since 1923, when the $2.50 rate was established. It was continued after the declaration of a 50 per cent stock dividend in March, 1929. Extra cash dividends were paid in 1926, 1927, 1928, and 1929.

Yesterday's reduction in the dividend rate was unexpected in view of the fact that the Midwest Refining company, a Standard of Indiana subsidiary, last December declared an extra dividend of $14 a share, which amounted to about 50 cents a share on Standard of Indiana stock.

Standard Oil of Kansas paid its $2 rate last year, but in 1928 it paid only 75 cents and from 1924 to 1928 it paid nothing.

Another big company taking adverse dividend action yesterday was the International Nickel Company of Canada, which reduced its annual rate from $1 to 60 cents by cutting its quarterly payment from 25 to 15 cents.

President Robert M. Stanley said the directors believed "it is prudent for the time being to put the common dividend on a basis which will conserve a strong cash position." The company will not make any heavy capital expenditures this year, as it did in 1929 and 1930.

Public Utility Holding Corporation of America omitted its quarterly dividends on common and class A stocks. Three months ago initial payments of 12½ cents on each were voted.

Mail Order Sales.

While sales of the two big Chicago mail order and chain store concerns were moderately lower last month than in January, 1930, they were considered fairly satisfactory in view of the decline in commodity prices. Sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co. for the four weeks ended Jan. 29 totaled $23,042,271, a decline of $3,777,894, or 14.1 per cent, from the corresponding period in 1930. December sales showed a drop of 22.4 per cent compared with the same month in 1929.

Sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. last month totaled $16,620,238, a decline of $1,710,875, or 9.33 per cent, from January, 1930. But December sales were off 19.91 per cent from December, 1929. Sales of the National Bellas Hess company last month were $2,542,227, a decline of $147,110, or 5.47 per cent, from January, 1930. However, mail orders received were more numerous than a year ago and also exceeded in number those in November and December.

Stock Values Rise.

The advance in the stock market last month resulted in the market value of 100 representative common stock appreciating $1,657,092,000, or 7½ per cent, according to a compilation by Frazier Jelke & Co.

The aggregate value of these stocks last Saturday was $22,291,355,000, compared with $20,734,263,000 at the end of December and with $19,386,310,000 on Dec. 17, which marked the low point. However, these stocks are worth now only a little more than half their total value of $43,447,945,000 on Aug. 30, 1929, which marked the peak point before the collapse of the stock market.

Eleven of the thirteen subgroups making up the index advanced last month and two declined. The percentage gain follows: Amusements, 19.2; oils, 15.4; rails, 10.5; equipments, 9.5; merchandising, 9.1; motors, 8.7; utilities, 7.6; miscellaneous industrials, 5.7; foods, 5.7; mining, 3.9, and steels, 4-10 of 1 per cent. The chemical shares declined 3 per cent and the electrical equipments receded fourtenths of 1 per cent.

CHICAGO BUILDING PERMITS IN JANUARY AGGREGATE $2,838,400

The report of building permits issued in Chicago during January shows that construction activity is still more or less at a standstill. A total of 116 permits aggregated $2,838,400 for the first month of the year.

According to the building survey department of S. W. Straus & Co., this is a slight increase over the December, 1930, volume of $2,285,900, which was the lowest month of last year.

Chicago Stocks Listless With Trading at Low Ebb

Stocks lagged wearily on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Throughout the session trading appeared more or less listless and without any sense of direction. The great majority of price changes were only fractional, with the minus signs, perhaps, outnumbering the trivial gains here and there on the list.

Late in the day news of a rally on the big board resulted in a half hearted attempt to buoy up affairs on the Chicago board. The rally here, however, quickly snuffed out for lack of any apparent purpose.

Says Report Was "Distorted."

Gleaner Combine Harvester was a notably weak feature. Apparently it reacted to the recent statement of its new chairman of the board, W. L. Allen, that an analysis of the audit and a study of conditions disclose that the report for the year ended Dec. 31 was "somewhat distorted," and that a committee has been appointed to develop some necessary additional working capital. The stock dropped a full point to 2⅞.

Ainsworth was steady, apparently ignoring the action of directors in omitting the usual quarterly dividend of 25 cents and the sharp shrinkage of 1930 net profits from those of the 1929 boom year. Net profit of Ainsworth was $298,501, equalling $1.82 per share, whereas net profit for 1929 amounted to $1,040,129, or $6.47 a share.

Among the utilities Middle West Utilities was off fractionally. Commonwealth Edison was unchanged. Inland Utilities was up fractionally, while Insull Utility Investment was down slightly. Missouri Kansas Pipe Line was slightly lower.

Acquires Properties.

National Public Service corporation, an eastern unit of the Middle West Utilities system, has acquired all properties and holdings of the Empire Public Service corporation in Maryland and Delaware and parts of Virginia. The transaction involves the purchase of all preferred and common stock of the Maryland Light and Power company and all physicial property of the East Coast Utilities company in Delaware. It is planned to coördinate the operations of these two companies with that of the Eastern Shore Public Service company, an Insull operating company.

National Public Service, as a result of the purchase, increases its annual gross revenues to $34,260,000 and total assets to about $243,300,000.

Rises 1½ Points.

U. S. Radio enjoyed a point and a half rise, closing at 23½. Grigsby was fractionally better off, while its running mate, Majestic, suffered a slight reaction.

Among the automotive stocks Bendix and Cord were steady; Borg-Warner slipped a little bit, as did Noblitt-Sparks.

Swift & Co. yesterday was declared by the United States Supreme court as being entitled to file its claim for a refund of about $500,000 of federal taxes paid in 1917. The government had contended that the demand for the refund had not been made in time.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—Stocks were weary and heavy laden today. Traders played them "close to the vest."

Prices ruled generally lower for most of the humdrum session but an ambitious little rally got itself afoot in the last hour and made profits grow in place of the earlier losses. The belated advance was no great shakes; however, and gains of more than a point were scarce.

Pool activity was responsible for the upturn of a number of issues. What news there was argued for a recession of the price structure—a few dividend reductions including those of two

INCOME OF CHICAGO CONCERNS HOLDS UP WELL DURING 1930

Reports issued by several Chicago companies yesterday showed that earnings held up well last year despite depression. The Illinois Bell Telephone company, whose common stock is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, had net income of $12,971,590, compared with $11,075,212 in 1929. There was a net decrease of 6,566 telephones in Chicago but a gain of 6,696 in the rest of the company's territory. Gross expenditures on additions and betterments last year totaled $36,294,993.

The preliminary report of the William Wrigley Jr. company, excluding subsidiaries, showed net profit of $11,404,091, or $5.72 a share, compared with $11,454,296, or $5.72 a share, in 1929. Net profit for the fourth quarter of 1930 was $2,351,045, or $1.17 a share, compared with $2,919,383, or $1.46 a share, for the corresponding period in 1929.

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company reported net income of $8,550,056 for 1930, equal to $3.76 a share on common stock. Total sales were $98,601,662 against $100,565,166 in 1929, President C. S. Pearce announced. Total assets as of Dec. 31, 1930, were $68,509,330, against $66,964,710 on June 30 and $63,983,645 on Dec. 31, 1929. Current assets aggregated $35,881,174.

Top yesterday, $9.00; average, $8.10.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 37,000 hogs, and 18,000 sheep.

The market for all classes of live stock sagged badly under pressure of some of the largest receipts of the season yesterday. Cattle were pounded down mostly 50c when 20,000 head were dumped on the market, the largest offering since Dec. 1. Hogs declined 10@25c, the top and average at $8.05 and $7.35 being only 5c above the season's bottom. Lambs tumbled 25@50c, losing all of the recent gain. Top prices equaled the lowest since the middle of January.

Buyers held all of the advantage in the hog alleys yesterday and brought the general average price down 15c at $7.35. Outside demand was narrowest for Monday since the middle of December, but buying by smaller local packers and city butchers expanded some when a slight recovery was reported in the wholesale market for fresh pork loins.

March Light Hogs, $8.50.

The hog futures market broke mostly 25c yesterday, March light weights selling at $8.50, against $8.75 late last week. Mediums for March were offered as low as $8.15. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for next Thursday were offered at $8.10 and bid $7.95.

Trading in the cattle yards was unusually slow. Only a small amount of business was transacted during the first half of the day and many loads were carried over for today's market on 75c@$1.00 lower bids. Cows and heifers shared in the full weakness, although the increase in supplies consisted largely of steers.

Only a small share of total arrivals were good enough to bring above $10.00, the practical top steers stopping at $11.00, although traders are still quoting highly finished yearlings up to $13.00. Calves slumped mostly 50c. Stockers and feeders were purchased at a saving of 25@50c.

Top Lambs at $9.00.

Buyers forced the extreme top of the lamb market down to $9.00 yesterday, taking medium to good grades for local slaughter largely at $8.00@8.75. Aged sheep sold steady and yearlings weak to 25c lower. Feeding and shearing stock was in good demand at steady prices.

Says Santa Fe Securities and Cash Total $51,180,000

New York, Feb. 2.—W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad, said today that the road ended 1930 with cash of about $30,692,000 and government securities of $18,486,000, or a total of close to $51,180,000 in cash and securities. Although this was a decrease of about $4,000,000 in cash and $26,000,000 in securities from the close of 1929, he said, it still left the company with more cash and securities than on Dec. 31, 1928. He explained the decrease in cash and securities was due to financing the capital expenditure program from treasury resources.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and although sugars were available at last paid prices of 3.35c for spots, duty paid, refiners showed no interest and no sales reported.

The inactivity in the spot market seemed to discourage fresh or aggressive buying in raw futures and prices were easier, closing 1 to 2 points net lower. Sales were 23,850 tons. Prices follow:

Refined was unchanged, with refiners quoting 4.70c for fine granulated.

WOOL.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The offerings at the wool sales today amounted to 8,220 bales, including 1,291 South American. Bidding was active and fine and medium sorts were in demand at firm rates. Better colonial advices also stimulated the demand and practically all the offerings were sold, with prices in buyers' favor. South American grades were taken by home and continental buying at an advance of 5 per cent over the opening rates.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Cotton goods opened steady today. Buyers were more numerous in all primary dry goods markets. Baron demand continued steady. Silk goods were being cut more freely for spring. Moderate gains were reported in men's wear and women's wear shops, where quick deliveries are sought. Burlaps were fairly steady at the opening.

FARM USAGE OF CORN THIS CROP YEAR IS SMALLER

Gov't Reports Outlook for Agriculture.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Farm consumption of corn so far during the 1930-'31 crop year has been on a smaller scale than for some years past. According to the detailed government report on the agricultural outlook for the coming season stocks of corn on farms as of Jan. 1 were about 300,000,000 bu less than a year ago, and 350,000,000 bu less than the 1927-'30 average.

As supplies at the beginning of the season were 537,000,000 bu less than the previous year and 650,000,000 bu under the 5 year average, the report suggests that the disappearance during the first two months of the season was 237,000,000 bu less than in 1929, and 350,000,000 bu under the 5 year average.

About 60 per cent of the corn crop secured as grain is estimated as remaining on farms on Jan. 1, or about the same as in previous years. According to the report it is possible that there may be a moderate increase in the acreage planted for the crop of 1931. Indications are that the price of the new grain will average below that prevailing for 1930-'31.

Oats Stocks Liberal.

Stocks of oats on farms Jan. 1 were about 100,000,000 bu in excess of last year, as indicated by the agricultural outlook report. This suggested a disappearance so far this crop year of only 55,000,000 bu in excess of the previous season despite the increased feeding to live stock. The relatively small consumption is expected to be a surprise to the grain trade in view of the limited arrivals at terminal markets. It is figured that the carryover on Aug. 1 will be about the same as in 1930, although heavy feeding is probable the latter part of the crop year due to diminishing corn supplies.

Indications are that the world's carryover of wheat at the end of the 1930-'31 crop year will be about equal to the 537,000,000 bu on hand the previous year. There is nothing in the situation at the moment to indicate any material change in the world's wheat acreage in 1931 as compared with the previous year.

Corn Prices Rally.

Local sentiment generally was bearish yesterday on corn futures early, and prices declined fractionally, but ran into persistent commission house buying. A rally of around 1c from the inside figures came toward the last, due largely to short covering by early sellers. The finish was ¾@¾c higher. March was 62¾c; May, 64⅜ to 64¾c; July, 65⅝ to 65½c, and September, 65⅛ to 64¼c.

An increase of 121,000 bu in the domestic visible supply had a little effect on the corn markets, as the trade regarded the grain as small for this season of the year. Total stocks are 16,757,000 bu, against 15,215,000 bu last year. Local arrivals went largely to industries on contract, with the spot basis ½c lower to ½c higher. Buenos Aires finished ¼@⅝c higher.

No Pressure on Wheat.

There was no material pressure on the wheat market. While July dipped fractionally early, the close was ⅝c higher at 66⅛ to 66Zc. Trade in September was only fair, with first sales around 2c under July, but the spread narrowed later, with the close at 64⅞c. Old crop months were ⅛c lower, March being 79⅛c and May, 81¼c. Buenos Aires was off ⅛@⅝c for the day, while Winnipeg was dull and ⅜@½c higher. No export business of consequence was reported in Manitoba, wheats, foreigners bidding somewhat below sellers views. Liverpool closed unchanged to ¼d lower.

COTTON HAS SMALL RISE

Cotton had a fairly strong undertone yesterday, with sufficient trade developing to absorb the offerings and hold price changes within a narrow range. Chairman Legge of the farm board warns of the overproduction of cotton in a radio speech to the cabinet from Cairo, Egypt, says the Egyptian government will dispose of its holdings over a period of six years, which cotton men construe as indicating that stabilization was too expensive and a failure.

It was announced that sales by the Hunter Manufacturing company last week were the largest of any week since 1926, being 6,232 per cent of actual production. Average weekly sales for the month were the best since October and have been well over production.

Exports of cotton for the week were 76,047 bales, against 132,081 bales last year. Total since Aug. 1 aggregate 4,400,600 bales, against 4,900,000 bales last year. Into north continent for the week 11,252,382 bales, against 12,248,083 bales last year. At the close futures in Chicago were unchanged to 2 points higher, with other markets generally 2 points higher. Spots were unchanged, with New York, 10.45c; New Orleans and Houston, 10.15c, and Galveston, 10.25c. Prices follow:

LARD STOCKS INCREASE

Lard stocks in Chicago are 24,328,762 lbs, compared with 21,493,265 lbs a month ago, an increase of 2,835,497 lbs for the month. A year ago stocks were 31,101,843 lbs. Total stocks of all meats were 124,405,685 lbs against 89,692,893 lbs a month ago, and 130,378,113 lbs last year. Bellies showed a good increase for the month but are materially less than last year.

Lard and meat futures averaged lower yesterday with net losses on lard of 7½c to 12½c and on bellies 10c, as compared with Saturday's finish. Lard receipts and lower prices for hogs brought hedging and liquidating sales with buying scattered. Cash trade was slow, with an easing of prices. Liverpool lard was 3d lower to 3d higher. Exports for the week were 15,643,000 lbs against 14,361,000 lbs last year. Of bacon there were 4,900,000 lbs against 7,307,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

A WHOLE FLOOR FULL OF GOOD USED CARS

MUST BE SACRIFICED AT RETAIL WITHIN 3 DAYS OR SLOUGHED OFF TO DEALERS

We must clear out an entire floor of good used cars to make room for a line of trucks which we have just taken in. Result is we have slashed the price of 69 cars and we will dispose of them immediately, regardless of how big a loss we must take. This is your chance of a lifetime to get a good car at an unheard of saving.

Unusually liberal time payment plan this week. Generous allowance on your old car in trade. 5 days' free driving trial goes with each sale.
